O. P. A. BANS SALE OF GAS TO ALL CARS WITH THREE GALLONS IN TANKS; AFFECTS A, B, C RATIONS

British Eighth Army Pushes Toward Tripoli for Knockout

Extent of Damage Done To Rommel Is Unknown

Allied Air Power in Tunisia Increases and Losses Decrease; Russians Are Menacing Nazis at Smolensk

By JAMES M. LONG
(Associated Press War Editor)

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army struck swiftly on toward Tripoli today in a fighting pursuit, hot on the heels of the last of the German and Italian Army in Libya southwest of Zauta En Nofilia, 100 miles beyond the broken El Agheila line.

Other British forces pressed in for a knockout of perhaps 10,000 of Rommel's African Corps survivors and half of his tanks which were caught in the desert trap between Marble Arch Airfield and Matratin Gulch.

Matratin is 65 miles west of El Agheila. Thus the corridor between the trap and the fleeing Axis remnants west of Zauta En Nofilia has widened to more than 35 miles.

"The extent of the damage inflicted on the enemy in the area between Marble Arch and Wadi Matratin is not yet known," a Cairo communique declared.

Over the whole vital Tunisian front some 700 miles to the west, Allied fighters and bombers ranged with rising power and declining losses as Axis attempts at interception weakened perceptibly.

The Morocco radio broadcast what it said was a French North African communique reporting that French forces fighting on the side of the Allies had occupied an important point in Tunisia. The scene of the action was not identified and no details were given.

On the Russian central front Red Army shock troops drove into another village along the Rzhev-Vyazma rail line, a Moscow communique reported. The Russians said Toropets was well behind their lines, and indicated that a strong force from this sector was moving south in sharp menace to the main Nazi base at Smolensk, 230 miles from Moscow.

The R.A.F. sent its bombers over northwestern Germany again last night, apparently in considerable force. The British announced the loss of 18 of the raiders; the Germans claimed 21 shot down.

The bridge of shipping which the Axis was attempting to establish across the narrow mid-Mediterranean straits was running into ever-increasing losses. The Admiralty announced in London that three more of the supply ships had been damaged and probably sunk by British submarine attacks.

The Axis had not yet told its people of the costly consequences of Rommel's flight from El Agheila.

The Italian high command said attempts to encircle Axis forces west of El Agheila had failed—meaning presumably that some got away. The German high command said the withdrawal was "proceeding systematically despite attacks by British tank forces to disturb Axis movements by continuous attacks into the flank of the Axis army."

Air power weighed steadily heavier against the Axis on both flanks of the North African front.

"Extensive fighter patrols carried out by allied aircraft have entirely prevented enemy air forces from interfering with the advancing eighth army," the Cairo communique declared.

It said allied planes attacked Lampedusa Island, between Sicily and Tunisia, bombed and machine-gunned barges off the Tunisian coast, and shot down six or more big Axis planes.

Dispatches from allied headquarters in Tunisia said one of the most powerful forces of United States bombers and fighters so far sent into the attack had battered the enemy's Tunisian bases

Spangler Is Told He's All Wet in Certain Ways; 'Smith Owes G.O.P. Nothing,' Jones Says

Atlanta, Dec. 18 (AP)—Some southern Democratic leaders said today that the "solid south" was splitting at the party seams but predicted that Republicans were wasting time looking hopefully in this direction.

Their comment came quickly after new Republican Party Chairman Harrison Spangler said in Washington he was informed southerners were "much interested in forming a new party or defeating the new deal."

The new GOP chief heard further, he said, that many southern states were "seething with distrust of the new deal," and cited Oklahoma as a "perfect example."

There, he continued, E. H. Moore, a Democrat, "ran as a Republican" and defeated Senator Josh Lee, an all-out supporter of the new Deal.

Reported Harvey C. Combs, Democratic committee secretary for Arkansas:

"As far as Arkansas is concerned Mr. Spangler is all wet. It's very far fetched to believe Arkansas would do like Oklahoma."

Governor Sam Jones, of Louisiana, recent open advocate for a coalition of southern and mid-western Democrats, asserted "it is unquestionably true that the south is ripe for a political revolution, but I cannot see that this gives aid or comfort to either of the existing major parties.

"The south owes nothing to the Republican party. Its own Democratic party has failed it miserably. More recently the Democrats of the north have defied all the political traditions of the south."

Advice Is Given to College Students, Teachers to Stay

They Should Leave Only When Call Comes to Fight; 200,000 Men Will Be Sent for Training

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—National manpower and educational leaders today advised students and instructors to stay in class until called to fight as the grim strains of martial music rose to drown out that old college song on the nation's campuses.

A joint educational-military training program soon will place an estimated 200,000 potential fighting men in some 350 colleges and universities — their tuition paid by the armed forces and their lessons to be tested later perhaps on distant battlefronts.

Under the system, many who would have been college students in peacetime will drill for special war assignments and commissions.

However, Dr. Francis J. Brown, American council on education consultant, stressed that the specialized program — announced yesterday by War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox— will be put into effect only by an official military call, and will draw most of its "war students" from enlisted ranks. Others to be transferred from reserve officers training corps will be notified later, he said. Meantime the R.O.T.C. and other college training programs will continue unaffected.

Sounding the same "stand pat" note, War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt, said draft boards had been notified to defer most college medical, dental, veterinary, engineering, chemistry, physics and bacteriology students and instructors. He urged students to remain in college until called and advised others in the 18-to-19 year class to enroll as usual.

A.E.E. officials who sat in on the program-planning pointed out that the youths will be studying strictly under civilian conditions. They said control of the schools will remain completely in civilian hands although each will be assigned a "military commandant." Dr. Brown said service men will have civilian housing, food and instruction, and probably will associate with civilian co-eds. To simplify the separate housing problem, some school may empty their fraternity and sorority houses for the service men, scattering civilian students throughout the cities in other quarters.

"However," Dr. Brown said, "these decisions will be up to the institutions themselves. The military forces simply will contract for their faculties and housing, feeding and training facilities."

College girls will be urged to continue their studies to keep the schools operating on as regular a schedule as possible in wartime, officials said. Most military classes will be in separate rooms from the co-educational courses, but not in separate buildings, and classes may be mixed in some cases, the school leaders said.

Army youths will come from enlisted ranks and existing R.O.T.C. groups and will be from 18 to 22 years old. The navy enrollment from enlisted ranks will have the same age limit, but some navy trainees will come from civilian groups and must be from 17 to 19 years of age, the announcement said.

Including the estimated 93,000 service men now being trained in specialized spots such as the pre-flight schools, the program will put some 300,000 uniformed youths in college.

Henderson Quits O.P.A. For Health

Capitol Hill Issues Demand for More Leniency, Voluntary Controls

Brown Is Likely

Senator Prentiss Brown Is Considered Choice of President

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt offered no clues today as to when Leon Henderson might be formally succeeded as price administrator and told a questioner that the rationing machinery was being overhauled and revised all the time.

The questioner, at a press conference, based his query on demands from Capitol Hill that the next price administrator replace drastic rationing rules with more voluntary controls.

At first, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know what was coming in the way of changes in rationing, then went on to note its time-to-time revisions and cited as an example the new curtailment of gasoline in the east.

Asked whether there was a possibility that Henderson's price fixing and rationing duties would be divided and given to two separate individuals, Mr. Roosevelt replied he had not the faintest idea.

Replying to a further inquiry, whether those functions could be separated or whether they had to operate together, the Chief Executive said that he did not know and that the matter was in the realm of theory rather than of trying to win the war.

Gives Health as Reason

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Leon Henderson's career as aggressive boss of price administration neared an end today, his resignation already bringing demands from capitol hill for a successor who will replace drastic rules with voluntary controls.

The stocky, cigar-champing 47-year-old administrator, target of frequent congressional criticism, announced his intention to quit last night "principally," he told President Roosevelt, because of a recurrent physical disability and impaired eyesight.

The President's acceptance of Henderson's resignation, "effective upon the appointment and qualification of your successor," generally was expected to bring announcement soon of the selection of Senator Prentiss M. Brown, 53-year-old Democrat of St. Ignace, Mich., as the new O. P. A. chief.

Brown, defeated for reelection, will be ineligible to serve until the new Congress convenes January 6 because he was a member of the Congress creating the Office of Price Administration. But reliable sources have asserted his appointment is virtually certain under present plans.

Brown's associates declare he believes more can be accomplished in administering rationing orders by voluntary agreements than through compulsion. And on capitol hill, this also was the contention in many quarters.

Even as Henderson's resignation was announced, Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) called for substitution of voluntary controls for many of the price and rationing orders he said were "lacing the American people in a straitjacket."

"Any appeal for voluntary cooperation that is backed with indisputable facts instead of interminable confusion will always receive an American answer."

As an example, he said he believed a straight percentage cut in the average annual amount of fuel oil consumption would have found widespread compliance with a minimum of complaints.

Henderson, native of Millville, N. J., and a former school-teacher and economist, stepped into the Washington scene in the days of the N. R. A.

In his letter of resignation he said he always would be "readily available and eager to explain any and all O. P. A. actions for which I have had responsibility."

Mr. Roosevelt termed Henderson's task "exceedingly difficult and thankless" but one performed "with energy and unexampled courage."

"When you are ready to return to work," the President added, "I shall certainly want your assistance in some other capacity."

O.P.A. Policies Blamed For Home Front Crisis

Stores to Remain Open Until 9:30

Beginning tonight stores in Kingston will remain open until 9:30 o'clock evenings in order that people who work during the day may have an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping. The stores will remain open evenings until Christmas.

At a recent meeting of the Kingston Business Men's Association it was voted that evening hours should be observed by the stores from tonight until after the holiday. The usual opening hours will be observed in the morning.

W. P. B. Must Bear Part of Blame for Problem of Consumer Goods in the Nation

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—A congressional committee blamed Office of Price Administration policies today for a "threatened breakdown on the home front."

The committee, set up by the house last year to study the problems of small business, said in a preliminary report the nation's system of consumer goods distribution "has been seriously undermined and weakened as a result of "O.P.A. policies and a collapse which might gravely imperil the entire effort appears inevitable unless these policies are speedily corrected."

Part of the blame for existing conditions, the committee continued, must be shared by the War Production Board and the smaller war plants corporation operating under W.P.B.

It listed "price squeezes" and "inequitable distribution of merchandise" as two factors which "could and should be adjusted" by O.P.A. and W.P.B.

The committee complained of "unnecessary reports and complexity and multiplicity of regulations" under which business must operate, commenting that while "certain administrative regulations are a necessary evil," the present situation "is one of bureaucracy run riot."

Unless corrected, it said, "this factor alone will close the door of thousands of business which might otherwise remain open."

"And what is said here about unnecessary governmental red tape in the field of distribution of course applies equally to manufacturers," the report added.

Unless the conditions complained of are corrected, the committee said it would recommend at the next session of congress legislation to "compel their correction in order to avert the destruction of independent small business and, with it, the middle class of this country."

In a section devoted to "price

Axis Rout Carries Greater Meaning Than Is Apparent

Outcome of Whole Drive Against Hitler Hinges on African Debacle to Axis Forces

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Cairo, Dec. 17 (delayed)—We shouldn't let the fascination of the Axis debacle in the Libyan desert prevent us from raising our eyes so we may get a view of the tremendous potentialities of an allied victory which will drive the Hitlerites into the sea.

The outcome of the whole war is immeasurably involved.

This historic battle isn't just for the possession of the harsh Terrain over which it is being waged. It is for control of that great arterial waterway—the Mediterranean.

It should be remembered that this war is one of resources, coupled with the domination of the communications over which those resources must be moved to the theatres of action. From this standpoint the Mediterranean is one of the most vital among the strategic waters of the world.

Not only does it feed most of the countries adjacent to its shores, but it is the sole shortcut to the orient.

The Allies suffered a disaster of the first magnitude when they lost control of mare nostrum. England and America no longer could use this shortcut to reach the countries of the eastern Mediterranean, India or Burma, through which China was being fed.

That meant a long haul clear around South Africa. It meant many weeks to move a convoy of troops or supplies into Egypt by way of the Red Sea or to Russia through the Persian Gulf.

The Japs profited greatly by this allied handicap. Had the Mediterranean route been open there might have been a different story to the start of the war with the Mikado's forces.

Thus we see that the moment we drive the Axis out of Northern Africa our progress toward final victory will be vastly accelerated. Allied air forces will then have bases from which they can drive the Boche Luftwaffe from such strong positions as Sicily and

State May Drop Milk Advertising, Legalize Use of Butter Substitutes

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—The 1943 legislature, convening Jan. 6, may be asked to end state advertising of milk and legalize use of butter substitutes in public institutions as a result of war-swollen demands for New York Dairy Products.

Opposition to continuance of the eight-year-old milk advertising campaign already is reported in legislative quarters because needs of the armed forces and the lease-lend program have curtailed the supply of most milk products, including butter, for civilian use.

The 1942 legislature appropriated $300,000 to promote consumption of milk, approximately $45,000 of it to pay personnel in the State's Milk Publicity Bureau and the remainder for advertising costs.

One of the strongest foes of the annual appropriation has been Abbot Low Moffat, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee in the assembly—where the bill usually originates. He has indicated he would support any move to end the advertising campaign fund which expires automatically next July 1 unless renewed.

Possibility of legislative efforts to permit butter substitutes in public institutions was seen in the recent inquiry of Mayor La Guardia whether the state war council could authorize their use.

The council, after referring the question to Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., for an opinion, informed the New York city executive that a provision of the Agriculture and Markets Law forbids expenditure of city, county or state tax money for purchase of butter substitutes.

The only remedy lies in enactment of a repealer by the legislature. If sought, proponents presumably would contend the competitive factor has been eliminated by the scarcity of butter.

Bitter opposition, however, could be expected from dairy interests in view of the years of struggle it took them to get the prohibition on the statute books.

Ban Comes After Talk In New York

Ickes Says Statement Is to Come Later in Day From O. P. A. in Washington

Order Varies

Noon Statement From Washington Allows One Coupon's Use

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—The regional Office of Price Administration today ordered gasoline operators to refuse gasoline to all motorists with A, B and C ration cards, if they have three gallons of fuel in their tank.

The order did not apply to commercial vehicles and holders of T coupons.

The region covers all of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Regional Administrator Sylvan L. Joseph said the order was issued to prevent the practice of "pretended emergencies" by motorists now limited under a Washington O.P.A. order to the use of one rationing coupon for "emergency purposes."

Joseph said detailed instructions would be supplied filling station operators shortly.

While Joseph spoke only for region 2 over which he has jurisdiction, he indicated that the three-gallon limitation would apply to all 16 states and the District of Columbia covered in the original Washington order restricting sales as of noon today.

"Station attendants should not deliver gasoline against any but A T coupon without first checking the tank to make certain that it does not already contain three gallons of gasoline or more," Joseph said.

"This order is a temporary one to meet the critical situation. A more detailed order will be issued shortly. Meanwhile, it is up to the public and to the gasoline distributing industry to cooperate to permit the use of our very limited supplies of gasoline for essential services."

The order was issued shortly after Petroleum Administrator Ickes had conferred at City Hall with Mayor F. H. La Guardia. Ickes would not comment, but said a statement from the OPA in Washington probably would be issued later in the day.

One Coupon Use Allowed

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Gasoline sales to ordinary motorists in the eastern states were limited at noon today by a temporary federal order to the amount obtainable on one coupon of their ration book.

The Office of Price Administration put no limit on gasoline sales to commercial vehicles but banned them to holders of A, B or C ration books except for an "emergency" amount as represented by a single coupon.

The new regulation was issued, spokesmen of the O.P.A. said, to stop a run on filling stations. It will be replaced shortly—possibly later today—by a less drastic order.

President Roosevelt told his press conference that the prospective suspension of all A cards would be only temporary.

The O.P.A. spokesmen, declining to be quoted by name, said the new order might put new curtailments only on the A ration book holders.

The order did not apply to gasoline already in the tank of an automobile, but government officials already had issued a plea that motorists not drive except where absolutely essential.

The O. P. A. estimated that about 7,000,000 vehicles in the east soon would be without gasoline if the new regulation remained in effect long.

The regulation applies to all parts of the 17 states and the District of Columbia, which are in the eastern shortage area.

It means that motorists in 16 eastern states are entitled to purchase three gallons for emergency use if they have an A book or four gallons if they have B or C books. In West Virginia, a state in the area, the value of A coupons is four gallons.

The O. P. A. gave no definition of "emergency."

At the time the O. P. A. order was issued President Roosevelt, telling his press conference he had not yet seen the regulation, said the prospective suspension of all

Henderson Quits O.P.A. For Health

Capitol Hill Issues Demand for More Leniency, Voluntary Controls

Senator Prentiss Brown Is Considered Choice of President

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt offered no clues today as to when Leon Henderson might be formally succeeded as price administrator and told a questioner that the rationing machinery was being overhauled and revised all the time.

The questioner, at a press conference, based his query on demands from Capitol Hill that the next price administrator replace drastic rationing rules with more voluntary controls.

At first, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know what was coming in the way of changes in rationing, then went on to note its time-to-time revisions and cited as an example the new curtailment of gasoline in the east.

Asked whether there was a possibility that Henderson's price fixing and rationing duties would be divided and given to two separate individuals, Mr. Roosevelt replied he had not the faintest idea.

Replying to a further inquiry, whether those functions could be separated or whether they had to operate together, the Chief Executive said that he did not know and that the matter was in the realm of theory rather than of trying to win the war.

Gives Health as Reason

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Leon Henderson's career as aggressive boss of price administration neared an end today, his resignation already bringing demands from capitol hill for a successor who will replace drastic rules with voluntary controls.

The stocky, cigar-champing 47-year-old administrator, target of frequent congressional criticism, announced his intention to quit last night "principally," he told President Roosevelt, because of a recurrent physical disability and impaired eyesight.

The President's acceptance of Henderson's resignation, "effective upon the appointment and qualification of your successor," generally was expected to bring announcement soon of the selection of Senator Prentiss M. Brown, 53-year-old Democrat of St. Ignace, Mich., as the new O. P. A. chief.

Brown, defeated for reelection, will be ineligible to serve until the new Congress convenes January 6 because he was a member of the Congress creating the Office of Price Administration. But reliable sources have asserted his appointment is virtually certain under present plans.

Brown's associates declare he believes more can be accomplished in administering rationing orders by voluntary agreements than through compulsion. And on capitol hill, this also was the contention in many quarters.

Even as Henderson's resignation was announced, Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) called for substitution of voluntary controls for many of the price and rationing orders he said were "lacing the American people in a straitjacket."

"Any appeal for voluntary cooperation that is backed with indisputable facts instead of interminable confusion will always receive an American answer."

As an example, he said he believed a straight percentage cut in the average annual amount of fuel oil consumption would have found widespread compliance with a minimum of complaints.

Henderson, native of Millville, N. J., and a former school-teacher and economist, stepped into the Washington scene in the days of the N. R. A.

In his letter of resignation he said he always would be "readily available and eager to explain any and all O. P. A. actions for which I have had responsibility."

Mr. Roosevelt termed Henderson's task "exceedingly difficult and thankless" but one performed "with energy and unexampled courage."

"When you are ready to return to work," the President added, "I shall certainly want your assistance in some other capacity."

O.P.A. Policies Blamed For Home Front Crisis

Stores to Remain Open Until 9:30

Beginning tonight stores in Kingston will remain open until 9:30 o'clock evenings in order that people who work during the day may have an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping. The stores will remain open evenings until Christmas.

At a recent meeting of the Kingston Business Men's Association it was voted that evening hours should be observed by the stores from tonight until after the holiday. The usual opening hours will be observed in the morning.

Axis Rout Carries Greater Meaning Than Is Apparent

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Cairo, Dec. 17 (delayed)—We shouldn't let the fascination of the Axis debacle in the Libyan desert prevent us from raising our eyes so we may get a view of the tremendous potentialities of an allied victory which will drive the Hitlerites into the sea.

The outcome of the whole war is immeasurably involved.

This historic battle isn't just for the possession of the harsh Terrain over which it is being waged. It is for control of that great arterial waterway—the Mediterranean.

It should be remembered that this war is one of resources, coupled with the domination of the communications over which those resources must be moved to the theatres of action. From this standpoint the Mediterranean is one of the most vital among the strategic waters of the world.

Not only does it feed most of the countries adjacent to its shores, but it is the sole shortcut to the orient.

The Allies suffered a disaster of the first magnitude when they lost control of mare nostrum. England and America no longer could use this shortcut to reach the countries of the eastern Mediterranean, India or Burma, through which China was being fed.

That meant a long haul clear around South Africa. It meant many weeks to move a convoy of troops or supplies into Egypt by way of the Red Sea or to Russia through the Persian Gulf.

The Japs profited greatly by this allied handicap. Had the Mediterranean route been open there might have been a different story to the start of the war with the Mikado's forces.

Thus we see that the moment we drive the Axis out of Northern Africa our progress toward final victory will be vastly accelerated. Allied air forces will then have bases from which they can drive the Boche Luftwaffe from such strong positions as Sicily and

State May Drop Milk Advertising, Legalize Use of Butter Substitutes

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—The 1943 legislature, convening Jan. 6, may be asked to end state advertising of milk and legalize use of butter substitutes in public institutions as a result of war-swollen demands for New York Dairy Products.

Opposition to continuance of the eight-year-old milk advertising campaign already is reported in legislative quarters because needs of the armed forces and the lease-lend program have curtailed the supply of most milk products, including butter, for civilian use.

The 1942 legislature appropriated $300,000 to promote consumption of milk, approximately $45,000 of it to pay personnel in the State's Milk Publicity Bureau and the remainder for advertising costs.

One of the strongest foes of the annual appropriation has been Abbot Low Moffat, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee in the assembly—where the bill usually originates. He has indicated he would support any move to end the advertising campaign fund which expires automatically next July 1 unless renewed.

Possibility of legislative efforts to permit butter substitutes in public institutions was seen in the recent inquiry of Mayor La Guardia whether the state war council could authorize their use.

The council, after referring the question to Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., for an opinion, informed the New York city executive that a provision of the Agriculture and Markets Law forbids expenditure of city, county or state tax money for purchase of butter substitutes.

The only remedy lies in enactment of a repealer by the legislature. If sought, proponents presumably would contend the competitive factor has been eliminated by the scarcity of butter.

Bitter opposition, however, could be expected from dairy interests in view of the years of struggle it took them to get the prohibition on the statute books.

W. P. B. Must Bear Part of Blame for Problem of Consumer Goods in the Nation

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—A congressional committee blamed Office of Price Administration policies today for a "threatened breakdown on the home front."

The committee, set up by the house last year to study the problems of small business, said in a preliminary report the nation's system of consumer goods distribution "has been seriously undermined and weakened as a result of "O.P.A. policies and a collapse which might gravely imperil the entire effort appears inevitable unless these policies are speedily corrected."

Part of the blame for existing conditions, the committee continued, must be shared by the War Production Board and the smaller war plants corporation operating under W.P.B.

It listed "price squeezes" and "inequitable distribution of merchandise" as two factors which "could and should be adjusted" by O.P.A. and W.P.B.

The committee complained of "unnecessary reports and complexity and multiplicity of regulations" under which business must operate, commenting that while "certain administrative regulations are a necessary evil," the present situation "is one of bureaucracy run riot."

Unless corrected, it said, "this factor alone will close the door of thousands of business which might otherwise remain open."

"And what is said here about unnecessary governmental red tape in the field of distribution of course applies equally to manufacturers," the report added.

Unless the conditions complained of are corrected, the committee said it would recommend at the next session of congress legislation to "compel their correction in order to avert the destruction of independent small business and, with it, the middle class of this country."

In a section devoted to "price

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Approximately 200 of the 110,000 west coast Japanese who were sent to the War Relocation centers after Pearl Harbor have been released to resume normal activity in American life.

Statisticians of the War Relocation authority estimated today that others are emerging at the rate of about 10 a day, after being investigated for character and loyalty to the United States. Ban Comes After Talk In New York

Noon Statement From Washington Allows One Coupon's Use

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—The regional Office of Price Administration today ordered gasoline operators to refuse gasoline to all motorists with A, B, and C ration cards, if they have three gallons of fuel in their tank.

The order did not apply to commercial vehicles and holders of T coupons.

The region covers all of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Regional Administrator Sylvan L. Joseph said the order was issued to prevent the practice of "pretended emergencies" by motorists now limited under a Washington O.P.A. order to the use of one rationing coupon for "emergency purposes."

Joseph said detailed instructions would be supplied filling station operators shortly.

While Joseph spoke only for region 2 over which he has jurisdiction, he indicated that the three-gallon limitation would apply to all 16 states and the District of Columbia covered in the original Washington order restricting sales as of noon today.

"Station attendants should not deliver gasoline against any but A T coupon without first checking the tank to make certain that it does not already contain three gallons of gasoline or more," Joseph said.

"This order is a temporary one to meet the critical situation. A more detailed order will be issued shortly. Meanwhile, it is up to the public and to the gasoline distributing industry to cooperate to permit the use of our very limited supplies of gasoline for essential services."

The order was issued shortly after Petroleum Administrator Ickes had conferred at City Hall with Mayor F. H. La Guardia. Ickes would not comment, but said a statement from the OPA in Washington probably would be issued later in the day.

One Coupon Use Allowed

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Gasoline sales to ordinary motorists in the eastern states were limited at noon today by a temporary federal order, to the amount obtainable on one coupon of their ration book.

The Office of Price Administration put no limit on gasoline sales to commercial vehicles but banned them to holders of A, B or C ration books except for an "emergency" amount as represented by a single coupon.

The new regulation was issued, spokesmen of the O.P.A. said, to stop a run on filling stations. It will be replaced shortly—possibly later today—by a less drastic order.

President Roosevelt told his press conference that the prospective suspension of all A cards would be only temporary.

The O.P.A. spokesmen, declining to be quoted by name, said the new order might put new curtailments only on the A ration book holders.

The order did not apply to gasoline already in the tank of an automobile, but government officials already had issued a plea that motorists not drive except where absolutely essential.

The O. P. A. estimated that about 7,000,000 vehicles in the east soon would be without gasoline if the new regulation remained in effect long.

The regulation applies to all parts of the 17 states and the District of Columbia, which are in the eastern shortage area.

It means that motorists in 15 eastern states are entitled to purchase three gallons for emergency use if they have an A book or four gallons if they have B or C books. In West Virginia, a state in the area, the value of A coupons is four gallons.

The O. P. A. gave no definition of "emergency."

At the time the O. P. A. order was issued President Roosevelt, telling his press conference he had not yet seen the regulation, said the prospective suspension of all

Rickenbacker Is Back in America

Flier Reaches San Francisco and Appears Well; Is to Give His Report

San Francisco, Dec. 18 (AP)—Eddie Rickenbacker, the man who always comes back, is back in America today—suntanned, grinning and a-rarin' to go again.

He arrived yesterday wearing a set of clothes picked up all across the Pacific—a marine sun helmet, an army shirt and a pair of navy trousers.

Some deep, new lines in his face and a noticeable loss of weight gave evidence of the ordeal Rickenbacker survived after his plane, on a special mission, was forced down in the Pacific. Rickenbacker was lost for 24 days. One member of the party of seven died from the hardships.

An ambulance arrived at the airport to take the flying hero of two wars to his hotel, but Rickenbacker laughed at the idea and walked off the field under his own power.

At the hotel he was the same old Rick, laughing and joking. But there was one difference — he wouldn't talk of his experiences.

He was under army orders to give out no statement until he made his official report first to Washington. He interpreted his instructions so literally he wouldn't even talk about the weather.

It was evident though, that Rickenbacker felt pretty good to be back in America. He found it difficult to disguise his tremendous confidence in his luck—the luck that saved him time after time in a lifetime of close brushes with death.

Eddie couldn't hide, either, his anxiety to see his wife. She and Secretary of War Henry Stimson were steadfast in their confidence that Eddie would be found, while most of the world had given up hope.

GRANGE NEWS

Pomona Grange
(Official Report)

The regular quarterly meeting of the Pomona Grange was held at Highland Grange on December 4 with Worthy Master I. C. Barnes presiding. The meeting opened in the fifth degree. As several of the officers were absent, substitutions were made as follows: Steward, Kenneth Taber; Assistant Steward, J. Wells Weaver; Gate keeper, Albert Kurdt. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The hall was decorated with Christmas greens, roses and chrysanthemums, the gift of Brother David Benjamin. These were later taken to the sick and to Sister McCormick. The flowers were presented in honor of the 52nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick.

Brother William H. Leadbetter and his wife of Mohigan Lake were present and Brother Leadbetter gave an excellent report of the work of the Westchester, Putnam, Orange, Ulster and Rockland Insurance Company. He said the company is continually writing up insurance and that the losses were not expensive. He thanked the Pomona Granges for their invitation to attend the meetings.

Brothers Barnhart, Story and Schreiber spoke of special advantages to be had in Grange insurance.

Brother Albert Kurdt spoke of the success of the county fair, of the excellent attendance and exhibits. As the premium checks have been received within the past month, every exhibitor is urged to cash his checks promptly as the committee is unable to make a report until all checks are cashed.

Worthy Deputy Harold V. Story presented the Grange with a certificate that he had received for Pomona's share in the Diamond Jubilee and read a letter.

A recess was called until 8 p. m. when a dinner was served by the Highland Grange.

After dinner the Grange reopened. Application for membership to Pomona Grange, of Brother George Sisti was presented and accepted and Worthy Master Barnes obligated him in the 5th degree.

Worthy Deputy Story's report was, as always, interesting and constructive. He urged all patrons to try to fill the places of the boys and girls who are in the service of our country, asking the older ones especially to fill in and work harder. He asked that Grange members fill their cars in order to save gas and tires. He asked all delegates to State Grange at Syracuse, on December 7 to 11 to attend faithfully. He congratulated Highland Grange on their beautiful decorations, delicious dinner and last but not least, on their hospitality.

Reports of the subordinate Granges were read by the Secretary, Sister Mary M. Brink, of Lake Katrine.

The literary program was presented by the Worthy Lecturer, Sister Gladys Mears of Highland. The first part of her program pertained to the prevention of accidents, particularly in the home where a large percentage of them take place. She presented large cartoons showing causes of accidents and discussed their prevention. She also asked each lecturer to prepare a program book.

Various members gave talks on nutrition and other wartime features.

The Christmas program followed. Christmas carols were sung, tableaux presented and readings given.

A general discussion followed the program.

The death of Brother William Whitaker of Sullivan county was reported and the secretary asked to send a note of sympathy to Sister Whitaker.

The next meeting of Pomona Grange will be held at New Paltz in March. Pomona Lecturer Mears requested that the New Paltz, Plattekill and Rosendale lecturers present one-third of the program for that meeting.

A discussion on "The World After the War" followed.

Sister Bell presented Pomona with a $100 war bond, with Brothers Barnes and Schrieber and Sister Young taking part in the presentation. She reported that $65 had been contributed toward the revolving scholarship fund. Sister Elliott, the new chairman of the Service and Hospitality Committee, then presented the retiring chairman, Sister Bell, with a pin. The meeting was then closed in due form.

To Channel 100,000 Homeward Bound Students

New York, Dec. 18—The nation's colleges will copoerate to channel an estimated 100,000 homeward bound students into the Christmas holiday rail traffic with a minimum strain on railroad facilities, Dr. Guy E. Snavely of the Association of American Colleges announced today.

"We have been informed that on certain days as many as one-half of the Pullman Company's entire fleet of cars are required for troop movements, severely limiting accommodations for civilian travel," Dr. Snavely said. "Under these circumstances students would undoubtedly face travel difficulties unless the colleges cooperate to the fullest extent to ease the carriers' burden during the critical holiday period."

A survey indicates that virtually all colleges and universities with large numbers of students who travel to and from their homes by rail are cooperating with schools in the same area so that none closes or re-opens on the same day, Dr. Snavely said.

"Collegiate authorities responding to the survey express confidence that this 'staggering' of dates will provide sufficient leeway so that the added burden of student travel on railroad and Pullman facilities will be held to a minimum," he said.

Indirect aid in reducing student travel is the accelerated program of studies instituted as a wartime measure. As a result most of the customary vacation periods have been abbreviated or eliminated entirely. The spring vacation will, in most instances, be eliminated, while there will be only a brief interval between Commencement day and the start of summer sessions.

Benefits Are Paid To 82,000 Workers In New York State

Albany, N. Y. Dec. 17—Unemployment insurance benefits totaling $3,890,045 were paid to more than 82,000 unemployed workers in New York State during the month of November in the form 286,583 individual checks, it was announced today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. This disbursement represents a decline of 34.7 per cent from the amount paid in October—a reflection, to some extent, of the more than 35.000 claimants who have drawn all the benefits to which they are entitled for the current benefit year.

During the week ending November 27, 88,214 individuals were actively pursuing their benefit rights. These included 59,984 persons who were receiving benefits, 9,435 who were serving the required waiting period, and 2,139 whose claims were being adjusted. The active insurance file in New York State since the last week in July has fallen off by 120,000—a decline of 58 per cent.

November payments for the Kingston employment office amounted to $10,492 for the 1942-1943 benefit year, in the form of 805 separate checks.

New York city benefit payments amounted to $3,100,000—77.6 per cent of all benefits distributed in the State during the month. Payments to unemployed workers in New York city declined 34.6 per cent from October; those to workers outside of New York city decreased 36.8 perceent. Former New York State workers, now unemployed and residing to other states, collected a total of $228,382 in unemployment compensation.

Contributions received from employers during the month totaled $35,312,253. At the end of November, the Unemployment Insurance Fund totaled $408 million.

Rickenbacker Is Back in America

Flier Reaches San Francisco and Appears Well; Is to Give His Report

San Francisco, Dec. 18 (AP)—Eddie Rickenbacker, the man who always comes back, is back in America today—suntanned, grinning and a-rarin' to go again.

He arrived yesterday wearing a set of clothes picked up all across the Pacific—a marine sun helmet, an army shirt and a pair of navy trousers.

Some deep, new lines in his face and a noticeable loss of weight gave evidence of the ordeal Rickenbacker survived after his plane, on a special mission, was forced down in the Pacific. Rickenbacker was lost for 24 days. One member of the party of seven died from the hardships.

An ambulance arrived at the airport to take the flying hero of two wars to his hotel, but Rickenbacker laughed at the idea and walked off the field under his own power.

At the hotel he was the same old Rick, laughing and joking. But there was one difference — he wouldn't talk of his experiences.

He was under army orders to give out no statement until he made his official report first to Washington. He interpreted his instructions so literally he wouldn't even talk about the weather.

It was evident though, that Rickenbacker felt pretty good to be back in America. He found it difficult to disguise his tremendous confidence in his luck—the luck that saved him time after time in a lifetime of close brushes with death.

Eddie couldn't hide, either, his anxiety to see his wife. She and Secretary of War Henry Stimson were steadfast in their confidence that Eddie would be found, while most of the world had given up hope.

Ban Is Ordered

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Names of the cities were not announced.

GRANGE NEWS

Pomona Grange
(Official Report)

The regular quarterly meeting of the Pomona Grange was held at Highland Grange on December 4 with Worthy Master L. C. Barnes presiding. The meeting opened in the fifth degree. As several of the officers were absent, substitutions were made as follows: Steward, Kenneth Taber; Assistant Steward, J. Wells Weaver; Gate keeper, Albert Kurdt. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The hall was decorated with Christmas greens, roses and chrysanthemums, the gift of Brother David Benjamin. These were later taken to the sick and to Sister McCormick. The flowers were presented in honor of the 52nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick.

Brother William H. Leadbetter and his wife of Mohigan Lake were present and Brother Leadbetter gave an excellent report of the work of the Westchester, Putnam, Orange, Ulster and Rockland Insurance Company. He said the company is continually writing up insurance and that the losses were not expensive. He thanked the Pomona Granges for their invitation to attend the meetings.

Brothers Barnhart, Story and Schreiber spoke of special advantages to be had in Grange insurance.

Brother Albert Kurdt spoke of the success of the county fair, of the excellent attendance and exhibits. As the premium checks have been received within the past month, every exhibitor is urged to cash his checks promptly as the committee is unable to make a report until all checks are cashed.

Worthy Deputy Harold V. Story presented the Grange with a certificate that he had received for Pomona's share in the Diamond Jubilee and read a letter.

A recess was called until 8 p. m. when a dinner was served by the Highland Grange.

After dinner the Grange reopened. Application for membership to Pomona Grange, of Brother George Sisti was presented and accepted and Worthy Master Barnes obligated him in the 5th degree.

Worthy Deputy Story's report was, as always, interesting and constructive. He urged all patrons to try to fill the places of the boys and girls who are in the service of our country, asking the older ones especially to fill in and work harder. He asked that Grange members fill their cars in order to save gas and tires. He asked all delegates to State Grange at Syracuse, on December 7 to 11 to attend faithfully. He congratulated Highland Grange on their beautiful decorations, delicious dinner and last but not least, on their hospitality.

Reports of the subordinate Granges were read by the Secretary, Sister Mary M. Brink, of Lake Katrine.

The literary program was presented by the Worthy Lecturer, Sister Gladys Mears of Highland. The first part of her program pertained to the prevention of accidents, particularly in the home where a large percentage of them take place. She presented large cartoons showing causes of accidents and discussed their prevention. She also asked each lecturer to prepare a program book.

Various members gave talks on nutrition and other wartime features.

The Christmas program followed. Christmas carols were sung, tableaux presented and readings given.

A general discussion followed the program.

The death of Brother William Whitaker of Sullivan county was reported and the secretary asked to send a note of sympathy to Sister Whitaker.

The next meeting of Pomona Grange will be held at New Paltz in March, Pomona Lecturer Mears requested that the New Paltz, Plattekill and Rosendale lecturers present one-third of the program for that meeting.

A discussion on "The World After the War" followed.

Sister Bell presented Pomona with a $100 war bond, with Brothers Barnes and Schrieber and Sister Young taking part in the presentation. She reported that $65 had been contributed toward the revolving scholarship fund. Sister Elliott, the new chairman of the Service and Hospitality Committee, then presented the retiring chairman, Sister Bell, with a pin. The meeting was then closed in due form.

To Channel 100,000 Homeward Bound Students

New York, Dec. 18—The nation's colleges will coporate to channel an estimated 100,000 homeward bound students into the Christmas holiday rail traffic with a minimum strain on railroad facilities, Dr. Guy E. Snavely of the Association of American Colleges announced today.

"We have been informed that on certain days as many as one-half of the Pullman Company's entire fleet of cars are required for troop movements, severely limiting accommodations for civilian travel," Dr. Snavely said. "Under these circumstances students would undoubtedly face travel difficulties unless the colleges cooperate to the fullest extent to ease the carriers' burden during the critical holiday period."

A survey indicates that virtually all colleges and universities with large numbers of students who travel to and from their homes by rail are cooperating with schools in the same area so that none closes or re-opens on the same day, Dr. Snavely said.

"Collegiate authorities responding to the survey express confidence that this 'staggering' of dates will provide sufficient leeway so that the added burden of student travel on railroad and Pullman facilities will be held to a minimum," he said.

Indirect aid in reducing student travel is the accelerated program of studies instituted as a wartime measure. As a result most of the customary vacation periods have been abbreviated or eliminated entirely. The spring vacation will, in most instances, be eliminated, while there will be only a brief interval between Commencement day and the start of summer sessions.

Yale Holds Commencement

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 18 (AP)—Minus the usual elaborate peacetime academic pageantry, Yale's first mid-winter commencement week—reduced to two days under the university's accelerated wartime program—gets underway this evening. The climax will be reached on Saturday, however, when degrees are handed out to 578 seniors, more than two-thirds of whom will leave almost immediately for active military service.

Limbs pruned from ornamental evergreen shrubs or from trees felled for fuelwood or sawlogs may provide much of the material for Christmas decorations in the home. Decorations should be made from fresh material cut just before the holidays.

For the fifth time, inventory has been made of the historical manuscripts of the Patent and Township of New Paltz. They have been classified and mounted on cardboard plates. Thus they can be examined without danger of being frayed or lost. The collection is notable and has attracted attention ever since Washington Irving bought Martin Van Buren out to see them in 1831. The oldest item is the Indian Bill of Sale for the Lands of the Paltz of May 28, 1677. A complete catalogue of the papers has been made on index cards. At an early date, a typed copy will be accessible at the Elting Memorial Library. The compilers, Dr. Arnold Verduin and Warren Sherwood, feel that thanks are due to Mr. Terpenning, the clerk of the town of New Paltz, to Miss Esther Bensley of the art department of the New Paltz State Teachers' College for valuable assistance; to Dr. Lawrence VandenBerg, also of the college for the cardboard, to Peter H. Harp, for the hospitality of his office while the work was being done, and to the Arts and Crafts Club of the college for the cover.

Tech. Corp. Daniel D. Bollin, son of George M. Bollin, spent the past week-end with his father. He is stationed at Fort Meade, Maryland.

AXIS TRICKS

The surprise attack is peculiarly an Axis trick. Germany invaded Poland without warning, and later opened the Russian war by destroying thousands of Soviet planes—the first indication that the two countries were at war. Likewise Pearl Harbor was not the only instance of a treacherous assault in times of peace by the Japanese; they had played the same trick on Russia in 1904.

In Germany, at least, this practice of treachery goes back a long way. Frederick the Great of Prussia, who as "our Fritz" has been a national hero in Germany for nearly two centuries, began his reign by seizing Silesia, without warning, from Austria. Frederick had previously signed a treaty agreeing to respect all of Austria's possessions; that made no difference to him.

The trouble is that in all these cases, treachery paid. Frederick was able to keep Silesia, and it remains German to this day. The unheralded German attacks on Russia and Poland were of great advantage to the Nazi conduct of the war. The Japanese assault on Russia gave them a lead which they were able to keep throughout the war. Everybody knows what a handicap the Pearl Harbor attack has been to the United States.

The war will not have been really won if this business of treachery is not so severely punished that it will never be resorted to again.

SMALL BUSINESS

One of the most important bits of news from Washington lately was this little item: "The Senate small business committee today summoned representatives of more than 50 trade associations of wholesalers and retailers to a conference January 19-21, on proposals to improve the credit system, to provide capital for expansion, conversion and re-entry of small businesses into the nation's economy after the war."

Many people, perhaps, have not thought much about "small business" in general, the vital part it has played in the American system of free enterprise, and the importance of sustaining it through a difficult time. Little business on the whole is as important as big business, and its disappearance would be a sad loss to the "American way."

Little business means personality, independence and variety in business life, as compared with the impersonal control that tends to develop in modern times. It may not be quite so "efficient" in some ways as its big competitors, but it is more human, and it performs many services better than its competitors can do. One of the oldest and most cherished forms of American democracy must not become a permanent war casualty.

SHINPLASTERS

"No shinplasters!" says Secretary Morgenthau. He refers to the paper currency that during the Civil War replaced nickels, dimes and quarters. Metal for minting was scarce then as now, and local communities tried to make good the lack by issuing paper tokens, good for three, five, ten cents and up. They were a great nuisance, were easily counterfeited or spoiled, and proved a costly experiment. Yet they continued to provide most of the country's currency for retail purposes till the passage of the Bland-Allison Silver Act of 1878. The government says that $15,000,000 of this currency is still unaccounted for, of which it is estimated that $2,000,000 may be in private collections. The rest is either lost, or else survives in some forgotten nook.

The Revolution had its shinplasters, too, and found them equally detrimental. Today it is hoped to avoid them. That is why Secretary Morgenthau has condemned a scheme of the Boise, Ida., Merchants' Association to use paper one-cent pieces. The motive is patriotic, but the idea does not work.

CHILD REFUGEES

When the bombings were going on in the British Isles in 1940 and 1941 a good deal was heard of the reception here and in Canada of children sent over for the duration by their parents. Also of other children evacuated because parents had been killed. Lately not so much has been heard of them.

Mrs. Edna Blue, executive chairman of the Foster Parents Plan for War Children, has been telling of the work of this group. The Foster Parents Plan started in Spain during the civil war. Later, centers were opened in southern France for the care of such children, but had to be closed when the Nazis moved in. The Plan, however, operates forty-one children's projects in England and cares for Polish, French, Czech, Dutch, Belgian, Hungarian, Norwegian, Spanish, British and German anti-Nazi children. The people in charge have, so far, helped more than 20,000 children.

In this country many foster parents are taking care of one or more of these bereaved children. W. L. White's Margaret, told about in his "Journey for Margaret," was taken from one of the child-care centers, the Hampstead Nursery. There are thousands—millions—of other bereaved, malnourished, homeless "war children." How to bring them up to happy lives of constructive usefulness will be one of the great post-war problems.

CONGRESS ECONOMIZES

Congress is, in a way, the national scapegoat. It is blamed for anything that goes wrong, and seldom gets credit for whatever it does right. One particular accusation often made, sometimes with justice, is that the congressman is ever on the lookout for legal ways to feather his own nest. Allowed money for clerk hire, he may put on the payroll his wife or other members of his family: and his zeal for economy in other places is rarely felt here.

On this account fairness should dictate praise for the latest example of congressional economy. The new appropriation for the legislative department, that is for the salaries of congressmen and their assistants, is $27,682,000, a cut of two millions, or nearly 10 per cent from last year. This is particularly grateful just now because congressmen, like every one else, are finding extra work piled on them. They could make a good case for an increased appropriation. Instead, they have reduced it. This should offset some of the loose condemnation.

It's never too late to buy bonds and stamps for Christmas presents.

BARBITAL DRUGS

One of the mistaken acts of kindness is advising a patient under treatment by a physician that he is getting the wrong medicine, that some one who took this medicine had nearly lost his life; he just stopped taking the medicine in time.

For many years patients with stomach disturbances have been taking baking soda to obtain relief. Then it was rumored that baking soda wore off the coat of the stomach and many of these stomach sufferers stopped using it. Investigation of the effect of baking soda on the stomach showed that it had been used daily for as long as seven years without causing any damage to the lining of the stomach. The only reason baking soda is not used as much for stomach disturbances now is that other alkalis or combination of alkalis have been found more effective in some cases.

For perhaps hundreds of years the remedy used in epilepsy was the bromides. It quiets the patient but it has a most depressing effect. When it was found that the barbital drugs would quiet the nerves and actually prevent epileptic attacks in most cases, it was a great boon to patient and physician. The routine treatment for epilepsy now is cutting down on all liquids and starch foods, increasing the fat foods, and the use of a barbital drug is prescribed by the physician. Dilantin sodium is also used.

Now just as with other useful drugs, the epileptic is just getting along nicely under this treatment when some friend or acquaintance warns him that barbital drugs are not only dangerous to life but will send him "out of his mind". This friend or acquaintance has no selfish motive and really thinks he is helping the patient.

What about the use of barbital drugs in epilepsy; will they damage the mind?

In Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry (brain and behavior) Drs. E. Somerfeld Ziskind and E. Ziskind state that phenobarbital (luminal) can be given in 1½ grain doses twice or thrice daily for two years without doing any damage to the brain. This is longer than the doses given in the great majority of cases.

Intelligence tests were carried out before treatment, one month later, and again one year afterwards. The average intelligence and mental age for each age was essentially the same after treatment as it was before.

Diet In Epilepsy

Many epileptic sufferers are helped very greatly by observing a few simple diet suggestions. Send today for this leaflet entitled 'Diet Suggestions in Epilepsy'. To obtain it just send Five Cents (coin preferred) to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Postal Station O, New York, N. Y., and ask for this leaflet by name, mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

THE STOCK MARKET?

Babson Reviews Volume, Prices and Dividends

Wilmington, Dela., Dec. 18—In the year that has passed since Pearl Harbor we have seen the lowest volume of stock market trading since 1914. It amounted to only 108,863,000 shares. This is 22 per cent under the corresponding period of a year ago. During the past year rail averages went up about 0.32 while industrials were down approximately 7.89. And this during a period when London, Berlin and Amsterdam markets moved consistently upward under a heavy volume of buying.

Some Explanations

It, therefore, may not be possible to obtain many good stocks during the coming twelve months at prices which have prevailed during the past twelve months. A preponderance of bad news, Government financing, tax uncertainties, the normal shocks and mental stagnation of war have all had their effects on the stock market. Even though the belief has been current, that in view of inflation, equities are better to hold than cash, there has been but little buying for hedging.

Lack of ready cash by well-to-do investors has also helped to slow down market activity. Except in a real stock market boom, such as in 1928 and 1929, the public has never participated much in the purchase of listed securities. Usually this group get in during the last few months of a sustained rise. They contribute little except "small change" to rising volume and prices. Wealthy individuals, estates, insurance companies and institutions—formerly heavy buyers of securities—are now obliged to use their available funds for income taxes and the purchase of government bonds. Hence, these groups are no longer an important factor in the stock market.

Business and Dividends

For nearly all types of businesses represented by New York Stock Exchange issues, volume has been at record heights. Amusement, copper, steel, utility, rubber, airplane, and mail order companies have all enjoyed an extremely heavy gross business. Furthermore, in spite of allowances for high corporation taxes, dividends have been generous with many companies declaring year-end extras. However, aggregate dividends for 1942 will not be as large as they were in 1941. Unlike the case in recent past years, a fair share of regular dividends and most of the extra dividends will not go back into the market for the purchase of additional shares.

In all probabilities many companies have passed, or are passing, their peak volume of business for the war period. Necessary capacities for war production are nearly, if not entirely, reached. If and when some critical materials are released or higher priorities are available to certain concerns, as in the case of rail equipment companies, they may do better in 1943. This can also be true of companies selling equipment to municipalities. Dividends, too, may have passed the honeymoon stage. While they may continue generous in individual instances, the total for 1943 may not rise above that of this year. I am, however, generally bullish on the prices of good stocks.

War and Peace Stocks

At the recent Annual Business Conference in Babson Park, Massachusetts, I made the statement that stocks which suffered most during the war would prosper most after the war. These include most of the so-called "peace issues." From now on we shall probably face a wave of peace rumors. Peace stocks will rise and fall with them. Of these I will treat further in my Annual Review. If it turns out to be a long war there is probably still some gravy in the war stocks. But investors and management alike are worried over the re-negotiation of contracts. Until this question is definitely settled it will have a bearish influence.

Opportunities Ahead

To balance unforeseen losses, the investor is justified in seeking at times speculative profits. Income alone from securities will rarely compensate for declining profits caused by events beyond the control of the cautious investor or outside the scope of ordinary common sense buying. Hence, the wide awake investor must be continually on the lookout for special opportunities through which to maintain his principal. "Special situations," however, require careful study and selections should carefully be made. By these I do not mean the entirely new fields of manufacturing and promotion which some "smart" salesman may come around with as an "after the war certainty."

New uses for old products, new techniques in production, the creation of synthetics and the chances for investment in thoroughly deflated situations may offer the best for profits. Real estate equities unhampered by mortgages are a case in point. Of this latter, I hope some week to write in detail. Yet, for the imaginative and courageous investor there are many opportunities to turn losses into profits. I care not for the circumstances. Even under the worst conditions someone is always making money.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

During the year 1914 the city's health board, under the administration of Palmer Canfield as mayor, adopted a new milk code to conform with the state milk code, and at the annual meeting of the health board on December 28, 1914, the board elected Dr. Harold Clarke, local veterinarian, to serve as sanitary inspector of the board, commencing his new duties on January 1, 1915.

Dr. Clarke succeeded the late Frank P. Quigley, who had been serving as sanitary inspector. Among the new duties added to the job of sanitary inspector in 1915, was that of visiting all farms supplying milk to the city, and to grade the milk sold to consumers here under the provisions of the new city and state code.

This year Dr. Clarke is rounding out 27 years of service with the health board. In late years his duties are of inspecting the farms supplying milk to the city, and also all of the milk plants in the city, taking samples of the milk sold to consumers, and seeing to it that the milk was properly graded and complied with the provisions of both the city and state code.

During the first World War, Dr. Clarke and Dr. Frank A. Johnston, who was then serving as the city's health officer, were granted leaves of absence to serve with the armed forces.

At the close of the World War, Dr. Clarke returned to Kingston and resumed his duties with the health department, a position he had held ever since.

Dr. Clarke is one of the best known veterinaries in Kingston and the Hudson river valley, and his many years of service with the health department has made him thoroughly acquainted with all of the milk producers who supply the city market.

It is also interesting to recall that at the 1914 health board meeting the board re-elected Fred Sahloff to serve as secretary, and that Fred M. Dressel was elected plumbing inspector.

I recall that on September 25, 1918, the Bureau of Social Service in the Municipal Building on East O'Reilly street was closed as Mrs. Laura MacMillan, who had charge of the office, had resigned to take up her new duties with the newly organized Labor Board.

With the skip stop system in operation on the city's bus lines it is interesting to recall that the system was first placed in effect on the trolley lines on September 22, 1918. At that time it was done to conserve electricity, and today it is done to conserve gasoline and tires.

CURFEW PLEA PRESENTED

An appeal for a curfew which would close movie houses, theatres and public houses in Cardiff at 9 o'clock has been presented by that city's government to Sir Gerald Bruce, Regional Commissioner for Wales. Clearance of streets of all but war workers by that hour also is sought as the result of a growing toll of blackout accidents and the shortage of bus drivers. Some transit men are working 100 hours a week, and repeated assaults have been made on bus conductors.

MILLION GULLS FLEE

Flight of a million seagulls to farms two miles inland from the beach predicted, hours in advance, the whirlwind which hit Ninety-mile Beach, near Wainui Junction, New Zealand, with devastating force last summer. E. L. Frost, New Zealand ornithologist, said the gulls apparently were warned by instinct of the storm's advance. He pointed out that all the gulls faced northwest on reaching sanctuary, packing into a narrow strip of farmland in their unique migration.

Tendency Toward Making Pacific War Secondary Disturbing to Those Aware to Far Eastern Conflict

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 18—Emphasis is on North Africa and Europe because the distances are shorter and the fighting is in some respects more spectacular, but the tendency to regard the Pacific war as a separate conflict or a a secondary segment of a global war is causing grave concern among those who are familiar with the Japanese-American operations.

The theory that Japan can be taken care of by a combined British-American fleet after Hitler is conquered is the prevalent one but among the Far Eastern experts this is considered a highly dangerous and risky appraisal of the situation.

Instead, it is asserted confidently by the advocates of a more intensive Pacific war that if the United Nations neglect the Japanese front, they will pay for it in hundreds of thousands of lives in 1944 and 1945, if not subsequent thereto.

The Japanese need time. The United Nations are giving them plenty of it by allowing the United States Navy and a relatively small army and air force to carry on the whole job.

It is true that the United States Navy has taken a terrific toll of the Japanese and that in nearly every battle the American ships have been outnumbered, but it is also true that the Japanese have a major navy, and all of it is in one ocean, while the United States divides its strength between two oceans.

If the British navy is going to be any help to the United States Navy in the Pacific, if the aircraft now building in such big quantities is to be of any avail to the meagre American forces stationed in the Pacific, the time for such help is now before the Japanese can consolidate their positions and entrench themselves for several years of war.

On account of the censorship, very little has been made public as to the actual number of American ships or planes or troops in the Pacific area, but, judging by the official communiques and the news dispatches, it may be assumed that the United States has put into the Far East a relatively small force to carry on a major war.

Is this kind of dispersal of our forces adequate? Is it fair to the forces now in the Pacific? There can be no doubt that the American marines, fliers and naval units have done a magnificent job thus far. Their acts of daring and heroism are unexampled. The general public, however, doesn't know how much of these operations have been conducted virtually on a shoestring.

But the Japanese know. They have a fairly accurate idea of what we have done in the Pacific and their reconnaissance planes have kept them advised as to the general nature of our fighting units. The Japanese would prefer to compel the United States to confine herself to an island by island campaign, because this may take years to consummate.

What the Japanese would not like is the sending of a major expedition such as went to North Africa, with a fleet big enough to protect landings in strategic areas on the Asiatic Japanese mainland. A route to China must be opened soon, or the Japanese will close off the Burma road for years to come. More and more offensive operations must be undertaken in 1943, or the course of the Japanese-American war will be lengthened to such an extent that, long after the Hitler war is over, the sacrifices of American boys will continue on a scale far more bloody than those which may be encountered in Europe.

The armchair strategists who insist that Hitler is the main objective and that all will be well when the European war is over do not know the Japanese nor do they know the estimates of Japanese fighting power being made by those who do not sit in armchairs but actually come in contact with the enemy in the South Pacific and in China.

The biggest single deficiency in the Pacific is air power. The Washington tendency is to give everything to Europe, despite the pleas for more aid to the Pacific. The news that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker took off in a plane that was mechanically inadequate and that the bomber he was to use had to be employed in another mission furnishes an indication of how hard it is to get bombers diverted to Pacific uses. A few hundred big bombers sent to the Pacific today in addition to those already there can change the trend of the fighting, but if all eyes are to be fixed on Europe and the Pacific is to wait its turn, the cost in the end may be so big that when they get all the facts some day, the American people will protest bitterly the neglect of our forces in the Pacific.

"WARNING TO THE WEST," by Shridharani.

Although it was probably intended well, Shridharani's "Warning to the West" will be considered by many readers an inopportune and rather arrogant statement of the East-West position as he sees it today. And inconsistent as well—

Shridharani says, in effect, that either the "Saxons" do what India wants, or else. But it is not quite as simple as that sounds, for I have been unable to determine what India wants from Shridharani's book. It appears not even to be united on the matter of independence, although a majority of the career-patriots of India do want independence on the face of their demands. He feels that it is hopeless at the moment to expect much from Britain, and believes that the United States must force whatever action is taken. He has no ideas of value as to how one ally can force another to do what a third party bids, and little conception, to judge by what he writes, of the disastrous possibilities the attempt might entail.

Shridharani's ideas are succinctly expressed when taken individually, but are often conflicting. He bases a large share of his argument on what he calls the arrogance of the Saxons (meaning, of all things, Britain and the United States, the latter of which is about as Saxon as India). But it would be difficult to find more arrogant writing than Shridharani's even in England 50 years ago.

This western attitude has produced an East-West complex based on race, he says, the colored race of the Orient against the "dominant" white races of the West. Yet on another page, he makes the point that Indians are of the Caucasian race. Nor does he conceal more than superficially his contempt for some colored races, Japan, for example.

His statement of Japan's propaganda aims is the best part of his book, and there is one specific warning of importance. It is against the collaborative activities in India of Subhash Chandra Bose. The next most important thing in the book is the oblique, unintended warning against Indian politics; it is difficult to see what can be done now to reconcile conflicting viewpoints, and one gathers it might be dangerous to try.

RATION CHOICE TO START

Compensated rationing is now under way in Sweden, a Stockholm report discloses. Persons allowed extra rations of tobacco, for example, are required to give up a corresponding portion of their coffee ration. Meanwhile tobacco acreage has been increased in an effort to meet requirements based on dwindling stocks of the Tobacco Monopoly. Imports in 1941 were only 44 per cent of needs, and the monopoly stores have been further curtailed since.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Not long ago W. P. B. got a request for priorities on a 100-foot conveyor belt from a manufacturer that produces for both military and civilian consumption.

One of the W. P. B. officials wrote back to ask what percentage of the company's output was going to the Army and Navy. The reply to that was "60 per cent."

"In view of your letter of December 5," the W. P. B. came back, "we are clearing priorities for you on 60 feet of conveyor belt."

Representative Harry L. Englebright (R., Cal.) loves to tell the story on himself about the time he addressed one of the Washington Negro church congregations.

It was the congressman's first appearance before a Negro audience. He was nervous and apparently showed it.

The pastor gave him a reassuring smile and stepped forward to introduce him.

"Brothers and sisters," he began, "I want to introduce the representative from California, the Honorable Mr. Harry L. Englebright. I know him well, and I assure you that although his face may be white, his heart is black."

Wartime transportation problems in Washington have produced some lulus, but the two all-time highs came recently. First, when a bus got lost on the downtown trip from Chevy Chase Circle, a checker was amazed to discover the No. 2 bus on the No. 4 route, nearly a mile from where he should have been.

He shouted the bus driver down and wanted to know just what-in-what he thought he was doing, driving a No. 2 on the No. 4 route. The poor driver said he knew he was wrong, but that he was a new man and didn't know the No. 2 route. No. 4, he explained, was the only one he did know, and he figured it was better to drive that one than get lost completely.

This was topped only by the new motorman who got himself and his trolley completely lost. Taking a switch wrong, he was well on his way to the suburban community of Cabin John, Maryland, before passengers and a route checker caught up with him. It took four miles of re-routing to bring the trolley back on the right tracks.

The Army has some delightful stories about the lads from backwoods communities who are getting their first experiences with the complications of metropolitan life.

In a camp near here the other day, a private complained to the postoffice that he had sent a money order to his folks in the Middle West weeks and weeks ago and that they had never received the money.

The A. P. O. clerk asked the private for his receipt. The lad said they couldn't catch him on that because he had saved it. He dug down in his wallet and produced the receipt.

But the money order still was attached to it.

IndianHead Hunters Outdo Local Plane Spotters

Kingstons "spotters" numbering 187 men and women, connected with the Aircraft Warning Service of the Fighter Command, have been outdone in their ability to "spot" airplanes in flight and in their alertness in detecting sound even though planes are not seen.

Despite the fact that local "spotters" rate four gold stars from the army personnel charged with this phase of activity, Colonel S. Moore, on his return to New Delhi after a tour of the Virgin Jungles, states that "the hearing of the native head hunters in the wild Naga hills in northeastern India is so keen they can hear the distant snap of a twig or the hiss of a cobra."

And the natives are working for the allies—as plane detectors or "spotters."

Boy Struck by Taxi

Robert Buboltz, 8, of 65 Third avenue, was injured, but not seriously, when struck by a taxi driven by Robert Harvey of Bloomington at 7:15 Thursday night. Harvey reported to the police department that as he was driving through Third avenue the boy was crouched in the center of the street. He picked the boy up and hurried him to the Kingston Hospital, where he was later discharged.

$5,000 in Bonds Bought at Local Plant's Yule Party

jamin Schwartz, a member of the cigar concern, who was unable to be present that night, had pledged himself to match dollar for dollar the amount contributed by the employes, which brought the total sale of war bonds to $10,000.

Approximately 300 employes and friends attended the annual dinner and party last night with Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who had been 23 years with the concern, and George Colden, who had served as superintendent of the local plant for 26 years, as the guests of honor.

The dinner was marked by but one address, that of Superintendent Maspons who spoke in part as follows:

"One year has just passed since that fateful Sunday morning of December 7 when the hidden dagger of Japanese treachery struck deeply into the heart of our Pacific battle fleet at Pearl Harbor.

"It was a staggering blow; nevertheless, it was one from which we have fully recovered to exhibit the greatest industrial conversion to war production in modern history.

"In less than one year we have been able to inflict upon the enemy several naval defeats in the Pacific including bombing attacks on Tokyo and other important cities in Japan. We have the mastery of the seas, the mastery of the air and even more, the mastery of their so-called Japanese jungle-fighting.

"In less than one year American military power has thundered upon the shores of North Africa in one of the most spectacular invasions of all time.

"Yes, my friends, Uncle Sam is now ready to go, and every "kid" of 18 and 19 years of age is also getting ready to go with him. To start a big job; to finish a big job. How quickly? The answer rests with you and you and every one of us; our home front; the arsenal of Democracy.

"It must be done. It shall be done. But not without our help. As with our help, my friends, our "kids" will not go hungry; our "kids" will not suffer from want; our "kids" must not run short of planes, ships, tanks, or ammunition with which to fight—for you and me. And with the help of God, our "kids" will win.

"God bless America; . . . The cradle of Democracy . . . The defender of the weak . . . The sentinel of right."

Superintendent Maspons in opening said that it was a pleasure to have the mayor present, and that he also desired to extend hearty greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ramming. He said that in welcoming Mr. Colden to the party that night it was with sorrow that Mrs. Colden was unable to attend as she was a patient in the hospital.

Superintendent Maspons said that when the service committee had decided to hold the annual party that night it was decided to make it a Victory Party by selling war bonds and stamps. Several of the employes distributed pledge cards to the banqueteers, which were later gathered up and tabulated.

The total amount of bonds sold that night Superintendent Maspons announced was $5,000 which with the pledge of Mr. Schwartz to match the sale dollar for dollar brought the total amount to $10,000.

In one end of the Crystal Room was a large table on which were pound boxes of candy which were later distributed to all of the employes at the party.

Following the bond sale the tables were cleared from the room and dancing enjoyed.

New York Undergoes Surprise Blackout

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—For 15 minutes last night, New York lay beneath only the light supplied by nature, as a surprise training blackout put to test a new system giving advance warning to all concerned before the dousing of lights.

At 9 p. m. (E.W.T.) an inaudible signal—the "yellow"—was flashed through the five boroughs to police and civilian protection leaders ordering them to get into action.

When the "red" signal sounded at 9:34, the streets were cleared and the lights put out.

The "all clear" came at 9:49 in Manhattan and Richmond, and the lights went on in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx under a stagger system to avoid overtaxing the electric system.

Governor Charles Poletti toured sections of the city during the blackout and declared:

Seam-Splitting No Balm for G. O. P., Southerners Warn

Corvey scoffed at the idea of any bolting in this section in 1944.

However, he expressed belief southern states would make determined drives to send strong delegations to the next national convention to fight for "some attention to states' rights," and "to get away from some of the more radical tendencies of more recent years."

Other comments from southern party leaders:

T. W. Conley, Florida chairman: The Spangler statement is "a mere propaganda attempt to camouflage dissension existing in the Republican National Party X X X it is true that some Democrats disagree with new deal policies, but this variance is not strong enough to split the party."

J. Lon Duckworth, Georgia Chairman: "The Republican Party has nothing to offer the south. I feel confident Democrats of Georgia will never align themselves with the Republican party. If changes in policy are necessary, this can and will be attained through the Democratic party that has served the south these many years."

Skirts on Boys, Nix

South Haven, Mich., Dec. 18—Girls in slacks get by—but High School Principal J. R. Hervey draws the line at skirt-clad boys. Hervey, who had sanctioned slacks as proper feminine school attire, met a dozen youths arrayed in skirts at the school doors this morning and ordered them back into trousers. "I don't mind the skirts," Hervey declared, "but I couldn't permit the commotion they caused among other students."

Benefits Are Paid To 82,000 Workers In New York State

Albany, N. Y. Dec. 17—Unemployment Insurance benefits totaling $3,890,045 were paid to more than 82,000 unemployed workers in New York State during the month of November in the form of 386,583 individual checks, it was announced today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. This disbursement represents a decline of 34.7 per cent from the amount paid in October—a reflection, to some extent, of the more than 35,000 claimants who have drawn all the benefits to which they are entitled for the current benefit year.

During the week ending November 27, 88,214 individuals were actively pursuing their benefit rights. These included 59,984 persons who were receiving benefits, 9,435 who were serving the required waiting period, and 2,139 whose claims were being adjusted. The active insurance file in New York State since the last week in July has fallen off by 120,000—a decline of 58 per cent.

November payments for the Kingston employment office amounted to $10,492 for the 1942-1943 benefit year, in the form of 805 separate checks.

New York city benefit payments amounted to $3,100,000—77.6 per cent of all benefits distributed in the State during the month. Payments to unemployed workers in New York city declined 34.6 per cent from October; those to workers outside of New York city decreased 36.8 percent. Former New York State workers, now unemployed and residing to other states, collected a total of $228,382 in unemployment compensation.

Contributions received from employers during the month totaled $35,312,253. At the end of November, the Unemployment Insurance Fund totaled $408 million.

EIRE BIRTHRATE DIPS

Eire's high birthrate is declining, a study recently released in Dublin shows. Fewer women marry in Eire than in any other country, yet previously the birthrate has maintained a higher level. The census of population analysis showed a 47,000 decline in the number of children under 15 during 10 years. The decline was much greater in rural than in town sections. The population under 21 years of age declined 69,000.

NATIVES INVENTORS

Inventive genius among the natives of Kenya has been spurred by the new industry of spinning created as a result of war conditions. Africans, it is said in Nairobi, learn easily. One has invented a crank; he turns the wheel and his wife sins. Another had manufactured a water spinning wheel which he operates in the river. Before the war Kenya imported all knitting yarns, blankets, woolen cloth and carpets, but now the local wool is utilized.

LET'S CLEAN THE SLATE

Its Christmastide. Let's clean the slate
Of every old-year grudge or hate.
Let's pin as prightly sprig of holly
Upon dull care and melancholy.
Let's reach out friendly hands and grip
Each other in warm comradeship.

A young man arrived at the Christmas Card counter:

Young Man—Have you anything sentimental?

Salesgirl—Here's a lovely one—"To The Only Girl I Ever Lived."

Young Man—Fine! I'll take four—no, six of those, please.

When a doctor gets sick and another doctor doctors him, does the doctor doing the doctering have to doctor the doctor the way the doctor being doctored wants to be doctored, or does the doctor doing the doctoring doctor the doctor the way he wants to doctor?

Woman—Do slacks come in odd sizes?

Salesman—No, they get in that shape from being worn.

MY AMERICAN FLAG

My American flag, red, white and blue,
My American flag, I salute you.
I'm proud to be born in this great country;
I'm proud to be a son of liberty.
My American flag, I'd fight for you;
My American flag, I'd die for you,
Like others whose lives they gave,
That your stars and stripes may always wave.

SOME WISE MAN SAID THAT "YOU BELIEVE EASILY WHAT YOU HOPE FOR EARNESTLY."

Bill Fox may be called the champion optimist. He was sitting on the roof of his house during a flood, watching the water flow past, when the neighbor who owned a boat rowed across to him:

Neighbor—Hello, Bill!

Bill (pleasantly)—Hello, Sam.

Neighbor—All your fowls washed away this morning?

Bill—Yes, but the ducks can swim.

Neighbor—All your fruit trees gone, too?

Bill—Yes, but everybody said the crop would be a failure, anyhow.

Neighbor—I see the river's reached above your windows, Bill.

Bill—That's all right, Sam. Them windows needed washing.

PUTTING INTO CIRCULATION ONE KINDLY TRUTH ABOUT SOME OTHER FELLOW IS A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

FOLKS WHO SPEND TOO MUCH TIME LOOKING FOR FOUR LEAF CLOVERS OFTEN DISCOVER TOO LATE THAT THE GRASS HAS GROWN UNDER THEIR FEET.

A friend of ours had been limping around for a long time and finally went to see a doctor. Next thing we knew he was on crutches with a plaster cast on his ankle:

Friend—The doctor found my ankle was broken.

Us—You've had that trouble a long time. Why didn't you go to a doctor before?

Friend—I thought of it several times. But every time I say something is wrong with me, my wife says I'll have to give up smoking.

HONDURAS TO HELP U. S.

Search for new sources of war materials now urgently needed by the United States is under way in Honduras. Fruit companies and private individuals are assisting in the movement, it is announced at Belize. Experimentation on a large scale to learn if some products can be grown economically already is under way, with both hevea rubber and castor beans planted in the La Ceiba district. Abaca plantings are scheduled for trial as the next step in the war effort.

New Zealand will launch a plan to encourage farmers to sow at least 350,000 acres of wheat in the 1943-44 year.

Reorganization of Courses in High School Announced

Albany— Extensive reorganization of high school courses to meet the changes brought about by lowering the draft age to 18 years has been announced by the State Education Department. The Division of Secondary Education has just issued to superintendents of schools and high school principals a bulletin, "Wartime Adjustments in Secondary Schools," which takes up the problems of accelerated programs for high school pupils of unusual ability and of emergency wartime programs for high school pupils.

The bulletin, signed by Dr. Warren W. Knox, Director of the Division, and Dr. George M. Wiley, Associate Commissioner in charge of instructional supervision, stresses the necessity of maintaining standards, while calling attention to the need for using a flexibility of pupil progress, established for many years, to speed the graduation of pupils of unusual ability in less than four years. Any restrictions on this program, it is pointed out, will result from local conditions, financial or curricular.

Methods of accelerating the program include increasing the pupil's schedule to take more than four units of work, increasing the number of periods weekly, completion of a unit of work in less than the standard 18 weeks and the addition of a summer study program. The bulletin states that such a program will "facilitate the high school-college relationship," thus meeting another war need.

Changes in course schedules are suggested as follows: introduction at once of an intensive review course in arithmetic for pupils not taking mathematics or related courses, setting up a one-semester course in mathematics for the second semester of the 1942-43 school year, introducing a double schedule of not less than ten periods a week in physics during the same second semester for pupils of average ability and above, providing a course in physics adjusted to pupils of less ability, scheduling a semester course in health for the second semester, providing an intensive course in American history for the same period, stressing industrial arts or vocational shop courses for pupils who wish to train for trades in the military forces or war industries, during the same semester, and completion of courses in English, foreign languages and other subjects not technically basic to war training by the end of the current semester.

Part-time study for pupils who would otherwise leave school entirely to work is also suggested. A series of emergency programs of special work is also presented in the bulletin.

Specialized War Training Proposed for Schools

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Immediate introduction of specialized war training in New York high schools is recommended by the State Education Department for youths headed for military service when they are 18.

In a bulletin sent yesterday to school superintendents and principals, the department urged acceleration of schedules to spend the graduation of prospective selectees, and said specialized courses can be started in the second semester of the current school year.

"The suggested procedures apply only to schools able to develop such schedules," the bulletin stated, "and to those pupils of unusual ability who have the physical, mental and emotional qualities essential for intensive work."

O. P. A. Outlines Basic Facts On National Point Rationing

Washington, Dec. 18 — Basic facts on point rationing were outlined today by the Office of Price Administration.

Point rationing will be introduced to Americans early in 1943 when war rationing book two is distributed.

The purpose of point rationing is to guarantee everyone a fair share of scarce but essential goods while at the same time giving everyone a variety of items to choose from.

There are three chief differences between point rationing and the coupon rationing which is now in effect for sugar and coffee.

The first important difference is this—under straight coupon rationing, one single coupon entitles the consumer to buy a specific amount of a single commodity—such as, one sugar coupon entitles you to buy three pounds of sugar.

But in points rationing one set of coupons covers a whole group of commodities. For instance, your week's meat ration coupons would enable you to choose your ration freely between beef, pork, lamb or mutton.

The second important difference is this—the coupons in point rationing are of different denominations. Those to be spent in one week, for example, will include a one-point coupon, a two-point coupon, a five-point coupon and an eight-point coupon.

The third important difference is this—the various rationed items within one group will have different point values. For example, tenderloin steak, being relatively scarcer, might have a high point value and require a larger number of coupons, while hamburger, being available in greater quantities, would have a lower point value. Thus, in exchange for a ration coupon worth eight points, the housewife might be able to obtain one pound of tenderloin steak or four pounds of hamburger. (Point values have not been set yet, values used here are for illustration only.)

The government will set the point value of each item within the group of rationed products and issue an official list. Point values will be based on available supplies and will vary as supplies of particular items increase or decrease.

War ration book two will have four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps. The blue stamps will be used for the first group of goods to be rationed by points. The red stamps will be used for the second group of point-rationed goods.

The number on each stamp tells how many points the stamp is worth. The letter on each stamp tells what period it is good in. The government will announce these periods in advance.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Double Surprise

Brazil, Ind.—P. A. Rounds, proprietor of a chicken farm, decided to surprise his mother, who lives 25 miles away in Terre Haute, with a visit.

En route, Rounds' car collided with another—his mother's.

She had decided to "surprise" him.

Two-Alarm Fire

Elizabeth, N. J.—A fire, starting in the basement of the Anthony Martin home, reached the wiring and produced a short circuit which caused the front doorbell to ring.

Mrs. Anthony went to the door, but nobody was there.

The bell rang again. Still nobody there.

Then she followed the bell wire to the basement and found the blaze in time to call the fire department before much damage was done.

Wooo! Wooo!

San Francisco — A wail that sounded like an air raid siren sent startled patrolmen dashing into a rooming house. Walter Plobner, itinerant worker with a gift for imitations, was brought before Judge Twain Michelsen and sentenced to 30 days for drunkenness.

The court called the next case. Then an express train's whistle shrilled through the room. Even the judge jumped.

"That was the Sacramento Northern," Probner called from the lockup.

The judge warned him to silence lest he be derailed for another 30 days.

Spokane, Wash.—Faced with a waiter shortage during a high school basketball tournament, Gonzaga University, the sponsor, produced this scheme:

The losing team of the first game in each day's program will wait tables.

The Gals Want Garters

Albuquerque, N. M.—The gals need garters. Rubber is scarce. So—

They are asking men—especially those entering military service—to donate suspenders. Suspenders with plenty of snap are preferred, said Miss Nella Beth Brashear, who started the idea.

"Stockings now are being made with a slick finish," she explained, "and only a really firm garter will hold them up."

Tears—Not Cheers

Hutchinson, Kas. — Mrs. Max Shirk choked back the lump in her throat and didn't shed a tear as her husband left for the Army. But the lump just stayed there. It became so painful she went to a doctor.

"You should have cried," he told her, blaming emotional stress for the ruptured blood vessel in her throat.

Bird in the Hand

Belleville, Ill.—Quail hunting had been good and Clarence Neuner brought home 11 birds, which he placed in the refrigerator without dressing them.

An hour later, he opened the ice box door and was almost floored by a flurry of wings as one of the quail flew out. The bird finally was flushed for the last time from under the kitchen stove.

AXIS TRICKS

The surprise attack is peculiarly an Axis trick. Germany invaded Poland without warning, and later opened the Russian war by destroying thousands of Soviet planes—the first indication that the two countries were at war. Likewise Pearl Harbor was not the only instance of a treacherous assault in times of peace by the Japanese; they had played the same trick on Russia in 1904.

In Germany, at least, this practice of treachery goes back a long way. Frederick the Great of Prussia, who as "our Fritz" has been a national hero in Germany for nearly two centuries, began his reign by seizing Silesia, without warning, from Austria. Frederick had previously signed a treaty agreeing to respect all of Austria's possessions; that made no difference to him.

The trouble is that in all these cases, treachery paid. Frederick was able to keep Silesia, and it remains German to this day. The unheralded German attacks on Russia and Poland were of great advantage to the Nazi conduct of the war. The Japanese assault on Russia gave them a lead which they were able to keep throughout the war. Everybody knows what a handicap the Pearl Harbor attack has been to the United States.

The war will not have been really won if this business of treachery is not so severely punished that it will never be resorted to again.

SMALL BUSINESS

One of the most important bits of news from Washington lately was this little item: "The Senate small business committee today summoned representatives of more than 50 trade associations of wholesalers and retailers to a conference January 19-21, on proposals to improve the credit system, to provide capital for expansion, conversion and re-entry of small businesses into the nation's economy after the war."

Many people, perhaps, have not thought much about "small business" in general, the vital part it has played in the American system of free enterprise, and the importance of sustaining it through a difficult time. Little business on the whole is as important as big business, and its disappearance would be a sad loss to the "American way."

Little business means personality, independence and variety in business life, as compared with the impersonal control that tends to develop in modern times. It may not be quite so "efficient" in some ways as its big competitors, but it is more human, and it performs many services better than its competitors can do. One of the oldest and most cherished forms of American democracy must not become a permanent war casualty.

SHINPLASTERS

"No shinplasters!" says Secretary Morgenthau. He refers to the paper currency that during the Civil War replaced nickels, dimes and quarters. Metal for minting was scarce then as now, and local communities tried to make good the lack by issuing paper tokens, good for three, five, ten cents and up. They were a great nuisance, were easily counterfeited or spoiled, and proved a costly experiment. Yet they continued to provide most of the country's currency for retail purposes till the passage of the Bland-Allison Silver Act of 1878. The government says that $15,000,000 of this currency is still unaccounted for, of which it is estimated that $2,000,000 may be in private collections. The rest is either lost, or else survives in some forgotten nook.

The Revolution had its shinplasters, too, and found them equally detrimental. Today it is hoped to avoid them. That is why Secretary Morgenthau has condemned a scheme of the Boise, Ida., Merchants' Association to use paper one-cent pieces. The motive is patriotic, but the idea does not work.

CHILD REFUGEES

When the bombings were going on in the British Isles in 1940 and 1941 a good deal was heard of the reception here and in Canada of children sent over for the duration by their parents. Also of other children evacuated because parents had been killed. Lately not so much has been heard of them.

Mrs. Edna Blue, executive chairman of the Foster Parents Plan for War Children, has been telling of the work of this group. The Foster Parents Plan started in Spain during the civil war. Later, centers were opened in southern France for the care of such children, but had to be closed when the Nazis moved in. The Plan, however, operates forty-one children's projects in England and cares for Polish, French, Czech, Dutch, Belgian, Hungarian, Norwegian, Spanish, British and German anti-Nazi children. The people in charge have, so far, helped more than 20,000 children.

In this country many foster parents are taking care of one or more of these bereaved children. W. L. White's Margaret, told about in his "Journey for Margaret," was taken from one of the child-care centers, the Hampstead Nursery. There are thousands—millions—of other bereaved, malnourished, homeless "war children." How to bring them up to happy lives of constructive usefulness will be one of the great post-war problems.

CONGRESS ECONOMIZES

Congress is, in a way, the national scapegoat. It is blamed for anything that goes wrong, and seldom gets credit for whatever it does right. One particular accusation often made, sometimes with justice, is that the congressman is ever on the lookout for legal ways to feather his own nest. Allowed money for clerk hire, he may put on the payroll his wife or other members of his family: and his zeal for economy in other places is rarely felt here.

On this account fairness should dictate praise for the latest example of congressional economy. The new appropriation for the legislative department, that is for the salaries of congressmen and their assistants, is $27,682,000, a cut of two millions, or nearly 10 per cent from last year. This is particularly grateful just now because congressmen, like every one else, are finding extra work piled on them. They could make a good case for an increased appropriation. Instead, they have reduced it. This should offset some of the loose condemnation.

It's never too late to buy bonds and stamps for Christmas presents.

BARBITAL DRUGS

One of the mistaken acts of kindness is advising a patient under treatment by a physician that he is getting the wrong medicine, that some one who took this medicine had nearly lost his life; he just stopped taking the medicine in time.

For many years patients with stomach disturbances have been taking baking soda to obtain relief. Then it was rumored that baking soda wore off the coat of the stomach and many of these stomach sufferers stopped using it. Investigation of the effect of baking soda on the stomach showed that it had been used daily for as long as seven years without causing any damage to the lining of the stomach. The only reason baking soda is not used as much for stomach disturbances now is that other alkalis or combination of alkalis have been found more effective in some cases.

For perhaps hundreds of years the remedy used in epilepsy was the bromides. It quiets the patient but it has a most depressing effect. When it was found that the barbital drugs would quiet the nerves and actually prevent epileptic attacks in most cases, it was a great boon to patient and physician. The routine treatment for epilepsy now is cutting down on all liquids and starch foods, increasing the fat foods, and the use of a barbital drug is prescribed by the physician. Dilantin sodium is also used.

Now just as with other useful drugs, the epileptic is just getting along nicely under this treatment when some friend or acquaintance warns him that barbital drugs are not only dangerous to life but will send him "out of his mind". This friend or acquaintance has no selfish motive and really thinks he is helping the patient.

What about the use of barbital drugs in epilepsy; will they damage the mind?

In Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry (brain and behavior) Drs. E. Somerfeld Ziskind and E. Ziskind state that phenobarbital (luminal) can be given in 1½ grain doses twice or thrice daily for two years without doing any damage to the brain. This is longer than the doses given in the great majority of cases.

Intelligence tests were carried out before treatment, one month later, and again one year afterwards. The average intelligence and mental age for each age was essentially the same after treatment as it was before.

Diet In Epilepsy

Many epileptic sufferers are helped very greatly by observing a few simple diet suggestions. Send today for this leaflet entitled 'Diet Suggestions in Epilepsy'. To obtain it just send Five Cents (coin preferred) to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Postal Station O, New York, N. Y., and ask for this leaflet by name, mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

THE STOCK MARKET?

Babson Reviews Volume, Prices and Dividends

Wilmington, Dela., Dec. 18—In the year that has passed since Pearl Harbor we have seen the lowest volume of stock market trading since 1914. It amounted to only 108,863,000 shares. This is 22 per cent under the corresponding period of a year ago. During the past year rail averages went up about 0.32 while industrials were down approximately 7.69. And this during a period when London, Berlin and Amsterdam markets moved consistently upward under a heavy volume of buying.

Some Explanations

It, therefore, may not be possible to obtain many good stocks during the coming twelve months at prices which have prevailed during the past twelve months. A preponderance of bad news, Government financing, tax uncertainties, the normal shocks and mental stagnation of war have all had their effects on the stock market. Even though the belief has been current, that in view of inflation, equities are better to hold than cash, there has been but little buying for hedging.

Lack of ready cash by well-to-do investors has also helped to slow down market activity. Except in a real stock market boom, such as in 1928 and 1929, the public has never participated much in the purchase of listed securities. Usually this group get in during the last few months of a sustained rise. They contribute little except "small change" to rising volume and prices. Wealthy individuals, estates, insurance companies and institutions—formerly heavy buyers of securities—are now obliged to use their available funds for income taxes and the purchase of government bonds. Hence, these groups are no longer an important factor in the stock market.

Business and Dividends

For nearly all types of businesses represented by New York Stock Exchange issues, volume has been at record heights. Amusement, copper, steel, utility, rubber, airplane, and mail order companies have all enjoyed an extremely heavy gross business. Furthermore, in spite of allowances for high corporation taxes, dividends have been generous with many companies declaring year-end extras. However, aggregate dividends for 1942 will not be as large as they were in 1941. Unlike the case in recent past years, a fair share of regular dividends and most of the extra dividends will not go back into the market for the purchase of additional shares.

In all probabilities many companies have passed, or are passing, their peak volume of business for the war period. Necessary capacities for war production are nearly, if not entirely, reached. If and when some critical materials are released or higher priorities are available to certain concerns, as in the case of rail equipment companies, they may do better in 1943. This can also be true of companies selling equipment to municipalities. Dividends, too, may have passed the honeymoon stage. While they may continue generous in individual instances, the total for 1943 may not rise above that of this year. I am, however, generally bullish on the prices of good stocks.

War and Peace Stocks

At the recent Annual Business Conference in Babson Park, Massachusetts, I made the statement that stocks which suffered most during the war would prosper most after the war. These include most of the so-called "peace issues." From now on we shall probably face a wave of peace rumors. Peace stocks will rise and fall with them. Of these I will treat further in my Annual Review. If it turns out to be a long war there is probably still some gravy in the war stocks. But investors and management alike are worried over the re-negotiation of contracts. Until this question is definitely settled it will have a bearish influence.

Opportunities Ahead

To balance unforeseen losses, the investor is justified in seeking at times speculative profits. Income alone from securities will rarely compensate for declining profits caused by events beyond the control of the cautious investor or outside the scope of ordinary common sense buying. Hence, the wide awake investor must be continually on the lookout for special opportunities through which to maintain his principal. "Special situations," however, require careful study and selections should carefully be made. By these I do not mean the entirely new fields of manufacturing and promotion which some "smart" salesman may come around with as an "after the war certainty."

New uses for old products, new techniques in production, the creation of synthetics and the chances for investment in thoroughly deflated situations may offer the best for profits. Real estate equities unhampered by mortgages are a case in point. Of this latter, I hope some week to write in detail. Yet, for the imaginative and courageous investor there are many opportunities to turn losses into profits. I care not for the circumstances. Even under the worst conditions someone is always making money.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, in England, declares that, while Germany must be punished for her cruelties, her people must be given a chance to become good neighbors.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

During the year 1914 the city's health board, under the administration of Palmer Canfield as mayor, adopted a new milk code to conform with the state milk code, and at the annual meeting of the health board on December 28, 1914, the board elected Dr. Harold Clarke, local veterinarian, to serve as sanitary inspector of the board, commencing his new duties on January 1, 1915.

Dr. Clarke succeeded the late Frank P. Quigley, who had been serving as sanitary inspector. Among the new duties added to the job of sanitary inspector in 1915, was that of visiting all farms supplying milk to the city, and to grade the milk sold to consumers here under the provisions of the new city and state code.

This year Dr. Clarke is rounding out 27 years of service with the health board. In late years his duties are of inspecting the farms supplying milk to the city, and also all of the milk plants in the city, taking samples of the milk sold to consumers, and seeing to it that the milk was properly graded and complied with the provisions of both the city and state code.

During the first World War, Dr. Clarke and Dr. Frank A. Johnston, who was then serving as the city's health officer, were granted leaves of absence to serve with the armed forces.

At the close of the World War, Dr. Clarke returned to Kingston and resumed his duties with the health department, a position he had held ever since.

Dr. Clarke is one of the best known veterinaries in Kingston and the Hudson river valley, and his many years of service with the health department has made him thoroughly acquainted with all of the milk producers who supply the city market.

It is also interesting to recall that at the 1914 health board meeting the board re-elected Fred Sahloff to serve as secretary, and that Fred M. Dressel was elected plumbing inspector.

I recall that on September 25, 1918, the Bureau of Social Service in the Municipal Building on East O'Reilly street was closed as Mrs. Laura MacMillan, who had charge of the office, had resigned to take up her new duties with the newly organized Labor Board.

With the skip stop system in operation on the city's bus lines it is interesting to recall that the system was first placed in effect on the trolley lines on September 22, 1918. At that time it was done to conserve electricity, and today it is done to conserve gasoline and tires.

CURFEW PLEA PRESENTED

An appeal for a curfew which would close movie houses, theatres and public houses in Cardiff at 9 o'clock has been presented by that city's government to Sir Gerald Bruce, Regional Commissioner for Wales. Clearance of streets of all but war workers by that hour also is sought as the result of a growing toll of blackout accidents and the shortage of bus drivers. Some transit men are working 100 hours a week, and repeated assaults have been made on bus conductors.

MILLION GULLS FLEE

Flight of a million seagulls to farms two miles inland from the beach predicted, hours in advance, the whirlwind which hit Ninety-mile Beach, near Waimui Junction, New Zealand, with devastating force last summer. E. L. Frost, New Zealand ornithologist, said the gulls apparently were warned by instinct of the storm's advance. He pointed out that all the gulls faced northwest on reaching sanctuary, packing into a narrow strip of farmland in their unique migration.

Tendency Toward Making Pacific War Secondary Disturbing to Those Aware to Far Eastern Conflict

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 18—Emphasis is on North Africa and Europe because the distances are shorter and the fighting is in some respects more spectacular, but the tendency to regard the Pacific war as a separate conflict or a a secondary segment of a global war is causing grave concern among those who are familiar with the Japanese-American operations.

The theory that Japan can be taken care of by a combined British-American fleet after Hitler is conquered is the prevalent one but among the Far Eastern experts this is considered a highly dangerous and risky appraisal of the situation.

Instead, it is asserted confidently by the advocates of a more intensive Pacific war that if the United Nations neglect the Japanese front, they will pay for it in hundreds of thousands of lives in 1944 and 1945, if not subsequent thereto.

The Japanese need time. The United Nations are giving them plenty of it by allowing the United States Navy and a relatively small army and air force to carry on the whole job.

It is true that the United States Navy has taken a terrific toll of the Japanese and that in nearly every battle the American ships have been outnumbered, but it is also true that the Japanese have a major navy, and all of it is in one ocean, while the United States divides its strength between two oceans.

If the British navy is going to be any help to the United States Navy in the Pacific, if the aircraft now building in such big quantities is to be of any avail to the meagre American forces stationed in the Pacific, the time for such help is now before the Japanese can consolidate their positions and entrench themselves for several years of war.

On account of the censorship, very little has been made public as to the actual number of American ships or planes or troops in the Pacific area, but, judging by the official communiques and the news dispatches, it may be assumed that the United States has put into the Far East a relatively small force to carry on a major war.

Is this kind of dispersal of our forces adequate? Is it fair to the forces now in the Pacific? There can be no doubt that the American marines, fliers and naval units have done a magnificent job thus far. Their acts of daring and heroism are unexampled. The general public, however, doesn't know how much of these operations have been conducted virtually on a shoestring.

But the Japanese know. They have a fairly accurate idea of what we have done in the Pacific and their reconnaissance planes have kept them advised as to the general nature of our fighting units. The Japanese would prefer to compel the United States to confine herself to an island by island campaign, because this may take years to consummate.

What the Japanese would not like is the sending of a major expedition such as went to North Africa, with a fleet big enough to protect landings in strategic areas on the Asiatic-Japanese mainland. A route to China must be opened soon, or the Japanese will close off the Burma road for years to come. More and more offensive operations must be undertaken in 1943, or the course of the Japanese-American war will be lengthened to such an extent that, long after the Hitler war is over, the sacrifices of American boys will continue on a scale far more bloody than those which may be encountered in Europe.

The armchair strategists who insist that Hitler is the main objective and that all will be well when the European war is over do not know the Japanese nor do they know the estimates of Japanese fighting power being made by those who do not sit in armchairs but actually come in contact with the enemy in the South Pacific and in China.

The biggest single deficiency in the Pacific is air power. The Washington tendency is to give everything to Europe, despite the pleas for more aid to the Pacific. The news that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker took off in a plane that was mechanically inadequate and that the bomber he was to use had to be employed in another mission furnishes an indication of how hard it is to get bombers diverted to Pacific uses. A few hundred big bombers sent to the Pacific today in addition to those already there can change the trend of the fighting, but if all eyes are to be fixed on Europe and the Pacific is to wait its turn, the cost in the end may be so big that when they get all the facts some day, the American people will protest bitterly the neglect of our forces in the Pacific.

"WARNING TO THE WEST," by Shridharani.

Although it was probably intended well, Shridharani's "Warning to the West" will be considered by many readers an inopportune and rather arrogant statement of the East-West position as he sees it today. And inconsistent as well—

Shridharani says, in effect, that either the "Saxons" do what India wants, or else. But it is not quite as simple as that sounds, for I have been unable to determine what India wants from Shridharani's book. It appears not even to be united on the matter of independence, although a majority of the career-patriots of India do want independence on the face of their demands. He feels that it is hopeless at the moment to expect much from Britain, and believes that the United States must force whatever action is taken. He has no ideas of value as to how one ally can force another to do what a third party bids, and little conception, to judge by what he writes, of the disastrous possibilities the attempt might entail.

Shridharani's ideas are succinctly expressed when taken individually, but are often conflicting. He bases a large share of his argument on what he calls the arrogance of the Saxons (meaning, of all things, Britain and the United States, the latter of which is about as Saxon as India). But it would be difficult to find more arrogant writing than Shridharani's even in England 50 years ago.

This western attitude has produced an East-West complex based on race, he says, the colored races of the Orient against the "dominant" white races of the West. Yet on another page, he makes the point that Indians are of the Caucasian race. Nor does he conceal more than superficially his contempt for some colored races, Japan, for example.

His statement of Japan's propaganda aims is the best part of his book, and there is one specific warning of importance. It is against the collaborative activities in India of Subhash Chandra Bose. The next most important thing in the book is the oblique, unintended warning against Indian politics; it is difficult to see what can be done now to reconcile conflicting viewpoints, and one gathers it might be dangerous to try.

RATION CHOICE TO START

Compensated rationing is now under way in Sweden, a Stockholm report discloses. Persons allowed extra rations of tobacco, for example, are required to give up a corresponding portion of their coffee ration. Meanwhile tobacco acreage has been increased in an effort to meet requirements based on dwindling stocks of the Tobacco Monopoly. Imports in 1941 were only 44 per cent of needs, and the monopoly stores have been further curtailed since.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Not long ago W. P. B. got a request for priorities on a 100-foot conveyor belt from a manufacturer that produces for both military and civilian consumption.

One of the W. P. B. officials wrote back to ask what percentage of the company's output was going to the Army and Navy. The reply to that was "60 per cent."

"In view of your letter of December 5," the W. P. B. came back, "we are clearing priorities for you on 60 feet of conveyor belt."

Representative Harry L. Englebright (R., Cal.) loves to tell the story on himself about the time he addressed one of the Washington Negro church congregations.

It was the congressman's first appearance before a Negro audience. He was nervous and apparently showed it.

The pastor gave him a reassuring smile and stepped forward to introduce him.

"Brothers and sisters," he began, "I want to introduce the representative from California, the Honorable Mr. Harry L. Englebright. I know him well, and I assure you that although his face may be white, his heart is black."

Wartime transportation problems in Washington have produced some lulus, but the two all-time highs came recently. First, when a bus got lost on the downtown trip from Chevy Chase Circle, a checker was amazed to discover the No. 2 bus on the No. 4 route, nearly mile from where he should have been.

He shouted the bus driver down and wanted to know just what-in what he thought he was doing driving a No. 2 on the No. 4 route. The poor driver said he knew he was wrong, but that he was a new man and didn't know the No. 2 route. No. 4, he explained, was the only one he did know, and he figured it was better to drive that one than get lost completely.

This was topped only by the new motorman who got himself and his trolley completely lost. Taking a switch wrong, he was well on his way to the suburban community of Cabin John, Maryland, before passengers and a route checker caught up with him. It took four miles of re-routing to bring the trolley back on the right track.

The Army has some delightful stories about the lads from backwoods communities who are getting their first experiences with the complications of metropolitan life.

In a camp near here the other day, a private complained to the postoffice that he had sent a money order to his folks in the Middle West weeks and weeks ago and that they had never received the money.

The A. P. O. clerk asked the private for his receipt. The lad said they couldn't catch him on that because he had saved it. He dug down in his wallet and produced the receipt.

But the money order still was attached to it.

Testing Device Is Taking Guesswork, Peril From Flight

Radio Test Recorder Places Finding of Weak Points in Planes in Field of Pure Science

Downey, Calif., Dec. 18 (AP)—He was a picturesque man, the oldtime test pilot of fact and fancy, but his work is being stripped of much of its glamor—and not a little of its peril—by a device of wires, tubes and charts which will do most of his job for him, and do it better.

Vultee Aircraft, Inc., after 14 months experimenting, today announced perfection of a radio flight test recorder, which will remove from the realm of guesswork into that of pure science the hazardous task of uncovering weak points in untried fighter and bomber airplanes.

The recorder, which Vultee President Harry Woodhead says will save months of precious time for the aircraft industry, was invented by H. D. Giffen, former Hollywood motion picture sound engineer, and developed by him and Vultee technicians.

From now on, when the untested plane is wheeled out to the flight ramp, it will be studded from stem to stern, and from wing tip to wing tip, with 70 radio pick-up devices. Every strategic part of the craft will be so equipped.

And, when the ship takes the air, every one of those devices will be carrying messages of significance to a group of engineers in a Vultee laboratory far below, studying charts on which will be recorded the mechanical observations on the plane's performance.

Such factors as flutters, vibrations, stresses, strains, temperatures, speed and altitude will be duly inscribed for the engineers to study at leisure, Woodhead explained.

Thus on one flight, he pointed out, will be provided, and accurately, a mass of data which it might take a test pilot many hours of flying time to acquire.

"In some instances," said Woodhead, "the device might save a year of engineering development which would be lost in the event of a crash during a test flight. In such a case the defects causing the crash would have been faithfully recorded."

And crashes can actually be averted by the flight test recorder, he said. During a flight, the engineers, perhaps miles away, know more about the plane's performance than does the pilot, and can warn him by two-way radio of approaching difficulties.

Under the old system, a pilot might be instructed to take an experimental ship up and pull it out of a "nine-G" dive. He would strap a notebook to his right knee, and go up. When he had pulled out of the dive, if he pulled out at all, he would jot down such of the plane's characteristics as he had noted.

But when the radio recorder is used, the procedure runs something like this:

"Engine mount strain gauges show excessive vibration at 2,300 R.P.M.," they warn Davis. "Get off 2,300."

Davis alters his speed, a potential mishap has been averted, and hours of precious time saved.

squeezes," the committee said operating margins between replacement costs and ceiling prices "are too thin to permit of continued operations except at a loss," in some instances the replacement costs being higher than current ceiling prices.

Numerous complaints to O.P.A., the committee declared, "were completely ignored," or were handled "with so many complications of red tape and bureaucratic buck passing as to leave the complainants bewildered."

In addition "to the burden of price squeezes," the report continued, distributors face acute problems of obtaining a fair share of available consumer goods, the conclusion being "inescapable that some method for an equitable distribution of consumer goods is necessary if many distributors are to survive."

"It is the considered opinion" of the committee, the report added, "that the failure of the program of the smaller war plants corporation, as evidenced in our hearings, can be attributed to the management of the corporation."

Much of its conclusions, the committee explained, were drawn from prolonged hearings in Washington and from a first-hand inspection tour of the south and southwest. A more comprehensive report, it said, would be filed shortly.

Swarms of Planes in Raids

Swarms of flying fortresses and Douglas A-20 attack bombers, escorted by Lockheed lightning fighters, raided Tunis, Bizerte, Gabes and Sidi Tibet, west of Tunis.

German attempts to break up the raids were said to have failed completely. No American planes were lost and only one fighter was damaged, but five German fighters were knocked down and three others damaged badly.

The Russians officially denied German assertions that Red army forces had been encircled and wiped out at Torpopets, northeast of Velikie Luki on the central front.

The Soviet information bureau said that Toropets "can be regarded with full justification as a town in the Soviet rear where even the salvos of heavy guns cannot be heard."

In this account the Russians said their forward forces had hurled the Germans more than 60 miles south and 45 miles west of Toropets "as far back as the winter of 1941-42." An implication was that southbound Red army men threaten Smolensk in the current campaign. This big highway town is just east of the border of old White Russia, which the Nazis overran in the first months of their war with the Soviet union.

One force in this area was said to have reached the vicinity of Bely, little less than half way between Rzhev and Smolensk.

German losses in recent fighting on this front were placed at 7,000, and the Russians said 2,000 of their own troops were killed.

To the south, Russian troops were consolidating their positions in the Surovikino section of the Don bend some 90 miles west of Stalingrad, the Moscow communique reported.

It said tank battles developed southwest of Stalingrad, where the Russians smashed a Nazi counterattack in force and pushed on to the approaches to Kotelnikovski, on the rail line to the Caucasus 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Nuzzo Denies He Overcharged Men For Refreshments

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Samuel Nuzzo, former officer of a union whose members work on a $300,000,000 New York city water project, denied today he had overcharged for refreshments served union members at a tavern of which he was part owner.

Continuing on the witness stand in his trial on grand larceny and forgery charges, Nuzzo testified the amounts were ascertained from bar checks and computed in the union office by his secretary, Mrs. Helen Ronk McKay.

The state has presented testimony purporting to show $2,291 was spent for refreshments in Nuzzo's tavern after four union meetings in 1941. Nuzzo was indicted for misappropriating $9,844 from Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A. F. L.).

Nuzzo contended in his testimony that the members voted a motion each time for refreshments, that the motions were seconded, and that from 40 to 150 members partook.

He also testified the union's executive board had authorized him at his request, to make a final payment of $495.96 on an automobile he purchased in June, 1940. He contended he had worn out one car in service of the union and felt it the latter's duty to provide a replacement. No union member opposed his proposal, Nuzzo asserted.

Concerning the state's accusation that he transferred $1,000 illegally from the union's death benefit reserve to the general fund, Nuzzo asserted yesterday he made the transaction on the advice of James Bove of New York city, international vice president of the union. Funds were needed to pay salaries and meet office expenses, he added.

Nuzzo declared he believed Bove had authority to approve the transfer, because Bove was given such power after he ordered Local 17's meetings suspended in 1937. Nuzzo had complained the meetings were too disorderly.

Testimony of a state's witness, Harold S. Smith, who was recording secretary of Local 17 when Nuzzo was business agent, that he had falsified minutes of union meetings on Nuzzo's instructions, were flatly denied by Nuzzo.

ing this method of dispersing some of the Japanese, about two-thirds of whom are native United States citizens, as one means of solving the crowded relocation problem now centered in ten camps.

The granting of indefinite leaves to those obtaining regular work supplements the program under which some 250 were allowed to transfer from Pacific coast to midwestern and eastern colleges, and under which large groups were granted temporarily leave for seasonal work.

More than 9,000 were allowed to go out on temporary leave to help harvest sugar beet crops in the west, but most of them have returned to the centers.

Those who have gone out on indefinite leave have been offered jobs as domestic servants, nurses, and clerical, restaurant, laundry and floral nursery workers.

In addition, there have been a few mechanics and "one or two" engineers.

None is allowed to displace another worker or cut under the prevailing wage for his type of work.

John Baker, director of W.R.A.'s office of reports, said there are "very few" pro-Axis sympathizers among those remaining in the centers.

Crete which have hamstrung the main Mediterranean channels.

Once cargo ships can cross again from Gibraltar to the Suez Canal we shall have an entirely new situation. The whole Middle East and India can be reached comparatively quickly with supplies and troops. Aid for Russia through Persia and the Caucasus will be facilitated. The possibility of Hitler breaking through the Caucasus into the Middle East—If indeed that danger still exists in any degree—will be nil.

So the battle of the sands in Northern Africa is one of the basic operations of the entire war, Its ramifications literally run around the world. Each hammer blow that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery strikes at Marshal Rommel, for example, makes the structure in General Douglas MacArthur's territory vibrate because the allied drive in the Mediterranean theatre is in effect an assault on the Japanese left wing.

Once Rommel and the Axis forces in Tunisia have been disposed of, a new heaven will open up for allied forces and it will be a new hell for Hitler.

The lack of airdromes within easy striking distance of major Axis bases has handicapped the British and American air forces terribly. Also, of course, a great fleet of planes has been tied to the land fighting in Africa.

The release of equipment and the acquisition of secure strategic airdromes will permit a new aerial offensive which will rake Axis territory from stem to stern. This will be possible not only because of a vastly improved strategic position but because American and British warplane production is beginning to swamp the Axis.

Kiwanis Club Is Guest to Several Local Personalities

Kiwanis had a wealth of material for its entertainment program at the noonday meeting Thursday. Besides Katherine M. Murphy, secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and director of Camp Happyland, who spoke briefly, Major Carlton O. Preston and Lieutenants Jerry Martin, Jacob H. Tremper, Harry Rigby and John Melville, of the First Battalion, 56th Regiment, New York State Guard, were guests of the club and took part in the program.

Miss Murphy, who was introduced by Judge Fowler, Kiwanian and president of the Health Association, told of the steady growth of the sale of Christmas Seals—over $10,000 worth last year and more being sold this year. She also spoke of Camp Happyland, where 90 children each year are given a vacation and from which they leave healthier and happier. Miss Murphy had with her a boy of 10 years who had spent 15 months at the tuberculosis hospital and who has since returned to his home. Questioned by Judge Fowler he told of the treatment he had received and what it had done for him. Miss Murphy commented that although tuberculosis now ranks seventh on the list of diseases it still causes more deaths than any other disease in the ages between 15 and 45 years.

Lieutenant Martin presided at Co. B's part of the program and presented as the first speaker Major Preston, commanding officer. The major spoke of the present organization as being, in its line of succession, the oldest military organization in the country, with members of units from this section having fought in every war in which the country has been engaged.

Major Preston told of the work the men of the 56th are doing, putting in three nights every week, as they get into shape for any duty they may be called on to perform within the state, such as guarding railroads and bridges, serving in time of air raids, etc.

Lieut. Tremper gave a talk on the use of gas in warfare. He spoke of the chlorine gas that was first used by the Germans in the last World War, with greater effect than they realized at the time.

Lewisite, the modern gas, was described as the most devastating gas known. Lieut. Tremper also demonstrated the U. S. standard gas mask and also showed a sample of an English mask, designed for civilian use, which is much cheaper in design and construction and not nearly as effective.

The closing talk, by Lieut. Rigby included an interesting demonstration of five of the efficient weapons in use, including a rifle with a range of nearly three miles, a submachine gun, a "tommy gun," a 12-gauge shot-gun for close work and a hand grenade.

All of the officers spoke of the need of recruits for the Guard and Major Preston called attention to the fact that enlistments now can be taken at 17 years of age.

HISTORIC DOLE CUT

St. Cross dole, one of the last remaining instances of the medieval spirit of hospitality, has been reduced at Winchester, England. When visitors to the 800-year-old hospital ask for hospitality they receive only a small square of bread and a sip of ale instead of the slice of bread and brimming horn of ale of pre-ration years. Genuine wayfarers seeking charity, fare much better. Their allowance has not been cut. It is still a big piece of bread and a half pint of ale from the horn.

Rhythm Speeds Wood Cutting

Full Swing Soon Makes Beginner an Artist

Ithaca, N. Y.—Rhythm in his axework has made a music professor one of the best woodchoppers of the 76 Cornell faculty members who are cutting their ownf uelwood this winter, under the auspices of the University forestry department.

A sharp axe, full clearance for the swing, a light but firm grip, and rhythm in chopping with a swing over both shoulders are the elements of speedy and easy cutting of trees and logs for fuelwood, according to James D. Pond, extension forester of the New York State College of Agriculture.

A dull axe probably discourages more beginners in the art of woodchopping than anything else, says Pond. The axe for chopping should have a narrow, tapered blade. A new axe usually needs to be ground down on grindstone or emery wheel, as the blade is likely to be too thick, though it may be sharp. A dull axe is far more dangerous to use than a sharp one.

Beginners usually prefer an axe 3½ to 4 pound in weight, either double — or single-bitted. The double-bitted axe usually has one sharp thin blade for chopping, and a heavier, thicker blade for trimming or cutting near the ground, where the axe may strike soil or stone.

All limbs and low brush should be trimmed out of the way before the work of chopping a tree starts, suggests Pond. A full-armed stroke, with one hand guiding the helve as it slides down to meet the other hand at the end of the handle gives the most cutting power.

Make Clean Chips

Rhythm in chopping comes from a steady swing, not too fast, first from the left side, then from the right side, to loosen each chip from both sides. If the tree or limb is to be cut through from one side, the chip should be 1½ times as wide as the tree is thick. If chips are so wide that they stick, they are cut in half with an extra stroke. If the cut is to be made from two sides, the first chip should be as wide as the thickness of the limb.

Choppers who develop a large crop of blisters usually grip the axe handle too tightly, says Pond. A light, firm grip is easy on the hands, yet prevents the axe from being lost by an unexpected turn of the blade.

The undercut on the side of a tree toward which it is to be felled should ordinarily be one-third to one-half the thickness of the trunk, depending on the way the tree leans. The saw is usually a better tool for completing the cut on the opposite side of the tree. For extremely large trees, the saw may also be used to cut one edge of the undercut, to save time in chopping.

Adequate Protection Against Onion Smut

Ithaca, N. Y. — New York State's $3,000,000 onion industry will get adequate protection in 1943 against onion smut, a disease which may take up to 70 per cent of an untreated crop of onions, says Prof. A. G. Newhall of the Cornell University Agricultural Experiment Station.

Formaldehyde has been the standard fungicide for the control of this disease, says Newhall, but even if government efforts to allocate a full supply of this scarce commodity fail, growers now have a second and third line of defense against the onion smut.

Experiments at the Station, in greenhouse and field, have shown that a distillate of Southern pine stumps can be used in place of formaldehyde for control of onion smut. The cost of the material is no greater, and the same equipment that is used to spread the liquid formaldehyde in the seed row can be used for the distillate. The new fungicide is a by-product of the huge naval stores industry, and is available in quantity.

In use, the distillate is sprinkled in the seed row to sterilize the soil about the onion seed, until the plants have sprouted and grown. After the first two or three weeks the smut organisms do not harm the onion plants. Nine farm tests showed that a 25 per cent field infection of smut was reduced to 3.3 per cent by formaldehyde, and to 3.9 per cent by the pine-stump distillate.

One or two organic sulfur dusts also show promise for control of onion smut, says Prof. Newhall. Though they do not control the disease quite as well as the liquid fungicides, they may prove practical, particularly for small growers who lack the equipment or labor for use of liquid fungicides.

IndianHead Hunters Outdo Local Plane Spotters

Kingstons "spotters" numbering 187 men and women, connected with the Aircraft Warning Service of the Fighter Command, have been outdone in their ability to "spot" airplanes in flight and in their alertness in detecting sound even though planes are not seen.

Despite the fact that local "spotters" rate four gold stars from the army personnel charged with this phase of activity, Colonel S. Moore, on his return to New Delhi after a tour of the Virgin Jungles, states that "the hearing of the native head hunters in the wild Naga hills in northeastern India is so keen they can hear the distant snap of a twig or the hiss of a cobra."

And the natives are working for the allies—as plane detectors or "spotters."

"They shout 'limpoo,' which means airplane, a good full minute before American "spotters" stationed there can hear the Jap motors."

Corvey scoffed at the idea of any bolting in this section in 1944.

However, he expressed belief southern states would make determined drives to send strong delegations to the next national convention to fight for "some attention to states' rights," and "to get away from some of the more radical tendencies of more recent years."

Other comments from southern party leaders:

T. W. Conley, Florida chairman: The Spangler statement is "a mere propaganda attempt to camouflage dissension existing in the Republican National Party X X X it is true that some Democrats disagree with new deal policies, but this variance is not strong enough to split the party."

J. Lon Duckworth, Georgia Chairman: "The Republican Party has nothing to offer the south. I feel confident Democrats of Georgia will never align themselves with the Republican party. If changes in policy are necessary, this can and will be attained through the Democratic party that has served the south these many years."

Skirts on Boys, Nix

South Haven, Mich., Dec. 18—Girls in slacks get by—but High School Principal J. R. Hervey draws the line at skirt-clad boys. Hervey, who had sanctioned slacks as proper feminine school attire, met a dozen youths arrayed in skirts at the school doors this morning and ordered them back into trousers. "I don't mind the skirts," Hervey declared, "but I couldn't permit the commotion they caused among other students."

Boy Struck by Taxi

Robert Buboltz, 8, of 65 Third avenue, was injured, but not seriously, when struck by a taxi driven by Robert Harvey of Bloomington at 7:15 Thursday night. He picked the boy up and hurried him to the Kingston Hospital, where he was later discharged.

$5,000 in Bonds Bought at Local Plant's Yule Party

jamin Schwartz, a member of the cigar concern, who was unable to be present that night, had pledged himself to match dollar for dollar the amount contributed by the employes, which brought the total sale of war bonds to $10,000.

Approximately 300 employes and friends attended the annual dinner and party last night with Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who had been 23 years with the concern, and George Colden, who had served as superintendent of the local plant for 26 years, as the guests of honor.

The dinner was marked by but one address, that of Superintendent Maspons who spoke in part as follows:

"One year has just passed since that fateful Sunday morning of December 7 when the hidden dagger of Japanese treachery struck deeply into the heart of our Pacific battle fleet at Pearl Harbor.

"It was a staggering blow; nevertheless, it was one from which we have fully recovered to exhibit the greatest industrial conversion to war production in modern history.

"In less than one year we have been able to inflict upon the enemy several naval defeats in the Pacific including bombing attacks on Tokyo and other important cities in Japan. We have the mastery of the seas, the mastery of the air and even more, the mastery of their so-called Japanese jungle-fighting.

"In less than one year American military power has thundered upon the shores of North Africa in one of the most spectacular invasions of all time.

"Yes, my friends, Uncle Sam is now ready to go, and every "kid" of 18 and 19 years of age is also getting ready to go with him. To start a big job; to finish a big job. How quickly? The answer rests with you and you and every one of us; our home front; the arsenal of Democracy.

"It must be done. It shall be done. But not without our help. As with our help, my friends, our "kids" will not go hungry; our "kids" will not suffer from want; our "kids" must not run short of planes, ships, tanks, or ammunition with which to fight—for you and me. And with the help of God, our "kids" will win.

"God bless America; . . . The cradle of Democracy . . . The defender of the weak . . . The sentinel of right."

Superintendent Maspons in opening said that it was a pleasure to have the mayor present, and that he also desired to extend hearty greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ramming. He said that in welcoming Mr. Colden to the party that night it was with sorrow that Mrs. Colden was unable to attend as she was a patient in the hospital.

Superintendent Maspons said that when the service committee had decided to hold the annual party that night it was decided to make it a Victory Party by selling war bonds and stamps. Several of the employes distributed pledge cards to the banqueteers, which were later gathered up and tabulated.

The total amount of bonds sold that night Superintendent Maspons announced was $5,000 which with the pledge of Mr. Schwartz to match the sale dollar for dollar brought the total amount to $10,000.

In one end of the Crystal Room was a large table on which were pound boxes of candy which were later distributed to all of the employes at the party.

Following the bond sale the tables were cleared from the room and dancing enjoyed.

New York Undergoes Surprise Blackout

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—For 15 minutes last night, New York lay beneath only the light supplied by nature, as a surprise training blackout put to test a new system giving advance warning to all concerned before the dousing of lights.

At 9 p. m. (E.W.T.) an inaudible signal—the "yellow"—was flashed through the five boroughs to police and civilian protection leaders ordering them to get into action.

When the "red" signal sounded at 9:34, the streets were cleared and the lights put out.

The "all clear" came at 9:49 in Manhattan and Richmond, and the lights went on in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx under a stagger system to avoid overtaxing the electric system.

Governor Charles Poletti toured sections of the city during the blackout and declared:

Rural Churches Will Combine for Pageant

The High Falls, Cottekill, Rosendale, and Stone Ridge Reformed Churches are combining to produce a pageant during Christmas week, which promises to be the highlight of the current Christmas season in that part of the county. The title of the pageant is "Watchers on the Hills," by Verna Whinery, with music by I. H. Meredith. The theme of the pageant is involved in the insistent question asked by a Shepherd Boy of a group of young shoppers, "Have you found Christmas?"

A cast of 32 characters has been selected from the four groups cooperating in the undertaking. Included in the cast are children and adults. Music will be by the combined choirs of the four churches, numbering 24 voices. The music is of unusual beauty and variety, and provides an inspiring background to the action of the pageant.

The pageant is under the direction of the Rev. A. H. Shultis of the Rosendale Church, assisted by the Rev. D. Ivan Dykstra of the Stone Ridge, Cottekill and High Falls churches. The scene and lighting is under the supervision of Mr. Shultis.

Because of the current transportation difficulties, the pageant will be presented in each of the participating churches, so that it will be within easy reach of audiences in the three villages. It will be produced first in the Rosendale church on Sunday evening, December 20, at 8 o'clock. This will be followed by a performance Tuesday evening at Cottekill Reformed Church, Sunday evening, December 27, at Stone Ridge Reformed Church, and Tuesday evening, December 29 at High Falls Reformed Church. The public is invited to see this outstanding production.

Twin Brothers Are Promoted
To First Lieutenants, U.S.A.

Camp Edwards, Dec. 18—"Marching Along Together" describes Lieutenants Thomas C., and Edwin C. McManus, of Kingston, twin brothers attached to the 63rd Quartermaster Battalion, who recently were promoted to first lieutenants simultaneously.

Twenty-three years ago they started to do things in pairs and are continuing to do so even in the Army. They were both inducted July 30, 1941, one month after both had been graduated from Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., where both had majored in philosophy and minored in economics.

Following their induction they were stationed with a quartermaster detachment at West Point, where both were made non-coms simultaneously, and early in May, 1942, both were selected for Officer Candidate School. Both were commissioned second lieutenants in the Quartermaster Corps upon graduation at Camp Lee, Va., and stationed here together with the 63rd Quartermaster Co.

Life has been a series of incidents of mistaken identity for the McManus brothers whose physical appearance is almost identical. Their Army serial numbers differ in only one figure, Edwin's being 1576371, and Thomas' 1576372. To those who are able to distinguish between the two they are called, informally, "E.C." and "T.C."

Staff Sergeant Is Commended
By General for Chart Work

Staff Sgt. Fred J. Johnston of 63 Main street was presented with a commendation by the commanding general, Harry J. Maloney, of the 94th Infantry Division, Camp Phillips, Kan. Staff Sgt. Johnston is a member of the G-3 office plans and training personnel of that division, one of the original training cadre sent to the division. This high honor was accorded Staff Sgt. Johnston for his work in producing training charts for instruction.

Sergeant Johnston was given the assignment to produce master charts for the division and through a series of experiments perfected a means of reproducing unlimited numbers of charts by the adaption of the silk screen process. A series of training charts was designed and 6,000 charts were reproduced in color from the original drawings.

It was the first division in the American army to have produced and distributed unified charts. According to the commendation this process has attracted much interest and in the future will undoubtedly be used in every branch of the army, for it is an inexpensive, rapid and highly satisfactory method and will be the means of simplifying the instruction of newly arrived recruits, as well as cutting the period of instruction on a time basis.

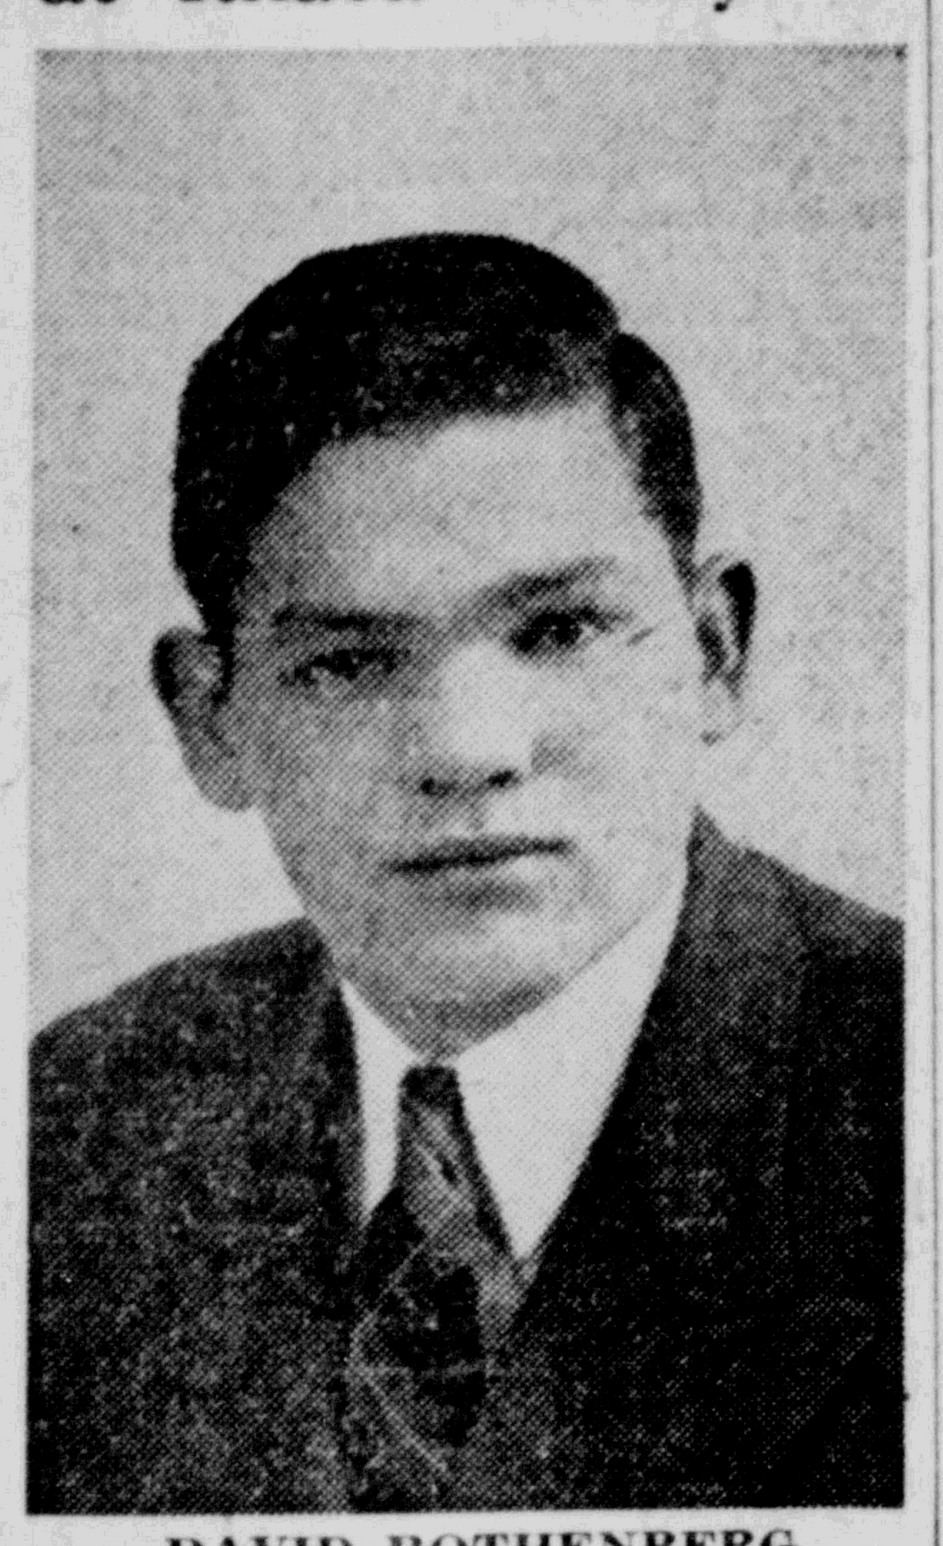
Received Degrees at Ithaca Today

MISS JEANNE DUBOIS



DAVID ROTHENBERG

Seventy-four seniors were awarded bachelor of science degrees in physical education, music and oral English today at Ithaca College's 47th annual commencement. Because of the accelerated wartime program of instruction, these students were enabled to be graduated five months earlier than customary.

A bachelor of science degree in physical education was awarded to Miss Jeanne DuBois, daughter of Mrs. Christine DuBois, 65 Henry street. During her undergraduate years she was a member of Delta Phi Zeta, social sorority, in which she held the office of secretary; census chairman of the Women's Self Government Association; and participated in "Student Scampers," an original musical comedy, and was a member of the field hockey team.

David Rothenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rothenberg, Main street, Kerhonkson, received a bachelor of science degree in physical education. During his undergraduate life he was a member of Adelphi, honorary scholastic society; treasurer of Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education fraternity; participated in the "Student Scampers," original musical comedy; and was included on the Dean's list for high scholastic standing.

Dr. Erwin A. Conroe, assistant commissioner of education, State Department of Education, Albany, gave the commencement address. The Ithaca College Choir and the Symphony Orchestra assisted in the program. The baccalaureate talk was given last evening by the Rev. Alfred H. Boutwell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Ithaca.

Good Taste Today
By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Young Woman Lives Alone

Because unconventional behavior may on occasion escape serious criticism does not mean that it is correct, advisable, or approved. This replies to a member of the younger generation who asks: "Is it proper for a young unmarried woman in her early twenties to live in an apartment alone when her own parents live in the same town? I don't think so but a friend tells me it's being done all the time."

To this I would like to qualify the "it" that is being done. The usual fact is that when a girl goes off and lives by herself it is because her family lives in the country, and she goes to live near her work in town. On occasion, as your informant told you, a girl who has the wherewithal may take an apartment in which she lives alone. But should she go to live alone in the same town as her family, it would naturally be supposed that either she and her family do not get on well together or they do not approve of her friends or her way of life. In neither case would people approve of the situation. As in nearly all disapprovals there can be exceptions. Such for example as that of an invalid in the family. At least I happen to know of a mother who is so nervous, no one can speak above a whisper or let a bell ring or even walk except on tip-toe. Her daughter was not free to see a friend—either man or girl. She is moreover a musician. She therefore took a bungalow as far as possible from neighbors who might be disturbed by her practicing. In this case no one disapproved, but should a young girl of eighteen or nineteen go off by herself so that she can be free to see whom she likes when she likes, she may as well realize that the squawk of Mrs. Grundy's jackdaws will be heard all around town.

A Problem in Rings

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been wearing a lovely engagement ring for several months. Now I've decided I'd like to have one of the revived styles of wide gold wedding rings, but the only thing is these wedding rings can not be worn with a large engagement ring. After the wedding I suppose I could wear the engagement ring on my right hand. What do you think of this plan? Or might I wear my wedding ring on my right hand?

Answer: No, not your wedding ring on your right hand; but there is no reason why you shouldn't wear your engagement ring on your right hand if you want to! In other words, an engagement ring on the third finger of your left hand announces that you are engaged. But after you are married your wedding ring announces your status and has really replaced your engagement ring. It should not matter (except to you) which finger you wear it on.

Art Of Correspondence

Social correspondence need not be confusing. There is a right way for every type. Mrs. Post explains all types in her booklet No. 502, "The Etiquette of Letter Writing." To obtain it, send 10 cents in coins and a 3-cent stamp to cover postage and handling, to Mrs. Post, care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Kingston and Newburgh Quintets Clash Tonight

Locals Will Meet Strong Squad and Outcome Should Be Guide for Season

The 1942-43 basketball season will get under way for Kingston High School tonight when Coach G. Warren Kias' cagers travel downstate to meet the Newburgh Free Academy team on their home court. The outcome of this fray may well be an indication of how Kingston will fare during the entire campaign, since the Goldbacks have a fairly strong squad.

Tonight's battle should prove of great interest, not only because it is a league tilt, but because Kingston and Newburgh, traditional rivals, always give their best when pitted against each other. Added to that is the fact that Kingston will be out to avenge last year's game which, although the Maroon cagers decisively beat Newburgh, 36-25, was declared unofficial by the DUSO League, because the referee had failed to appear and a local man substituted for him.

The Goldbacks, paced by their two stars, Johnny Antonucci and Buddy Maher, have won two games and dropped one so far this year. The lone setback was administered by Beacon, last week, in a long, tough game that went into two overtime periods. In this game, Newburgh led during most of the first three sessions, weakening only in the second overtime period. Prior to that, Coach W. Irving Goewey's squad had defeated both Cornwall and Highland. Kingston, on the other hand, has played only one game this season, beating Saugerties, 30-25, last Friday.

The Maroon and White hopes for tonight's clash rest mainly on the shoulders of high-scorer Rod Sagendorf, Capt. "Zeke" Zelie, and "Sanky" McGrane. McGrane will probably start at one of the forward slots, by merit of his fine showing in the Saugerties tilt. Sagendorf has a personal grudge against the N. F. A. cagers because the 16 points which he registered in last season's "unofficial" contest could not be counted in the race for DUSO high-scorer. Zelie had a bad night against Saugerties, only collecting three points, but is expected to hit his last year's stride this evening.

Coach Kias will probably start Sagendorf, and either McGrane or Les Morton at forward, Zelie at the pivot position and Fred Parslow and Fred Dressell in the backcourt, while Antonucci, Maher Sonny Santorine, Tom Victor and either Al Rhodes or Mickey Fescoe will take the floor for the downstaters. Since Newburgh has no Jayvee team, the preliminary will be a contest between two junior high school teams from the Hilly City.

Tonight's game is expected to be extermely close and hard fought with neither team winning by too great a margin.

All With Spotless Records

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Madison Square Garden basketball fans will be treated to something of a novelty tomorrow night when all four teams involved in a college doubleheader appear with spotless records. St. John's, with four straight victories, meets Oklahoma, which has won its three starts. The other game pits N.Y.U., with a winning streak of five, against Syracuse, which has won its only start.

Head for Pasadena

Athens, Ga., Dec. 18 (AP)—Forty-two University of Georgia football players and their coaches headed today for Pasadena, Calif., and their New Year's Day Rose Bowl engagement with the Bruins of U.C.L.A.

Johnny Mize Leading Slugger in Nationals

Giants' First Baseman Is Followed by Manager Mel Ott; Slaughter in Third Place

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Dec. 18 (AP) — The leading slugger in the National League last season, official records released today showed, was Johnny Mize of the New York Giants.

The husky first baseman who was traded from the St. Louis Cardinals after the 1941 season because they thought he had passed his peak, led the senior circuit this year in runs batted in with 110 and had a slugging percentage of .521 based on his extra base hitting.

Mize's batting average was .305, but in return for his 541 times at bat he collected 282 total bases, including 26 homers, 25 doubles and seven triples.

Right behind Mize in slugging percentage was his manager and teammate, Mel Ott, with .497, followed by Enos Slaughter, St. Louis .494; Stan Musial, St. Louis .490; and Ernie Lombardi, Boston, the batting champion, with .482.

Dolph Camilli of Brooklyn, who led in runs batted in a year ago, finished a close second last season with 109. Only Mize and Camilli succeeded in knocking across more than a hundred.

Along with the figures on slugging, the National League also released a miscellany of other records.

Ott, for instance, received 109 bases on balls to lead the league for the sixth time and make the tenth year in which he has received more than 100 walks. His lifetime total of 1,444 is a record. Ott's 93 runs batted in also boosted his record total to 1,648.

Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburgh led in strikeouts with 87, two more than Camilli. A year ago Camilli was the leader with 115 and DiMaggio fanned 100 times.

Nicholas (Mickey) Witek of the Giants, who was the leading second baseman on the basis of fielding percentage, hit into the most double plays, 23.

Bill Nicholson of the Cubs and Dick Bartell of the Giants tied for being hit most often by pitchers, each with eight.

The Cardinals, enroute to winning the pennant and world championship, proved themselves the best home club in the league, but the Dodgers were tops on the road. At home St. Louis won 60 and lost 17 while Brooklyn won 57 and lost 22. On the road Brooklyn won 47 and lost 28 while St. Louis won 46 and lost 31.

The Cardinals were the most proficient at winning shutout games, bagging 18 while being blanked themselves seven times. In the same category Brooklyn won 16 and lost eight.

The Cardinals had the best record in extra-inning games—winning 12, losing five and playing two ties. Brooklyn won 13 and lost seven.

EIRE BIRTHRATE DIPS

Eire's high birthrate is declining, a study recently released in Dublin shows. Fewer women marry in Eire than in any other country, yet previously the birthrate has maintained a higher level. The census of population analysis showed a 47,000 decline in the number of children under 15 during 10 years. The decline was much greater in rural than in town sections. The population under 21 years of age declined 69,000.

NATIVES INVENTORS

Inventive genius among the natives of Kenya has been spurred by the new industry of spinning created as a result of war conditions. Africans, it is said in Nairobi, learn easily. One has invented a crank: he turns the wheel and his wife sins. Another had manufactured a water spinning wheel which he operates in the river. Before the war Kenya imported all knitting yarns, blankets, woolen cloth and carpets, but now the local wool is utilized.

LET'S CLEAN THE SLATE

Its Christmastide. Let's clean the slate
Of every old-year grudge or hate.
Let's pin as prightly sprig of holly
Upon dull care and melancholy.
Let's reach out friendly hands and grip
Each other in warm comradeship.

A young man arrived at the Christmas Card counter:

Young Man—Have you anything sentimental?

Salesgirl—Here's a lovely one—"To The Only Girl I Ever Lived."

Young Man—Fine! I'll take four—no, six of those, please.

When a doctor gets sick and another doctor doctors him, does the doctor doing the doctoring have to doctor the doctor the way the doctor being doctored wants to be doctored, or does the doctor doing the doctoring doctor the doctor the way he wants to doctor?

Woman—Do slacks come in odd sizes?

Salesman—No, they get in that shape from being worn.

MY AMERICAN FLAG

My American flag, red, white and blue,
My American flag, I salute you.
I'm proud to be born in this great country;
I'm proud to be a son of liberty.
My American flag, I'd fight for you;
My American flag, I'd die for you,
Like others whose lives they gave.
That your stars and stripes may always wave.

SOME WISE MAN SAID THAT "YOU BELIEVE EASILY WHAT YOU HOPE FOR EARNESTLY."

Bill Fox may be called the champion optimist. He was sitting on the roof of his house during a flood, watching the water flow past, when the neighbor who owned a boat rowed across to him:

Neighbor—Hello, Bill!

Bill (pleasantly)—Hello, Sam.

Neighbor—All your fowls washed away this morning?

Bill—Yes, but the ducks can swim.

Neighbor—All your fruit trees gone, too?

Bill—Yes, but everybody said the crop would be a failure, anyhow.

Neighbor—I see the river's reached above your windows, Bill.

Bill—That's all right, Sam. Them windows needed washing.

PUTTING INTO CIRCULATION ONE KINDLY TRUTH ABOUT SOME OTHER FELLOW IS A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

FOLKS WHO SPEND TOO MUCH TIME LOOKING FOR FOUR LEAF CLOVERS OFTEN DISCOVER TOO LATE THAT THE GRASS HAS GROWN UNDER THEIR FEET.

A friend of ours had been limping around for a long time and finally went to see a doctor. Next thing we knew he was on crutches with a plaster cast on his ankle:

Friend—The doctor found my ankle was broken.

Us—You've had that trouble a long time. Why didn't you go to a doctor before?

Friend—I thought of it several times. But every time I say something is wrong with me, my wife says I'll have to give up smoking.

HONDURAS TO HELP U. S.

Search for new sources of war materials now urgently needed by the United States is under way in Honduras. Fruit companies and private individuals are assisting in the movement, it is announced at Belize. Experimentation on a large scale to learn if some products can be grown economically already is under way, with both hevea rubber and castor beans planted in the La Ceiba district. Abaca plantings are scheduled for trial as the next step in the war effort.

New Zealand will launch a plan to encourage farmers to sow at least 350000 acres of wheat in the 1943-44 year.

Reorganization of Courses in High School Announced

Albany— Extensive reorganization of high school courses to meet the changes brought about by lowering the draft age to 18 years has been announced by the State Education Department. The Division of Secondary Education has just issued to superintendents of schools and high school principals a bulletin, "Wartime Adjustments in Secondary Schools," which takes up the problems of accelerated programs for high school pupils of unusual ability and of emergency wartime programs for high school pupils.

The bulletin, signed by Dr. Warren W. Knox, Director of the Division, and Dr. George M. Wiley, Associate Commissioner in charge of instructional supervision, stresses the necessity of maintaining standards, while calling attention to the need for using a flexibility of pupil progress, established for many years, to speed the graduation of pupils of unusual ability in less than four years. Any restrictions on this program, it is pointed out, will result from local conditions, financial or curricular.

Methods of accelerating the program include increasing the pupil's schedule to take more than four units of work, increasing the number of periods weekly, completion of a unit of work in less than the standard 18 weeks and the addition of a summer study program. The bulletin states that such a program will "facilitate the high school-college relationship," thus meeting another war need.

Changes in course schedules are suggested as follows: introduction at once of an intensive review course in arithmetic for pupils not taking mathematics or related courses, setting up a one-semester course in mathematics for the second semester of the 1942-43 school year, introducing a double schedule of not less than ten periods a week in physics during the same second semester for pupils of average ability and above, providing a course in physics adjusted to pupils of less ability, scheduling a semester course in health for the second semester, providing an intensive course in American history for the same period, stressing industrial arts or vocational shop courses for pupils who wish to train for trades in the military forces or war industries, during the same semester, and completion of courses in English, foreign languages and other subjects not technically basic to war training by the end of the current semester.

Part-time study for pupils who would otherwise leave school entirely to work is also suggested. A series of emergency programs of special work is also presented in the bulletin.

Team Honors Go To Baseball Again

St. Louis Cardinals Are Choice of Sports Writers

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—It may be tradition, or it may be just habit that is tough to break, but whatever the reason the sports writers taking part in the annual Associated Press poll to determine the outstanding team of the year just can't get away from baseball.

This year it is the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals who hit the jackpot, making the eleventh straight time the honor as the outstanding team has gone to the diamond.

With a total of 206 points, and with 47 of the 84 experts nominating it for the No. 1 spot, the team which overtook and passed the Brooklyn Dodgers in a hectic National League race and then went on to whip the highly-favored New York Yankees in the World Series won the poll by a comfortable margin.

The Chicago Bear pro football team, in fact, was the only real competition for the Red Birds. The Bears, winners of 24 straight games before being knocked off by the Washington Redskins last Sunday, drew 30 first-place votes and a total of 148 points.

Only two other teams received first-place votes. The Ohio State football team was considered tops by five voters, and two voters rated the Georgia football team best. Ohio State received a total of 65 points and Georgia 19.

The undefeated Tulsa football team drew a total of 11 points, the New York Yankee baseball team 8, the Washington Redskins 7, and the Stanford Basketball team 4. Most of the ballots were in before the Redskins defeated the Bears, or the Washington footballers might have fared better.

Two groups received three points each, Great Lakes drawing its three through the combination of its basketball, baseball and football teams, and the Harvard crew getting a like number. Two points apiece went to the Illinois basketball team, the West Virginia basketball team and the Wisconsin football team.

Drawing one third-place vote each were the Yale swimming team, the Denver American Legion cagers, the St. Louis Browns, the Rhode Island basketball team, the Washington, Ind., High School basketball team, the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey team, the Medford, Mass., High School football team, the Boston College football team, the Oshkosh all-star basketball team, and the U. S. Naval Aviation Skeet shooting team.

Yanks-Cleveland In First Player Trade in League

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Dec. 18 (AP) — The American League's first player trade since the 1942 baseball season ended left the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians both better fortified today for the 1943 pennant race—if any.

The deal, announced yesterday by President Ed Barrow of the Yankees, sent Catcher Buddy Rosar and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine to the Indians for Outfielder Roy Weatherly and Oscar Grimes, an infield handyman.

There was no cash involved in the transaction. It also was an even swap from the standpoint of the military draft, an important consideration in any baseball deal these days. All four players have families and are classified 3-A.

Observers labeled the transaction the perfect trade, since it fills weak spots on both teams. Also, with Weatherly teaming up with Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller, it may give the Yankees the fastest outfield in the league.

Grimes, however, appeared to be the key man in the deal for the Yankees, who need infield insurance now that Phil Rizzuto is in the Navy, Red Rolfe is at Yale as a coach, Buddy Hassett is reported headed for the armed forces and Frank Crosetti is under suspension for the first 30 days of the 1943 season.

An all-around infielder, Grimes has played all four positions since he joined the Indians in 1938. He batted .179 in 51 games last season.

On the other hand, Rosar appeared to be the key man on the Cleveland side of the deal. The Indians were badly in need of a catcher. Their backstopping chores last season were handled principally by Rookie Jim Hegan and a minor league veteran, Otto Denning. Hegan has gone to the armed forces.

Rosar, a product of the Yankee farm system and second-string catcher for the bombers since 1939, batted .230 in 69 games last season, but he became the forgotten man after jumping the club in July to take an examination for the Buffalo, N. Y., police force, which he flunked. He was fined $250 and saw little action the rest of the season.

Cullenbine, who came to the Yanks from the Washington Senators late in August to replace Right Fielder Tommy Henrich when Tommy went to the Coast Guard, played in 123 games with both clubs in 1942 and hit .276.

Weatherly, who has had two hitches at Cleveland — the last since 1938—played in 128 games and batted .258 last season.

United Parents' Group Urges Hygiene Teaching

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Describing as "appalling" the incidence of veneral diseases among adolescents, the United Parents Association of New York has joined the city's health commissioner in urging public teaching of sex hygiene to older school children.

In letters yesterday to the commissioner, Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins, and Superintendent of Schools John E. Wade, Association President Julius Greenwald declared:

"Many parents are struggling to meet the problem, but feel unequipped by their training and the very nature of their emotional involvement in their children's welfare properly to instruct their adolescent children on this highly complex subject."

Greenwald asked that the Board of Education, which has decided to keep such courses out of the schools, reconsider, asserting that "our young people turn to the movies, lurid magazines, to street corners, back stairs and even more vicious sources for their information."

He proposed courses for parents as well as high school and college classes "where the subject can be handled objectively by trained people under controlled conditions."

Stebbins last week suggested the course for pupils from 15 to 19, releasing figures showing that in that group syphilis had increased from 212 cases in 1941 to 260 in 1942, and gonorrhea from 990 to 1,288.

Larkin-Jack Bout Tonight for Lightweight Title

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—For the folks who can't remember the last time they were able to ask the butcher to chop a round steak up into hamburger, Madison Square Garden tonight offers a world lightweight title fight between Tippy Larkin and Beau Jack.

This is the same world lightweight championship Sammy Angott left in one piece when he abdicated a few weeks back. Since then, however, the New York State Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association have been doing a little carving on it.

As a result, when Tippy and Beau finish flailing each other in their 15 rounder, which Promoter Mike Jacobs figures will lure a gaudy gate of $50,000 and a crowd of at least 15,000, the neatly-stitched 135-pound title doily will start to come apart at the beams.

The New York Commission has arranged that the winner tonight can stop dreaming of a white Christmas, because the 135-pound crown—that part of it recognized in New York and New Jersey—will be handed to him and that's a gift any of the boys would like to find in his sock Christmas morning.

But the N. B. A. claims this title recognition constitutes a case of "hand picking" a champion, and will not sanction any head man until a nationwide tournament is completed. So with New York blessing tonight's winner, the N. B. A. aiming toward another possibility and the Maryland delegation still to be heard from, it begins to look like open season.

There's talk Maryland may recognize someone else altogether.

Tonight's Santa Claus job is being done by General John J. Phelan. The august head of the New York Commission and his co-commissioners originally agreed with the N. B. A. idea. Then in what N. B. A. Prexy Abe Greene says was the about face of the year the empire state solons decided to give their blessing to the victor between the slim Jersey Italian and the busy little Georgia negro. Afterward, the New York fistic fathers will sponsor a tourney to decide who will get first crack at the "title" thus won.

Jack, a windmill kind of fighter who skyrocketed out of the locker room of the Augusta National Golf Club a couple of years ago, is a 5 to 8 facorite to turn the trick tonight, despite the fact he was regarded as just a pretty good club fighter with not too much class until he knocked off Allie Stolz a couple of months ago.

Although he'll crowd and charge continually, Larkin, who learned his fighting around New Jersey C. C. C. camps, is a cinch to outbox him but many of the experts believe Tippy'll get discouraged at having Beau in his lap round after round.

Tulsa Team Won't Be Without Rooting Section

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 18 (AP)—Tulsa University's Golden Hurricane off today for New Orleans and the Sugar Bowl, won't be without a rooting section in the New Year's game with Tennessee — despite travel curtailment which is keeping the home fans at home.

A campaign to put tickets in the hands of service men in New Orleans—If they'll cheer for dear Old Tulsa—promised today to take up a lot of the slack left by recall of some 5,000 tickets Tulsans were clamoring to buy, until the ODT stepped in.

It was Sam Avey's idea. It hit the Oklahoma sports promoter so suddenly that before he recovered from the shock he had pulled $25 out of his pocket to start the ball rolling.

"About 5,000 or 6,000 fans would have gone from here to New Orleans in normal times," Avey explained. "Now, if these people will kick in the money they would have spent for tickets, we can pay the admission of a lot of soldiers and sailors who'll be far from home on New Year's.

"At the same time, we can build up a good rooting section for Tulsa, and the boys will need it when they run into that tough Tennessee team."

Service men will be admitted to the Sugar Bowl at $1.10 each, considerably less than civilians, and before Avey's brain child was two hours old there was enough money in the fund to buy tickets for a hundred. He hopes there'll be enough for a few thousand.

More Work for Prisoners

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—The New York Correction Department's industries division has new contracts to provide 50,000 two-piece fatigue suits for the army, and 120,000 work shirts for the navy. Announcing the contracts yesterday, Governor Poletti disclosed that inmates of state prisons also are manufacturing approximately 900,000 yards of osnaburg cloth for the Defense Supplies Corporation, and 1,000 special carpenter's chests for the War Department.

Tags Go on Sale

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Officials of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau estimated about 2,000,000 automobiles will be licensed by New York motorists in the 1943 registration beginning today. A drop of 725,000 from the 1942 registration is expected because of gasoline and tire rationing. Car owners will receive a 10-inch steel strip bearing the legend "N.Y.-43" to bolt over the date on the 1942 plate.

Coaches of East All Stars Get First Look at Squad

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 18 (AP)—The coaching staff of the East All-Stars got a first look at its squad today as the collegians assembled at Northwestern University before moving on to San Francisco and the annual East-West benefit football game on New Year's Day.

Co-Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dr. George Hauser of Minnesota and Assistant Dudley De Groot of the University of Rochester planned to run the 21 men through drills today. The squad was to leave tonight (9 p. m. C.W.T.) on a non-trip to the West coast.

The 18th meeting of the East and West All-Stars is expected to net $60,000 for the shrine crippled children fund and war relief. The game was played in New Orleans last time.

Others on the squad are ends, Bob Dove, Notre Dame; Bill Burkett, Iowa, and Ed Murphy, Holy Cross; tackles, Al Wistert, Michigan, Al. Klug, Marquette, and Tom Vochs, Colgate; guards John Billmann, Minnesota; Morton Shiekman, Penn; Harry Wright, Notre Dame, and Tom Alberghini, Holy Cross; centers Spencer Mosley, Yale, and Joe Sabasteanski, Fordham; backs Bill Daley, Minnesota; Max Kielbasa, Duquesne; George Lynn, Ohio State; Steve Filipowicz, Fordham; George Ceithaml, Michigan, and Bert Stiff, Penn.

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of The First National Bank of Rondout for the election of directors, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting will be held at the banking house, No. 10 Broadway, in the City of Kingston, Tuesday, January 12th, 1943, between the hours of 11 A. M. and 12 Noon.

Irving Reynolds Van Kleeck, 26, of the West Shore Hotel pleaded not guilty to a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning. The hearing was adjourned to next Wednesday, and Judge Cahill fixed bail at $500.

Van Kleeck was arrested at 2:50 o'clock this morning on Broadway, near Cornell street, by Officers Joseph Fallon and Walter McDonough, in one of the police radio cars. The officers say that Van Kleeck was driving a truck on the left side of the street at the time he was arrested.

Police Arrested 47 Last Month

Disorderly Conduct Is Largest in Number

During the month of November the Kingston police department made 47 arrests, according to the monthly report of Chief of Police Charles Phinney submitted at the monthly meeting of the police board Thursday afternoon.

The largest number of arrests were those made on charges of disorderly conduct, while 11 arrests were made on charges of public intoxication. Seven arrests were made for violations of the traffic law, and one arrest on a charge of second degree assault, and two charged with third degree assault.

Five autoists were arrested on charges of operating automobiles while intoxicated and the other arrests were for minor offenses.

"A" cards would be temporary and possibly for only a few days.

The O.P.A. notice made no mention of suspension of "A" cards, which had been reported under consideration last night at tense conferences of O.P.A. and war petroleum administration officials, but no explanation was immediately available for possible future plans or the exact time involved.

The order came under quick fire from John Dressler of Hackensack, N. J., chairman of the executive committee of the eastern states conference of gasoline dealers, organized to meet rationing problems on the seaboard.

"What is 'an emergency' and how are you going to stop them from going from one station to another?" asked Dressler.

"Suspension of all A coupons would have been sound because it left open for use the 'B' and 'C' cards for essential purposes, but this new order has me puzzled."

Dressler said representatives of the retail gasoline business wished a chance, with or without salary, "to show them in Washington what can and what can't work."

Officers Elected by Mt. Horeb Chapter

Policeman Earl F. Schoonmaker was elected high priest of Mt. Horeb Chapter, No. 75, of the Royal Arch Masons at the annual meeting Wednesday evening in Masonic Temple. Following the election a turkey dinner was served. The newly elected officers were installed by Right Excellent Paul Jones, a representative of the Grand Chapter, assisted by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, as grand chaplain and Lamont V. Simpkins as grand marshal.

Others elected and appointed officers are: Gordon A. Craig, king; Herbert Markle, scribe; Thomas Lebert, secretary; Harry Pierce, treasurer; Byron S. Chatham, captain of host; Roderick St. Leger, principal sojourner; Justine Bell, royal arch captain; Frank Strobel, master of the third veil; Robert L. Howard, master of the second veil; Dr. Abraham Lipskar, master of the first veil; Eugene Morehouse, chaplain; Charles Young, sentinel; W. Whiting Fredenburgh, organist.

Another Attack Is Made

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—The navy announced today that army flying fortresses with fighter escorts had made another attack on the Japanese base at Munda on New Georgia Island in the Solomons, but said results were not reported.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Many stock market favorites today extended Thursday's speediest rally of the year by modest amounts but some leaders displayed a lack of follow-through steam.

There was little change in the good war news picture, tax offerings continued to be taken in stride and bullish thinking still predominated in Wall Street. Profit cashing, however, appeared as a handicap when suggestions were heard that the run-up of the day before may have been a bit too fast.

The list moved ahead irregularly at the start, with selected issues tacking on gains of fractions to a point or so at new peaks for the year or longer. Low-priced stocks again accounted for much of the turnover. Dealings slackened at intervals. Gainers predominated near the fourth hour.

Commodities advanced. Bonds turned narrow.

Among stocks at top marks for 1942 were Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Co., Chrysler, Goodyear, Deere, Oliver Farm, American Airlines, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum. A few of these eventually slipped. Allied Chemical and Norfolk & Western got up two each on restricted trades. Occasional losers included Santa Fe, du Pont, International Harvester, J. I. Case, United Aircraft and Cerro de Pasco.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Commercial Truck Owners Will Have Official Help

Owners of commercial trucks, who wish assistance in reviewing applications for certificates of necessity and making appeals for further allowance of gas, are to have the help of a representative from the Peekskill office of Defense Transportation during the next two weeks.

A representative from that office will be at the Ulster County Farm Bureau office, 74 John street, on Monday, December 21 and will be at the office for the ensuing two weeks, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. each day.

Those wishing his help are asked to bring with them their records of truck operation, including a record for seven consecutive days, their certificates of war necessity and, if they have already filed an application at the Peekskill office, a copy of that application.

This service is for owners of commercial trucks. Owners of farm trucks still will have their applications and appeals handled by the staff at the Farm Bureau office.

Gives Negative Answer

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—Without amplifying his reply, President Roosevelt gave a negative answer today to a press conference question as to whether he was planning to recommend extensive social security legislation to Congress.

BOYS HIT TAX ON COMICS

Taxes upon comics have drawn sharp protest from the youth of Eire. Five boys from a Dublin, Eire, school recently appeared before Minister of Finance Shean T. O'Kelly in a delegation to register opposition to the penny levy placed on each paper of the comic or adventure type going into Eire from Britain. The meeting was authorized after a 10-year-old schoolboy wrote a letter to the Minister asking for a hearing.

Specialized War Training Proposed for Schools

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Immediate introduction of specialized war training in New York high schools is recommended by the State Education Department for youths headed for military service when they are 18.

In a bulletin sent yesterday to school superintendents and principals, the department urged acceleration of schedules to spend the graduation of prospective selectees, and said specialized courses can be started in the second semester of the current school year.

"The suggested procedures apply only to schools able to develop such schedules," the bulletin stated, "and to those pupils of unusual ability who have the physical, mental and emotional qualities essential for intensive work."

Lunch rooms of an Australian railway used 700 tons of meat, 100 tons of sausages, 300,000 loaves of bread, 250,000 gallons of milk and 2,316,000 pies in the last year.

O. P. A. Outlines Basic Facts On National Point Rationing

Washington, Dec. 18 — Basic facts on point rationing were outlined today by the Office of Price Administration.

Point rationing will be introduced to Americans early in 1943 when war rationing book two is distributed.

The purpose of point rationing is to guarantee everyone a fair share of scarce but essential goods while at the same time giving everyone a variety of items to choose from.

There are three chief differences between point rationing and the coupon rationing which is now in effect for sugar and coffee.

The first important difference is this—under straight coupon rationing, one single coupon entitles the consumer to buy a specific amount of a single commodity—such as, one sugar coupon entitles you to buy three pounds of sugar.

But in points rationing one set of coupons covers a whole group of commodities. For instance, your week's meat ration coupons would enable you to choose your ration freely between beef, pork, lamb or mutton.

The second important difference is this—the coupons in point rationing are of different denominations. Those to be spent in one week, for example, will include a one-point coupon, a two-point coupon, a five-point coupon and an eight-point coupon.

The third important difference is this—the various rationed items within one group will have different point values. For example, tenderloin steak, being relatively scarcer, might have a high point value and require a larger number of coupons, while hamburger, being available in greater quantities, would have a lower point value. Thus, in exchange for a ration coupon worth eight points, the housewife might be able to obtain one pound of tenderloin steak or four pounds of hamburger. (Point values have not been set yet, values used here are for illustration only.)

The government will set the point value of each item within the group of rationed products and issue an official list. Point values will be based on available supplies and will vary as supplies of particular items increase or decrease.

War ration book two, will have four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps. The blue stamps will be used for the first group of goods to be rationed by points. The red stamps will be used for the second group of point-rationed goods.

The number on each stamp tells how many points the stamp is worth. The letter on each stamp tells what period it is good in. The government will announce these periods in advance.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Double Surprise

Brazil, Ind.—P. A. Rounds, proprietor of a chicken farm, decided to surprise his mother, who lives 25 miles away in Terre Haute, with a visit.

En route, Rounds' car collided with another—his mother's.

She had decided to "surprise" him.

Two-Alarm Fire

Elizabeth, N. J.—A fire, starting in the basement of the Anthony Martin home, reached the wiring and produced a short circuit which caused the front doorbell to ring.

Mrs. Anthony went to the door, but nobody was there.

The bell rang again. Still nobody there.

Then she followed the bell wire to the basement and found the blaze in time to call the fire department before much damage was done.

Wooo! Wooo!

San Francisco — A wail that sounded like an air raid siren sent startled patrolmen dashing into a rooming house. Walter Plobner, itinerant worker with a gift for imitations, was brought before Judge Twain Michelsen and sentenced to 30 days for drunkenness.

The court called the next case. Then an express train's whistle shrilled through the room. Even the judge jumped.

"That was the Sacramento Northern," Probner called from the lockup.

The judge warned him to silence lest he be derailed for another 30 days.

Booby Prize

Spokane, Wash.—Faced with a waiter shortage during a high school basketball tournament, Gonzaga University, the sponsor, produced this scheme:

The Gals Want Garters

Albuquerque, N. M.—The gals need garters. Rubber is scarce. So—

They are asking men—especially those entering military service—to donate suspenders. Suspenders with plenty of snap are preferred, said Miss Nella Beth Brashear, who started the idea.

"Stockings now are being made with a slick finish," she explained, "and only a really firm garter will hold them up."

Tears—Not Cheers

Hutchinson, Kas. — Mrs. Max Shirk choked back the lump in her throat and didn't shed a tear as her husband left for the Army. But the lump just stayed there. It became so painful she went to a doctor.

"You should have cried," he told her, blaming emotional stress for the ruptured blood vessel in her throat.

Bird in the Hand

Belleville, Ill.—Quail hunting had been good and Clarence Neuner brought home 11 birds, which he placed in the refrigerator without dressing them.

An hour later, he opened the ice box door and was almost floored by a flurry of wings as one of the quail flew out. The bird finally was flushed for the last time from under the kitchen stove.

To honor Don Carlos Ossandon Barros, who labored incessantly for the extension of the "garden city" in the suburbs, monument has just been unveiled in Santiago, Chile.

Seven hundred schools in England have adopted ships and have sent 700 parcels to them in the last six months.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded during the night by The Freeman thermometer was 6 degrees. The highest point reached up until noon today was 23 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity — This afternoon cold and moderately windy. Tonight considerably colder than last night, diminishing winds.

Eastern New York—This afternoon cold with scattered snow flurries. Tonight somewhat colder than last night with diminishing winds.

SNOW FLURRIES

Rising Temperatures Come With Last Night's Snow

Rising temperatures and snow brought relief to Kingston residents Thursday night following the sub-zero temperatures that prevailed during the early morning hours in the city that day.

Snow began falling about 9 o'clock last night while the thermometers were recording 25 degrees above zero as compared with readings as low as 13 degrees below at 6 o'clock that morning.

There was a total snowfall last night of three inches, according to the records in the city engineer's office, making a total snowfall so far this month of 9½ inches.

The Board of Public Works called out the snow plows again last night, and this morning all of the streets in the city had been plowed.

This morning at 5 o'clock the thermometer at the city engineer's office recorded 15 degrees above zero.

Trade Channels Get Coins Which Haven't Been in Circulation for Long, Long Years

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—The treasury's campaign to put idle coins into circulation for the Christmas shopping trade is coming along nicely, officials reported today—and with some astonishing results.

Pennies and nickels which have not seen the light of day for years are now back into trade channels, where they are helping to relieve demands on the mint for new pieces.

The record to date for turning in the largest number is held by a University of Pittsburgh professor, J. Elwood Amos, who, with the aid of his economics students, gathered up 1,000,000 pennies, the entire "harvest" weighing three quarters of a ton.

Professor Amos proudly reported to Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, that one freshman class at the university counted 500,000 of the coins "without losing a penny."

The Chicago Daily News offered a $25 war bond for the most unusual coin receptacle, and in one day was deluged with 500,000 pennies. The $25 prize was won by a person who turned up with a 200 year old charcoal burning flat iron, which disgorged $15 in pennies and nickels.

In Cleveland, a war worker turned in 60 glass banks containing more than 10,000 Jefferson nickels which he had been collecting for three years. He exchanged them for "folding money" which he said he was going to apply on the mortgage on his home.

Out in Owantanna, Minn., two banks ran advertisements in the local newspapers urging cooperation in the campaign and in one week received 32,713 pennies and 5,316 nickels in addition to their regular deposits.

In cooperation with the local civilian defense council, the students of the College of the City of New York collected 10,000 pennies in two weeks, devoting one day a week to the task. They have informed the director of the mint they hope to raise these collections to 10,000 a week.

Mrs. Ross said that school children and school officials throughout the country were cooperating wholeheartedly in the drive, which was initiated to relieve a growing shortage of small coins, especially pennies and nickels.

Oldest Press Club 'Pen and Pencil,' Observes 50th Year

Celebration Will Be Held Tonight at Glamorous Old Philadelphia Gathering Place

Philadelphia, Dec. 18 (AP)—It's always looked like a corner taproom, but—

When President William Howard Taft stopped by, the members obligingly gave him pointers on the state of the nation—and he listened.

Thurston the magician called frequently—and picked up several new card tricks.

Richard Harding Davis made it his hangout, and so did Gallagher, his famous cabbie, and so, according to legend, did Gallagher's horse, who liked to stand up to the bar and drink with the boys.

They'll all probably be there in spirit tonight, for tonight the Pen and Pencil Club, oldest press club in the nation, observes its 50th anniversary.

The club, a hangout of the great and near-great of three generations, is celebrating by throwing a party at which copy boys may argue with editors, and statesmen, industrialists, thespians and politicians can have their say, too. But regardless of their names, once inside the celebrities will have to fend for themselves. It's all going to be very informal.

The club, whose members include Republican editorialists and ardent typewriter strategists, already has received congratulatory messages from President Roosevelt and General MacArthur. The President praised the working press for its understanding of its obligations, and MacArthur messaged from Australia:

"Tell your members from an old soldier at the front that the pen is still mightier than the sword."

There'll be stories told tonight, too, and by reporters who wouldn't be caught dead winking at the truth.

They'll recall the tale that Gallagher used to unfetter his horse in front of the club so that, when he tired of waiting, he could come in and sip beer.

They'll remember that George M. Cohan was an enthisiastic member, that Ed Wynn supposedly started his comedy career by entertaining copy readers, that Victor Herbert made the club his Philadelphia headquarters, that Johnny Black wrote "Dardanella" at a table not far from the bar, and that William Jennings Bryan visited the club although he was a dry.

The club, in membership, at least, always has been stag. The only woman member was Elizabeth M. Murray, the torch singing comedienne of the 1890's, whose songs the members liked so well that they voted her in.

Testing Device Is Taking Guesswork, Peril From Flight

Radio Test Recorder Places Finding of Weak Points in Planes in Field of Pure Science

Downey, Calif., Dec. 18 (AP)—He was a picturesque man, the oldtime test pilot of fact and fancy, but his work is being stripped of much of its glamor—and not a little of its peril—by a device of wires, tubes and charts which will do most of his job for him, and do it better.

Vultee Aircraft, Inc., after 14 months experimenting, today announced perfection of a radio flight test recorder, which will remove from the realm of guesswork into that of pure science the hazardous task of uncovering weak points in untried fighter and bomber airplanes.

The recorder, which Vultee President Harry Woodhead says will save months of precious time for the aircraft industry, was invented by H. D. Giffen, former Hollywood motion picture sound engineer, and developed by him and Vultee technicians.

From now on, when the untested plane is wheeled out to the flight ramp, it will be studded from stem to stern, and from wing tip to wing tip, with 70 radio pick-up devices. Every strategic part of the craft will be so equipped.

And, when the ship takes the air, every one of those devices will be carrying messages of significance to a group of engineers in a Vultee laboratory far below, studying charts on which will be recorded the mechanical observations on the plane's performance.

Such factors as flutters, vibrations, stresses, strains, temperatures, speed and altitude will be duly inscribed for the engineers to study at leisure, Woodhead explained.

Thus on one flight, he pointed out, will be provided, and accurately, a mass of data which it might take a test pilot many hours of flying time to acquire.

"In some instances," said Woodhead, "the device might save a year of engineering development which would be lost in the event of a crash during a test flight. In such a case the defects causing the crash would have been faithfully recorded."

And crashes can actually be averted by the flight test recorder, he said. During a flight, the engineers, perhaps miles away, know more about the plane's performance than does the pilot, and can warn him by two-way radio of approaching difficulties.

Under the old system, a pilot might be instructed to take an experimental ship up and pull it out of a "nine-G" dive. He would strap a notebook to his right knee, and go up. When he had pulled out of the dive, if he pulled out at all, he would jot down such of the plane's characteristics as he had noted.

But when the radio recorder is used, the procedure runs something like this:

"Engine mount strain gauges show excessive vibration at 2,300 R.P.M.," they warn Davis, "Get off 2,300."

Davis alters his speed, a potential mishap has been averted, and hours of precious time saved.

squeezes," the committee said operating margins between replacement costs and ceiling prices "are too thin to permit of continued operations except at a loss," in some instances the replacement costs being higher than current ceiling prices.

Numerous complaints to O.P.A., the committee declared, "were completely ignored," or were handled "with so many complications of red tape and bureaucratic buck passing as to leave the complainants bewildered."

In addition "to the burden of price squeezes," the report continued, distributors face acute problems of obtaining a fair share of available consumer goods, the conclusion being "inescapable that some method for an equitable distribution of consumer goods is necessary if many distributors are to survive."

"It is the considered opinion" of the committee, the report added, "that the failure of the program of the smaller war plants corporation, as evidenced in our hearings, can be attributed to the management of the corporation."

Much of its conclusions, the committee explained, were drawn from prolonged hearings in Washington and from a first-hand inspection tour of the south and southwest. A more comprehensive report, it said, would be filed shortly.

8th Army Pushes Toward Tripoli

yesterday in the sixth day of sustained aerial assault.

Swarms of Planes in Raids

Swarms of flying fortresses and Douglas A-20 attack bombers, escorted by Lockheed lightning fighters, raided Tunis, Bizerte, Gabes and Sidi Tibet, west of Tunis.

German attempts to break up the raids were said to have failed completely. No American planes were lost and only one fighter was damaged, but five German fighters were knocked down and three others damaged badly.

The Russians officially denied German assertions that Red army forces had been encircled and wiped out at Torpopets, northeast of Velikie Luki on the central front.

The Soviet information bureau said that Toropets "can be regarded with full justification as a town in the Soviet rear where even the salvos of heavy guns cannot be heard."

In this account the Russians said their forward forces had hurled the Germans more than 60 miles south and 45 miles west of Toropets "as far back as the winter of 1941-42." An implication was that southbound Red army men threaten Smolensk in the current campaign. This big highway town is just east of the border of old White Russia, which the Nazis overran in the first months of their war with the Soviet union.

One force in this area was said to have reached the vicinity of Bely, little less than half way between Rzhev and Smolensk.

German losses in recent fighting on this front were placed at 7,000, and the Russians said 2,000 of their own troops were killed.

To the south, Russian troops were consolidating their positions in the Surovikino section of the Don bend some 90 miles west of Stalingrad, the Moscow communique reported.

It said tank battles developed southwest of Stalingrad, where the Russians smashed a Nazi counterattack in force and pushed on to the approaches to Kotelnikovski, on the rail line to the Caucasus 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Nuzzo Denies He Overcharged Men For Refreshments

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Samuel Nuzzo, former officer of a union whose members work on a $300,000,000 New York city water project, denied today he had overcharged for refreshments served union members at a tavern of which he was part owner.

Continuing on the witness stand in his trial on grand larceny and forgery charges, Nuzzo testified the amounts were ascertained from bar checks and computed in the union office by his secretary, Mrs. Helen Ronk McKay.

The state has presented testimony purporting to show $2,291 was spent for refreshments in Nuzzo's tavern after four union meetings in 1941. Nuzzo was indicted for misappropriating $9,844 from Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A. F. L.).

Nuzzo contended in his testimony that the members voted a motion each time for refreshments, that the motions were seconded, and that from 40 to 150 members partook.

He also testified the union's executive board had authorized him at his request, to make a final payment of $495.96 on an automobile he purchased in June, 1940. He contended he had worn out one car in service of the union and felt it the latter's duty to provide a replacement. No union member opposed his proposal, Nuzzo asserted.

Concerning the state's accusation that he transferred $1,000 illegally from the union's death benefit reserve to the general fund, Nuzzo asserted yesterday he made the transaction on the advice of James Bove of New York city, international vice president of the union. Funds were needed to pay salaries and meet office expenses, he added.

Nuzzo declared he believed Bove had authority to approve the transfer, because Bove was given such power after he ordered Local 17's meetings suspended in 1937. Nuzzo had complained the meetings were too disorderly.

Testimony of a state's witness, Harold S. Smith, who was recording secretary of Local 17 when Nuzzo was business agent, that he had falsified minutes of union meetings on Nuzzo's instructions, were flatly denied by Nuzzo.

ing this method of dispersing some of the Japanese, about two-thirds of whom are native United States citizens, as one means of solving the crowded relocation problem now centered in ten camps.

The granting of indefinite leaves to those obtaining regular work supplements the program under which some 250 were allowed to transfer from Pacific coast to midwestern and eastern colleges, and under which large groups were granted temporarily leave for seasonal work.

More than 9,000 were allowed to go out on temporary leave to help harvest sugar beet crops in the west, but most of them have returned to the centers.

Those who have gone out on indefinite leave have been offered jobs as domestic servants, nurses, and clerical, restaurant, laundry and floral nursery workers.

In addition, there have been a few mechanics and "one or two" engineers.

None is allowed to displace another worker or cut under the prevailing wage for his type of work.

John Baker, director of W.R.A.'s office of reports, said there are "very few" pro-Axis sympathizers among those remaining in the centers.

Crete which have hamstrung the main Mediterranean channels.

Once cargo ships can cross again from Gibraltar to the Suez Canal we shall have an entirely new situation. The whole Middle East and India can be reached comparatively quickly with supplies and troops. Aid for Russia through Persia and the Caucasus will be facilitated. The possibility of Hitler breaking through the Caucasus into the Middle East—if indeed that danger still exists in any degree—will be nil.

So the battle of the sands in Northern Africa is one of the basic operations of the entire war. Its ramifications literally run around the world. Each hammer blow that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery strikes at Marshal Rommel, for example, makes the structure in General Douglas MacArthur's territory vibrate because the allied drive in the Mediterranean theatre is in effect an assault on the Japanese left wing.

Once Rommel and the Axis forces in Tunisia have been disposed of, a new heaven will open up for allied forces and it will be a new hell for Hitler.

The lack of airdromes within easy striking distance of major Axis bases has handicapped the British and American air forces terribly. Also, of course, a great fleet of planes has been tied to the land fighting in Africa.

The release of equipment and the acquisition of secure strategic airdromes will permit a new aerial offensive which will rake Axis territory from stem to stern. This will be possible not only because of a vastly improved strategic position but because American and British warplane production is beginning to swamp the Axis.

Photos Are Released

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—Like all other pictures, some photographs which arrived recently showing scenes and figures of an American landing in North Africa had to go through military censorship. But they were released as all right for publication. They were photographs of Stephen Decatur's naval expedition to Tripoli, in 1804.

Kiwanis Club Is Guest to Several Local Personalities

Kiwanis had a wealth of material for its entertainment program at the noonday meeting Thursday. Besides Katherine M. Murphy, secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and director of Camp Happyland, who spoke briefly, Major Carlton O. Preston and Lieutenants Jerry Martin, Jacob H. Tremper, Harry Rigby and John Melville, of the First Battalion, 56th Regiment, New York State Guard, were guests of the club and took part in the program.

Miss Murphy, who was introduced by Judge Fowler, Kiwanian and president of the Health Association, told of the steady growth of the sale of Christmas Seals—over $10,000 worth last year and more being sold this year. She also spoke of Camp Happyland, where 90 children each year are given a vacation and from which they leave healthier and happier. Miss Murphy had with her a boy of 10 years who had spent 15 months at the tuberculosis hospital and who has since returned to his home. Questioned by Judge Fowler he told of the treatment he had received and what it had done for him. Miss Murphy commented that although tuberculosis now ranks seventh on the list of diseases it still causes more deaths than any other disease in the ages between 15 and 45 years.

Lieutenant Martin presided at Co. B's part of the program and presented as the first speaker Major Preston, commanding officer. The major spoke of the present organization as being, in its line of succession, the oldest military organization in the country, with members of units from this section having fought in every war in which the country has been engaged.

Major Preston told of the work the men of the 56th are doing, putting in three nights every week, as they get into shape for any duty they may be called on to perform within the state, such as guarding railroads and bridges, serving in time of air raids, etc.

Lieut. Tremper gave a talk on the use of gas in warfare. He spoke of the chlorine gas that was first used by the Germans in the last World War, with greater effect than they realized at the time.

Lewisite, the modern gas, was described as the most devastating gas known. Lieut. Tremper also demonstrated the U. S. standard gas mask and also showed a sample of an English mask, designed for civilian use, which is much cheaper in design and construction and not nearly as effective.

The closing talk, by Lieut. Rigby included an interesting demonstration of five of the efficient weapons in use, including a rifle with a range of nearly three miles, a submachine gun, a "tommy gun," a 12-gauge shot-gun for close work and a hand grenade.

All of the officers spoke of the need of recruits for the Guard and Major Preston called attention to the fact that enlistments now can be taken at 17 years of age.

HISTORIC DOLE CUT

St. Cross dole, one of the last remaining instances of the medieval spirit of hospitality, has been reduced at Winchester, England. When visitors to the 800-year-old hospital ask for hospitality they receive only a small square of bread and a sip of ale instead of the slice of bread and brimming horn of ale of pre-ration years. Genuine wayfarers seeking charity, fare much better. Their allowance has not been cut. It is still a big piece of bread and a half pint of ale from the horn.

England has a scrap metal drive and 1,200 local authorities have opened collection depots.

Rhythm Speeds Wood Cutting

Full Swing Soon Makes Beginner an Artist

Ithaca, N. Y.—Rhythm in his axework has made a music professor one of the best woodchoppers of the 76 Cornell faculty members who are cutting their own fuelwood this winter, under the auspices of the University forestry department.

A sharp axe, full clearance for the swing, a light but firm grip, and rhythm in chopping with a swing over both shoulders are the elements of speedy and easy cutting of trees and logs for fuelwood, according to James D. Pond, extension forester of the New York State College of Agriculture.

A dull axe probably discourages more beginners in the art of woodchopping than anything else, says Pond. The axe for chopping should have a narrow, tapered blade. A new axe usually needs to be ground down on grindstone or emery wheel, as the blade is likely to be too thick, though it may be sharp. A dull axe is far more dangerous to use than a sharp one.

Beginners usually prefer an axe 3½ to 4 pound in weight, either double — or single-bitted. The double-bitted axe usually has one sharp thin blade for chopping, and a heavier, thicker blade for trimming or cutting near the ground, where the axe may strike soil or stone.

All limbs and low brush should be trimmed out of the way before the work of chopping a tree starts, suggests Pond. A full-armed stroke, with one hand guiding the helve as it slides down to meet the other hand at the end of the handle gives the most cutting power.

Make Clean Chips

Rhythm in chopping comes from a steady swing, not too fast, first from the left side, then from the right side, to loosen each chip from both sides. If the tree or limb is to be cut through from one side, the chip should be 1½ times as wide as the tree is thick. If chips are so wide that they stick, they are cut in half with an extra stroke. If the cut is to be made from two sides, the first chip should be as wide as the thickness of the limb.

Choppers who develop a large crop of blisters usually grip the axe handle too tightly, says Pond. A light, firm grip is easy on the hands, yet prevents the axe from being lost by an unexpected turn of the blade.

The undercut on the side of a tree toward which it is to be felled should ordinarily be one-third to one-half the thickness of the trunk, depending on the way the tree leans. The saw is usually a better tool for completing the cut on the opposite side of the tree. For extremely large trees, the saw may also be used to cut one edge of the undercut, to save time in chopping.

Adequate Protection Against Onion Smut

Ithaca, N. Y. — New York State's $3,000,000 onion industry will get adequate protection in 1943 against onion smut, a disease which may take up to 70 per cent of an untreated crop of onions, says Prof. A. G. Newhall of the Cornell University Agricultural Experiment Station.

Formaldehyde has been the standard fungicide for the control of this disease, says Newhall, but even if government efforts to allocate a full supply of this scarce commodity fail, growers now have a second and third line of defense against the onion smut.

Experiments at the Station, in greenhouse and field, have shown that a distillate of Southern pine stumps can be used in place of formaldehyde for control of onion smut. The cost of the material is no greater, and the same equipment that is used to spread the liquid formaldehyde in the seed row can be used for the distillate. The new fungicide is a by-product of the huge naval stores industry, and is available in quantity.

In use, the distillate is sprinkled in the seed row to sterilize the soil about the onion seed, until the plants have sprouted and grown. After the first two or three weeks the smut organisms do not harm the onion plants. Nine farm tests showed that a 25 per cent field infection of smut was reduced to 3.3 per cent by formaldehyde, and to 3.9 per cent by the pine-stump distillate.

One or two organic sulfur dusts also show promise for control of onion smut, says Prof. Newhall. Though they do not control the disease quite as well as the liquid fungicides, they may prove practical, particularly for small growers who lack the equipment or labor for use of liquid fungicides.

Five sons and daughters of M. McVey are now singing in St. Bartholomew's Church choir in Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Railways passenger travel in Jamaica has been reduced to a minimum to conserve coal for the transportation of food.

Rural Churches Will Combine for Pageant

The High Falls, Cottekill, Rosendale, and Stone Ridge Reformed Churches are combining to produce a pageant during Christmas week, which promises to be the highlight of the current Christmas season in that part of the county. The title of the pageant is "Watchers on the Hills," by Verna Whinery, with music by I. H. Meredith. The theme of the pageant is involved in the insistent question asked by a Shepherd Boy of a group of young shoppers, "Have you found Christmas?"

A cast of 32 characters has been selected from the four groups cooperating in the undertaking. Included in the cast are children and adults. Music will be by the combined choirs of the four churches, numbering 24 voices. The music is of unusual beauty and variety, and provides an inspiring background to the action of the pageant.

The pageant is under the direction of the Rev. A. H. Shultis of the Rosendale Church, assisted by the Rev. D. Ivan Dykstra of the Stone Ridge, Cottekill and High Falls churches. The scene and lighting is under the supervision of Mr. Shultis.

Because of the current transportation difficulties, the pageant will be presented in each of the participating churches, so that it will be within easy reach of audiences in the three villages. It will be produced first in the Rosendale church on Sunday evening, December 20, at 8 o'clock. This will be followed by a performance Tuesday evening at Cottekill Reformed Church, Sunday evening, December 27, at Stone Ridge Reformed Church, and Tuesday evening, December 29 at High Falls Reformed Church. The public is invited to see this outstanding production.

Twin Brothers Are Promoted
To First Lieutenants, U.S.A.

Camp Edwards, Dec. 18—"Marching Along Together" describes Lieutenants Thomas C., and Edwin C. McManus, of Kingston, twin brothers attached to the 63rd Quartermaster Battalion, who recently were promoted to first lieutenants simultaneously.

Twenty-three years ago they started to do things in pairs and are continuing to do so even in the Army. They were both inducted July 30, 1941, one month after both had been graduated from Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., where both had majored in philosophy and minored in economics.

Following their induction they were stationed with a quartermaster detachment at West Point, where both were made non-coms simultaneously, and early in May, 1942, both were selected for Officer Candidate School. Both were commissioned second lieutenants in the Quartermaster Corps upon graduation at Camp Lee, Va., and stationed here together with the 63rd Quartermaster Co.

Life has been a series of incidents of mistaken identity for the McManus brothers whose physical appearance is almost identical. Their Army serial numbers differ in only one figure, Edwin's being 1576371, and Thomas' 1576372. To those who are able to distinguish between the two they are called, informally, "E.C." and "T.C."

Staff Sergeant Is Commended
By General for Chart Work

Staff Sgt. Fred J. Johnston of 63 Main street was presented with a commendation by the commanding general, Harry J. Maloney, of the 94th Infantry Division, Camp Phillips, Kan. Staff Sgt. Johnston is a member of the G-3 office plans and training personnel of that division, one of the original training cadre sent to the division. This high honor was accorded Staff Sgt. Johnston for his work in producing training charts for instruction.

Sergeant Johnston was given the assignment to produce master charts for the division and through a series of experiments perfected a means of reproducing unlimited numbers of charts by the adaption of the silk screen process. A series of training charts was designed and 6,000 charts were reproduced in color from the original drawings.

It was the first division in the American army to have produced and distributed unified charts. According to the commendation this process has attracted much interest and in the future will undoubtedly be used in every branch of the army, for it is an inexpensive, rapid and highly satisfactory method and will be the means of simplifying the instruction of newly arrived recruits, as well as cutting the period of instruction on a time basis.

Received Degrees at Ithaca Today

MISS JEANNE DUBOIS

DAVID ROTHENBERG

Seventy-four seniors were awarded bachelor of science degrees in physical education, music and oral English today at Ithaca College's 47th annual commencement. Because of the accelerated wartime program of instruction, these students were enabled to be graduated five months earlier than customary.

A bachelor of science degree in physical education was awarded to Miss Jeanne DuBois, daughter of Mrs. Christine DuBois, 65 Henry street. During her undergraduate years she was a member of Delta Phi Zeta, social sorority, in which she held the office of secretary; census chairman of the Women's Self Government Association; and participated in "Student Scampers," an original musical comedy, and was a member of the field hockey team.

David Rothenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rothenberg, Main street, Kerhonkson, received a bachelor of science degree in physical education. During his undergraduate life he was a member of Adelphi, honorary scholastic society; treasurer of Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education fraternity; participated in the "Student Scampers," original musical comedy; and was included on the Dean's list for high scholastic standing.

Dr. Erwin A. Conroe, assistant commissioner of education, State Department of Education, Albany, gave the commencement address. The Ithaca College Choir and the Symphony Orchestra assisted in the program. The baccalaureate talk was given last evening by the Rev. Alfred H. Boutwell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Ithaca.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Young Woman Lives Alone

Because unconventional behavior may on occasion escape serious criticism does not mean that it is correct, advisable, or approved. This replies to a member of the younger generation who asks: "Is it proper for a young unmarried woman in her early twenties to live in an apartment alone when her own parents live in the same town? I don't think so but a friend tells me it's being done all the time."

To this I would like to qualify the "it" that is being done. The usual fact is that when a girl goes off and lives by herself it is because her family lives in the country, and she goes to live near her work in town. On occasion, as your informant told you, a girl who has the wherewithal may take an apartment in which she lives alone. But should she go to live alone in the same town as her family, it would naturally be supposed that either she and her family do not get on well together or they do not approve of her friends or her way of life. In neither case would people approve of the situation. As in nearly all disapprovals there can be exceptions. Such for example as that of an invalid in the family. At least I happen to know of a mother who is so nervous, no one can speak above a whisper or let a bell ring or even walk except on tip-toe. Her daughter was not free to see a friend—either man or girl. She is moreover a musician. She therefore took a bungalow as far as possible from neighbors who might be disturbed by her practicing. In this case no one disapproved, but should a young girl of eighteen or nineteen go off by herself so that she can be free to see whom she likes when she likes, she may as well realize that the squawk of Mrs. Grundy's jackdaws will be heard all around town.

A Problem in Rings

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been wearing a lovely engagement ring for several months. Now I've decided I'd like to have one of the revived styles of wide gold wedding rings, but the only thing is these wedding rings can not be worn with a large engagement ring. After the wedding I suppose I could wear the engagement ring on my right hand. What do you think of this plan? Or might I wear my wedding ring on my right hand?

Answer: No, not your wedding ring on your right hand; but there is no reason why you shouldn't wear your engagement ring on your right hand if you want to! In other words, an engagement ring on the third finger of your left hand announces that you are engaged. But after you are married your wedding ring announces your status and has really replaced your engagement ring. It should not matter (except to you) which finger you wear it on.

Farewell Party

A farewell party was given Monday evening, December 14, in honor of John Joseph Fuoco of 194 First avenue, by his wife and mother-in-law. He left for Camp Upton, Wednesday.

Kingston and Newburgh Quintets Clash Tonight

Locals Will Meet Strong Squad and Outcome Should Be Guide for Season

The 1942-43 basketball season will get under way for Kingston High School tonight when Coach G. Warren Kias' cagers travel downstate to meet the Newburgh Free Academy team on their home court. The outcome of this fray may well be an indication of how Kingston will fare during the entire campaign, since the Goldbacks have a fairly strong squad.

Tonight's battle should prove of great interest, not only because it is a league tilt, but because Kingston and Newburgh, traditional rivals, always give their best when pitted against each other. Added to that is the fact that Kingston will be out to avenge last year's game, which, although the Maroon cagers decisively beat Newburgh, 36-25, was declared unofficial by the DUSO League, because the referee had failed to appear and a local man substituted for him.

The Goldbacks, paced by their two stars, Johnny Antonucci and Buddy Maher, have won two games and dropped one so far this year. The lone setback was administered by Beacon, last week, in a long, tough game that went into two overtime periods. In this game, Newburgh led during most of the first three sessions, weakening only in the second overtime period. Prior to that, Coach W. Irving Goewey's squad had defeated both Cornwall and Highland. Kingston, on the other hand, has played only one game this season, beating Saugerties, 30-25, last Friday.

The Maroon and White hopes for tonight's clash rest mainly on the shoulders of high-scorer Rod Sagendorf, Capt. "Zeke" Zelie, and "Sanky" McGrane. McGrane will probably start at one of the forward slots, by merit of his fine showing in the Saugerties tilt. Sagendorf has a personal grudge against the N. F. A. cagers because the 16 points which he registered in last season's "unofficial" contest could not be counted in the race for DUSO high-scorer. Zelie had a bad night against Saugerties, only collecting three points, but is expected to hit his last year's stride this evening.

Coach Kias will probably start Sagendorf, and either McGrane or Les Morton at forward, Zelie at the pivot position and Fred Parslow and Fred Dressell in the backcourt, while Antonucci, Maher Sonny Santorine, Tom Victor and either Al Rhodes or Mickey Fescoe will take the floor for the downstaters. Since Newburgh has no Jayvee team, the preliminary will be a contest between two junior high school teams from the Hilly City.

Tonight's game is expected to be extremely close and hard fought with neither team winning by too great a margin.

All With Spotless Records

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Madison Square Garden basketball fans will be treated to something of a novelty tomorrow night when all four teams involved in a college doubleheader appear with spotless records. St. John's, with four straight victories, meets Oklahoma, which has won its three starts. The other game pits N.Y.U., with a winning streak of five, against Syracuse, which has won its only start.

Head for Pasadena

Athens, Ga., Dec. 18 (AP)—Forty-two University of Georgia football players and their coaches headed today for Pasadena, Calif., and their New Year's Day Rose Bowl engagement with the Bruins of U.C.L.A.

Using ferrets, rabbit hunters in Eire are making record profits this year.

Johnny Mize Leading Slugger in Nationals

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Dec. 18 (AP) — The leading slugger in the National League last season, official records released today showed, was Johnny Mize of the New York Giants.

The husky first baseman who was traded from the St. Louis Cardinals after the 1941 season because they thought he had passed his peak, led the senior circuit this year in runs batted in with 110 and had a slugging percentage of .521 based on his extra base hitting.

Mize's batting average was .305, but in return for his 541 times at bat he collected 282 total bases, including 26 homers, 25 doubles and seven triples.

Right behind Mize in slugging percentage was his manager and teammate, Mel Ott, with .497, followed by Enos Slaughter, St. Louis .494; Stan Musial, St. Louis .490; and Ernie Lombardi, Boston, the batting champion, with .482.

Dolph Camilli of Brooklyn, who led in runs batted in a year ago, finished a close second last season with 109. Only Mize and Camilli succeeded in knocking across more than a hundred.

Along with the figures on slugging, the National League also released a miscellany of other records.

Ott, for instance, received 109 bases on balls to lead the league for the sixth time and make the tenth year in which he has received more than 100 walks. His lifetime total of 1,444 is a record. Ott's 93 runs batted in also boosted his record total to 1,648.

Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburgh led in strikeouts with 87, two more than Camilli. A year ago Camilli was the leader with 115 and DiMaggio fanned 100 times.

Nicholas (Mickey) Witek of the Giants, who was the leading second baseman on the basis of fielding percentage, hit into the most double plays, 23.

Bill Nicholson of the Cubs and Dick Bartell of the Giants tied for being hit most often by pitchers, each with eight.

The Cardinals, enroute to winning the pennant and world championship, proved themselves the best home club in the league, but the Dodgers were tops on the road. At home St. Louis won 60 and lost 17 while Brooklyn won 57 and lost 22. On the road Brooklyn won 47 and lost 28 while St. Louis won 46 and lost 31.

The Cardinals were the most proficient at winning shutout games, bagging 18 while being blanked themselves seven times. In the same category Brooklyn won 10 and lost eight.

The Cardinals had the best record in extra-inning games—winning 12, losing five and playing two ties. Brooklyn won 13 and lost seven.

Team Honors Go To Baseball Again

St. Louis Cardinals Are Choice of Sports Writers

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—It may be tradition, or it may be just habit that is tough to break, but whatever the reason the sports writers taking part in the annual Associated Press poll to determine the outstanding team of the year just can't get away from baseball.

This year it is the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals who hit the jackpot, making the eleventh straight time the honor as the outstanding team has gone to the diamond.

With a total of 206 points, and with 47 of the 84 experts nominating it for the No. 1 spot, the team which overtook and passed the Brooklyn Dodgers in a hectic National League race and then went on to whip the highly-favored New York Yankees in the World Series won the poll by a comfortable margin.

The Chicago Bear pro football team, in fact, was the only real competition for the Red Birds. The Bears, winners of 24 straight games before being knocked off by the Washington Redskins last Sunday, drew 30 first-place votes and a total of 148 points.

Only two other teams received first-place votes. The Ohio State football team was considered tops by five voters, and two voters rated the Georgia football team best. Ohio State received a total of 65 points and Georgia 19.

The undefeated Tulsa football team drew a total of 11 points, the New York Yankee baseball team 8, the Washington Redskins 7, and the Stanford Basketball team 4. Most of the ballots were in before the Redskins defeated the Bears, or the Washington footballers might have fared better.

Two groups received three points each, Great Lakes drawing its three through the combination of its basketball, baseball and football teams, and the Harvard crew getting a like number. Two points apiece went to the Illinois basketball team, the West Virginia basketball team and the Wisconsin football team.

Drawing one third-place vote each were the Yale swimming team, the Denver American Legion cagers, the St. Louis Browns, the Rhode Island basketball team, the Washington, Ind., High School basketball team, the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey team, the Medford, Mass., High School football team, the Boston College football team, the Oshkosh all-star basketball team, and the U. S. Naval Aviation Skeet shooting team.

Yanks-Cleveland In First Player Trade in League

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Dec. 18 (AP) — The American League's first player trade since the 1942 baseball season ended left the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians both better fortified today for the 1943 pennant race—if any.

The deal, announced yesterday by President Ed Barrow of the Yankees, sent Catcher Buddy Rosar and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine to the Indians for Outfielder Roy Weatherly and Oscar Grimes, an infield handyman.

There was no cash involved in the transaction. It also was an even swap from the standpoint of the military draft, an important consideration in any baseball deal these days. All four players have families and are classified 3-A.

Observers labeled the transaction the perfect trade, since it fills weak spots on both teams. Also, with Weatherly teaming up with Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller, it may give the Yankees the fastest outfield in the league.

Grimes, however, appeared to be the key man in the deal for the Yankees, who need infield insurance now that Phil Rizzuto is in the Navy, Red Rolfe is at Yale as a coach, Buddy Hassett is reported headed for the armed forces and Frank Crosetti is under suspension for the first 30 days of the 1943 season.

An all-around infielder, Grimes has played all four positions since he joined the Indians in 1938. He batted .179 in 51 games last season.

On the other hand, Rosar appeared to be the key man on the Cleveland side of the deal. The Indians were badly in need of a catcher. Their backstopping chores last season were handled principally by Rookie Jim Hegan and a minor league veteran, Otto Denning. Hegan has gone to the armed forces.

Rosar, a product of the Yankee farm system and second-string catcher for the bombers since 1939, batted .230 in 69 games last season, but he became the forgotten man after jumping the club in July to take an examination for the Buffalo, N. Y., police force, which he flunked. He was fined $250 and saw little action the rest of the season.

Cullenbine, who came to the Yanks from the Washington Senators late in August to replace Right Fielder Tommy Henrich when Tommy went to the Coast Guard, played in 123 games with both clubs in 1942 and hit .276.

Weatherly, who has had two hitches at Cleveland — the last since 1938—played in 128 games and batted .258 last season.

United Parents' Group Urges Hygiene Teaching

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Describing as "appalling" the incidence of veneral diseases among adolescents, the United Parents Association of New York has joined the city's health commissioner in urging public teaching of sex hygiene to older school children.

In letters yesterday to the commissioner, Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins, and Superintendent of Schools John E. Wade, Association President Julius Greenwald declared:

"Many parents are struggling to meet the problem, but feel unequipped by their training and the very nature of their emotional involvement in their children's welfare properly to instruct their adolescent children on this highly complex subject."

Greenwald asked that the Board of Education, which has decided to keep such courses out of the schools, reconsider, asserting that "our young people turn to the movies, lurid magazines, to street corners, back stairs and even more vicious sources for their information."

He proposed courses for parents as well as high school and college classes "where the subject can be handled objectively by trained people under controlled conditions."

Stebbins last week suggested the course for pupils from 15 to 19, releasing figures showing that in that group syphilis had increased from 212 cases in 1941 to 260 in 1942, and gonorrhea from 990 to 1,288.

Larkin-Jack Bout Tonight for Lightweight Title

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—For the folks who can't remember the last time they were able to ask the butcher to chop a round steak up into hamburger, Madison Square Garden tonight offers a world lightweight title fight between Tippy Larkin and Beau Jack.

This is the same world lightweight championship Sammy Angott left in one piece when he abdicated a few weeks back. Since then, however, the New York State Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association have been doing a little carving on it.

As a result, when Tippy and Beau finish flailing each other in their 15 rounder, which Promoter Mike Jacobs figures will lure a gaudy gate of $50,000 and a crowd of at least 15,000, the neatly-stitched 135-pound title doily will start to come apart at the beams.

The New York Commission has arranged that the winner tonight can stop dreaming of a white Christmas, because the 135-pound crown—that part of it recognized in New York and New Jersey—will be handed to him and that's a gift any of the boys would like to find in his sock Christmas morning.

But the N. B. A. claims this title recognition constitutes a case of "hand picking" a champion, and will not sanction any head man until a nationwide tournament is completed. So with New York blessing tonight's winner, the N. B. A. aiming toward another possibility and the Maryland delegation still to be heard from, it begins to look like open season.

There's talk Maryland may recognize someone else altogether.

Tonight's Santa Claus job is being done by General John J. Phelan. The august head of the New York Commission and his co-commissioners originally agreed with the N. B. A. idea. Then in what N. B. A. Prexy Abe Greene says was the about face of the year the empire state solons decided to give their blessing to the victor between the slim Jersey Italian and the busy little Georgia negro. Afterward, the New York fistic fathers will sponsor a tourney to decide who will get first crack at the "title" thus won.

Jack, a windmill kind of fighter who skyrocketed out of the locker room of the Augusta National Golf Club a couple of years ago, is a 5 to 8 facorite to turn the trick tonight, despite the fact he was regarded as just a pretty good club fighter with not too much class until he knocked off Allie Stolz a couple of months ago.

Although he'll crowd and charge continually, Larkin, who learned his fighting around New Jersey C. C. C. camps, is a cinch to outbox him but many of the experts believe Tippy'll get discouraged at having Beau in his lap round after round.

Tulsa Team Won't Be Without Rooting Section

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 18 (AP)—Tulsa University's Golden Hurricane off today for New Orleans and the Sugar Bowl, won't be without a rooting section in the New Year's game with Tennessee — despite travel curtailment which is keeping the home fans at home.

A campaign to put tickets in the hands of service men in New Orleans—if they'll cheer for dear Old Tulsa—promised today to take up a lot of the slack left by recall of some 5,000 tickets Tulsans were clamoring to buy, until the ODT stepped in.

It was Sam Avey's idea. It hit the Oklahoma sports promoter so suddenly that before he recovered from the shock he had pulled $25 out of his pocket to start the ball rolling.

"About 5,000 or 6,000 fans would have gone from here to New Orleans in normal times," Avey explained. "Now, if these people will kick in the money they would have spent for tickets, we can pay the admission of a lot of soldiers and sailors who'll be far from home on New Year's. . .

"At the same time, we can build up a good rooting section for Tulsa, and the boys will need it when they run into that tough Tennessee team."

Service men will be admitted to the Sugar Bowl at $1.10 each, considerably less than civilians, and before Avey's brain child was two hours old there was enough money in the fund to buy tickets for a hundred. He hopes there'll be enough for a few thousand.

More Work for Prisoners

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—The New York Correction Department's industries division has new contracts to provide 50,000 two-piece fatigue suits for the army, and 120,000 work shirts for the navy. Announcing the contracts yesterday, Governor Poletti disclosed that inmates of state prisons also are manufacturing approximately 900,000 yards of osnaburg cloth for the Defense Supplies Corporation, and 1,000 special carpenter's chests for the War Department.

Tags Go on Sale

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—Officials of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau estimated about 2,000,000 automobiles will be licensed by New York motorists in the 1943 registration beginning today. A drop of 725,000 from the 1942 registration is expected because of gasoline and tire rationing. Car owners will receive a 10-inch steel strip bearing the legend "N.Y.-43" to bolt over the date on the 1942 plate.

Coaches of East All Stars Get First Look at Squad

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 18 (AP)—The coaching staff of the East All-Stars got a first look at its squad today as the collegians assembled at Northwestern University before moving on to San Francisco and the annual East-West benefit football game on New Year's Day.

Co-Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dr. George Hauser of Minnesota and Assistant Dudley De Groot of the University of Rochester planned to run the 21 men through drills today. The squad was to leave tonight (9 p. m. C.W.T.) on a non-trip to the West coast.

The 18th meeting of the East and West All-Stars is expected to net $60,000 for the shrine crippled children fund and war relief. The game was played in New Orleans last time.

The squad consists of three All-Americas—, End Dave Schreiner of Wisconsin, tackle Dick Wildung of Minnesota and back Paul Governali of Columbia, one of the country's outstanding passers and punters this season.

Others on the squad are ends, Bob Dove, Notre Dame; Bill Burkett, Iowa, and Ed Murphy, Holy Cross; tackles, Al Wistert, Michigan, Al Klug, Marquette, and Tom Vochs, Colgate; guards John Billmann, Minnesota; Morton Shickman, Penn; Harry Wright, Notre Dame, and Tom Alberghini, Holy Cross; centers Spencer Mosley, Yale, and Joe Sabasteanski, Fordham; backs Bill Daley, Minnesota; Max Kielbasa, Duquesne; George Lynn, Ohio State; Steve Filipowicz, Fordham; George Ceithaml, Michigan, and Bert Stiff, Penn.

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of The First National Bank of Rondout for the election of directors, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting will be held at the banking house, No. 10 Broadway, in the City of Kingston, Tuesday, January 12th, 1943, between the hours of 11 A. M. and 12 Noon.

Not Guilty Plea In Driving Case

Irving Van Kleeck Pleads Not Guilty in Court

Irving Reynolds Van Kleeck, 26, of the West Shore Hotel pleaded not guilty to a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning. The hearing was adjourned to next Wednesday, and Judge Cahill fixed bail at $500.

Van Kleeck was arrested at 2:50 o'clock this morning on Broadway, near Cornell street, by Officers Joseph Fallon and Walter McDonough, in one of the police radio cars. The officers say that Van Kleeck was driving a truck on the left side of the street at the time he was arrested.

Julio Amoros of New York city, who had completed a two-day jail sentence Thursday on a charge of public intoxication, was picked up at 3 o'clock this morning on a similar charge when found on John street. Later in the morning Judge Cahill sentenced Amoros to six days in jail.

"A" cards would be temporary and possibly for only a few days.

The O.P.A. notice made no mention of suspension of "A" cards, which had been reported under consideration last night at tense conferences of O.P.A. and war petroleum administration officials, but no explanation was immediately available for possible future plans or the exact time involved.

The order came under quick fire from John Dressler of Hackensack, N. J., chairman of the executive committee of the eastern states conference of gasoline dealers, organized to meet rationing problems on the seaboard.

"What is 'an emergency' and how are you going to stop them from going from one station to another?" asked Dressler.

"Suspension of all A coupons would have been sound because it left open for use the 'B' and 'C' cards for essential purposes, but this new order has me puzzled."

Dressler said representatives of the retail gasoline business wished a chance, with or without salary, "to show them in Washington what can and what can't work."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 18 (AP)—Many stock market favorites today extended Thursday's speediest rally of the year by modest amounts but some leaders displayed a lack of follow-through steam.

There was little change in the good war news picture, tax offerings continued to be taken in stride and bullish thinking still predominated in Wall Street. Profit cashing, however, appeared as a handicap when suggestions were heard that the run-up of the day before may have been a bit too fast.

The list moved ahead irregularly at the start, with selected issues tacking on gains of fractions to a point or so at new peaks for the year or longer. Low-priced stocks again accounted for much of the turnover. Dealings slackened at intervals. Gainers predominated near the fourth hour.

Commodities advanced. Bonds turned narrow.

Among stocks at top marks for 1942 were Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Co., Chrysler, Goodyear, Deere, Oliver Farm, American Airlines, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum. A few of these eventually slipped. Allied Chemical and Norfolk & Western got up two each on restricted trades. Occasional losers included Santa Fe, du Pont, International Harvester, J. I. Case, United Aircraft and Cerro de Pasco.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Pennies, Nickels Return to Use in Yuletide Buying

Trade Channels Get Coins Which Haven't Been in Circulation for Long, Long Years

Washington, Dec. 18 (AP)—The treasury's campaign to put idle coins into circulation for the Christmas shopping trade is coming along nicely, officials reported today—and with some astonishing results.

Pennies and nickels which have not seen the light of day for years are now back into trade channels, where they are helping to relieve demands on the mint for new pieces.

The record to date for turning in the largest number is held by a University of Pittsburgh professor, J. Elwood Amos, who, with the aid of his economics students, gathered up 1,000,000 pennies, the entire "harvest" weighing three quarters of a ton.

Professor Amos proudly reported to Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, that one freshman class at the university counted 500,000 of the coins "without losing a penny."

The Chicago Daily News offered a $25 war bond for the most unusual coin receptacle, and in one day was deluged with 500,000 pennies. The $25 prize was won by a person who turned up with a 200 year old charcoal burning flat iron, which disgorged $15 in pennies and nickels.

In Cleveland, a war worker turned in 60 glass banks containing more than 10,000 Jefferson nickels which he had been collecting for three years. He exchanged them for "folding money" which he said he was going to apply on the mortgage on his home.

Out in Owantanna, Minn., two banks ran advertisements in the local newspapers urging cooperation in the campaign and in one week received 32,713 pennies and 5,316 nickels in addition to their regular deposits.

In cooperation with the local civilian defense council, the students of the College of the City of New York collected 10,000 pennies in two weeks, devoting one day a week to the task. They have informed the director of the mint they hope to raise these collections to 10,000 a week.

Mrs. Ross said that school children and school officials throughout the country were cooperating wholeheartedly in the drive, which was initiated to relieve a growing shortage of small coins, especially pennies and nickels.

Oldest Press Club 'Pen and Pencil,' Observes 50th Year

Celebration Will Be Held Tonight at Glamorous Old Philadelphia Gathering Place

Philadelphia, Dec. 18 (AP)—It's always looked like a corner taproom, but—

Thurston the magician called frequently—and picked up several new card tricks.

Richard Harding Davis made it his hangout, and so did Gallagher, his famous cabbie, and so, according to legend, did Gallagher's horse, who liked to stand up to the bar and drink with the boys.

They'll all probably be there in spirit tonight, for tonight the Pen and Pencil Club, oldest press club in the nation, observes its 50th anniversary.

The club, a hangout of the great and near-great of three generations, is celebrating by throwing a party at which copy boys may argue with editors, and statesmen, industrialists, thespians and politicians can have their say, too. But regardless of their names, once inside the celebrities will have to fend for themselves. It's all going to be very informal.

The club, whose members include Republican editorialists and ardent typewriter strategists, already has received congratulatory messages from President Roosevelt and General MacArthur. The President praised the working press for its understanding of its obligations, and MacArthur messaged from Australia:

"Tell your members from an old soldier at the front that the pen is still mightier than the sword."

There'll be stories told tonight, too, and by reporters who wouldn't be caught dead winking at the truth.

They'll recall the tale that Gallagher used to unfetter his horse in front of the club so that, when he tired of waiting, he could come in and sip beer.

They'll remember that George M. Cohan was an enthisiastic member, that Ed Wynn supposedly started his comedy career by entertaining copy readers, that Victor Herbert made the club his Philadelphia headquarters, that Johnny Black wrote "Dardanella" at a table not far from the bar, and that William Jennings Bryan visited the club although he was a dry.

The club, in membership, at least, always has been stag. The only woman member was Elizabeth M. Murray, the torch singing comedienne of the 1890's, whose songs the members liked so well that they voted her in.
